...TEER COURSE ...ET BY LINCOLN, ...OOVER PLEADS

...noors Soldier Dead at Gettysburg.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

...burg, Pa., May 30.—[Special.]—In a Memorial day address before a great crowd in the Gettysburg national cemetery President Hoover ...sketched an ideal of leadership ...ormed after that of Lincoln.

...Bearing in mind perhaps the ...ticisms directed against his own ...ctivity in the legislative controversies of his first year in the White ...use, Mr. Hoover defended a course ...f moderation such as he ascribed to ...s civil war president. As he spoke ...not far from the spot where ...ncoln dedicated the cemetery with ...s immortal Gettysburg address, Mr. ...over is the sixth president to have ...spoken on the famous battlefield.

..."We shall be wise to ponder here," ...President Hoover, "what precious ...ealth of human life might have been ...reserved, what rivers of tears might ...have flowed, what anguish of souls ...might never have been, what spiritual ...unions of our people might have ...been avoided, if only our leadership ...had always been tempered by the ...wisdom and calm vision of Lin-

Preaches Rule of Reason.

..."Were his day reason has not always ...ruled instead of passion, knowledge has not always been sought in ...spirit of reliance upon improvised conclusions, patience has not ever delayed the ...ominous feet of reckless ambition, quiet negotiation has not always ...stilled the clamor of the hustings, ...prudent common counsel has not invariably overcome the allurements of ...strategic folly, good will has not ...always won the day over cynicism and ...mockery.

..."But the ideas which he inspired ...have served to mold our national life ...and have brought in time great spiritual unity; his words have poured their ...healings of restraint and inspiration ...upon each new generation."

President Hoover motored from ...Washington, arriving early this afternoon to find a huge throng choking ...the streets in the town and filling ...the open within hearing distance of ...the cemetery rostrum.

Lays Wreath on Lincoln Shaft.

...Before the exercises began Mr. Hoover placed a wreath on the monument ...which marks the spot where Lincoln ...delivered his address nearly 67 years ...ago. The President also watched Get...tysburg school children scatter flowers ...over the graves of the soldier dead, ...over 1,500 of whom lie buried there. ...Among the speakers' stand were a number of civil war veterans, including ...several who had figured in the desperate ...three day Gettysburg battle of July, ...1863. One Confederate veteran, Wil...liam Haines, 93 years of age, was in ...the group. Also given a place of ...honor was Mrs. M. O. Smith of Han...over, Pa., who was in the choir on the ...occasion of the dedication of the cem...etery by Lincoln in November, 1863. ...Gen. John S. Fisher of Pennsylvania ...presided. Others on the platform in...cluded Pennsylvania state officials, Sec...retary of War P. J. Hurley, Henry P. ...Fletcher, former ambassador to Italy, ...a Pennsylvanian, and other members ...of the President's official family. Mrs. ...Hoover was unable to make the trip.

Lunches at Ritchie Camp.

...En route to Gettysburg the Presi...dent lunched at the camp of Law...rence Richey, one of his secretaries, ...at Catoctin Furnace, Md. From ...Gettysburg the President motored 140 ...miles further north to spend the week-...end at the fishing preserve of Jay ...Cooke III, of Philadelphia, near Wil...liamsport, Pa. The presidential party ...arrived there early this evening. The ...President will spend tomorrow fish...ing and return to Washington Sunday. ...Perfect weather was provided for ...the outdoor exercises at the Gettys...burg cemetery, unlike that of two ...years ago, when President Coolidge ...was a speaker and rain marred the ...occasion. The luxuriant green of the ...trees and shrubbery was at its best ...and there was a profusion of flowers.

President Pays Tribute.

...President Hoover in opening his address paid tribute to the dead Gettysburg veterans and extended good ...wishes to those who still survive.

..."Every American's thought of this ...battlefield of Gettysburg flashes ...with the instant vision of the lonely ...figure of Lincoln, whose immortal ...words dominate this scene," he said. ..."No monument can be erected here ...to add that enduring as that simple ...address, which has become a part of ...the place.

..."Greater than the tribute of granite or bronze remains that memorable ...message to the American people. That

JAIL STORMED BY MOB AFTER NEGRO SUSPECT

Chickasha, Okla., May 30.—(AP)—A mob late tonight battered down the front door of the county jail here in an effort to gain custody of Henry Argo, Negro, who is alleged to have attacked a white woman.

The men immediately rushed to the second floor, where the Negro was held, but were unable to reach him because of a solid steel door. Capt. E. B. Smith of the Oklahoma National Guard and Lieut. H. G. White, succeeded in forcing the crowd back to the ground floor, where they milled about the corridors.

Adjt. Gen. Charles F. Barrett of the Oklahoma National Guard ordered Capt. Smith to mobilize Battery B, 189th field artillery, and report to Sheriff Mat Sanky in an effort to prevent mob violence.

The first detachment of about a dozen men arrived in a truck upon which a machine gun was mounted and fired a volley of blank cartridges above the heads of the mob. The crowd began to disperse, but gathered near the jail again within a few minutes.

Woman Killed by Propeller After Air Trip

Stepping accidentally into the arc of a whirling airplane propeller, Mrs. Vera Meier, 2149 Karlov avenue, was fatally injured yesterday at the Champaign airport. The blades struck her in the forehead and she died thirty minutes later in a hospital.

With her husband and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Meier had just completed a flight in a plane piloted by Art Carnahan of Bloomington. When the party alighted Mrs. Meier remarked that she had enjoyed the ride, and before any one could stop her walked directly into the idling propeller.

The monoplane was the machine from which Mrs. Florence Palmer, 19 years old, of Normal, Ill., made a fatal parachute leap at Bloomington on Sunday. The chute failed to open and Pilot Carnahan could do nothing to stop her drop. Mrs. Meier's body will be brought here for burial.

Plane Dives Into Auto.

La Salle, Ill., May 30.—[Special.]—A Travel-Air open type plane of the La Salle-Peru Airways company, landing at La Salle airport today with three Chicago sightseeing passengers, struck an automobile moving at 40 miles an hour. Both plane and car were overturned, but the eight persons riding in them escaped without serious injuries.

The air passengers, Thomas Ferguson, 50 years old, 3033 Poplar avenue, Chicago; Fred Morrell, 55 years old, 6244 Eddy street, Chicago, and Morrell's 9 year old son, Fred Jr., were thrown from their seats, landing twenty feet away. They escaped with slight injuries, as did the pilot, Glen Brown of La Salle.

Edward W. Draber, 22 years old, of Peoria, who was driving the car, suffered a nose fracture and possible internal injuries. His companions, Jesse Crowl, 22 years old, and Miss Mildred Roth, 19, both of Peoria, and Miss Margaret Murphy, 19, of Glassford, were less seriously hurt.

WALGREEN AIRPLANE FALLS.

In view of thousands of spectators of the Memorial parade yesterday, Charles R. Walgreen's amphibion Sikorsky, a ten passenger plane, became disabled over the lake and made a forced landing on the water, one of the wing floats being damaged.

The pilot, Carl Vickery, a mechanic, B. J. Pritchard, and a radio engineer, John W. Million Jr., were aloft in the ship, making tests of a radio set which Mr. Walgreen, owner of the drug store chain, had ordered installed. The ship was at a 1,000 foot altitude when a clogged fuel line stopped the right motor of the two engine ship.

Vickery shut off the unimpaired engine and banked the Sikorsky towards the surface. The ship struck the water with a splash, the force crumpling one of the floats. A crew from the Central coast guard put out in a boat to offer aid, which was declined. The Sikorsky taxied to Oak street and was taken ashore.

Parachute Jumper Killed.

Mount Vernon, Ill., May 30.—[Special.]—Ray Mahan, local aviator, was killed this afternoon when his parachutes failed to open after a jump from his plane at 2,500 feet. He carried three chutes, planning to cut loose from one, fall 1,000 feet and then open another. Neither of the first two opened and the third became entangled with them. About 2,000 people witnessed the tragedy.

One Killed, One Hurt.

Fairmont, W. Va., May 30.—(AP)—Everett Arnholt, 30, of Coshocton, O., was killed and Lieut. Loren H. Scott of Marietta, O., was critically hurt at Arnettsville, near here, tonight as their plane crashed while fireworks were being set off from the plane.

Pilot and Student Die.

Killed in Parachute Leap.

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 30.—(AP)—Harvey John Fahring, flying cadet of Kelly Field, Tex., was killed today in an attempted emergency parachute jump from a plane three miles south of Tipton, Okla. A second cadet, L. E. Hunt, made a succesful leap. Fahring's parachute became entangled with the struts of the plane.

JOHNSON OF NEBRASKA IS THE CONGRESSIONAL HORSESHOE CHAMPION

Washington, D. C., May 30.—(AP)—Through default of all senatorial "barnyard" golfers, Representative Fred G. Johnson of Nebraska today won a set of silver plated horseshoes and title of congressional horseshoe pitching champion.

Before the title came his way, however, he had to overcome the sharpshooting of Representative Albert H. Vestal of Indiana, who had piled up a ten point lead in the first nine rounds.

The judges were almost ready to hand Vestal the prize when, in the tenth round, Johnson pitched a ringer, then threw another, and finally, at the 20th round, pitched one point more than Vestal, winning, 21 to 20.

GRAF FIGHTING STIFF WINDS OFF NORFOLK

Due at New York Early Today.

BULLETIN.

Lakehurst, N. J., May 31.—(AP)—The United States naval dirigible Los Angeles took off at 1:05 a. m. (Chicago daylight time) today on a southern cruise, with expectations that it might meet the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin, which was en route to Lakehurst.

BULLETIN.

Norfolk, Va., May 30.—(AP)—At 11:35 tonight the Graf Zeppelin radioed its position as 90 miles southeast of Norfolk, about 50 or 60 miles off the coast, and Commander Eckener told the Hampton Roads naval base that he hoped to reach Lakehurst about 6 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Lakehurst, N. J., May 30.—[Special.]—With the Graf Zeppelin rapidly nearing the end of its 4,500 mile journey from Pernambuco to the United States, the naval air station here prepared to welcome it early tomorrow morning.

The latest message received at the radio station here from the Graf Zeppelin reported the ship's position at 10:45 p. m. eastern daylight savings time, tonight, as 300 miles south of New York, speed about 48 knots [around 56 miles an hour].

On the basis of advices from naval communications at Washington officials at Lakehurst figured the Zeppelin would arrive over New York between 5 and 6 a. m. It was expected to moor here around 7 or 8 a. m.

Aided by Tail Winds.

The Zeppelin had the advantage of a strong tail wind and sped north at an average speed of between 80 and 90 land miles an hour.

At 6 p. m. it reported its position to the navy department as 410 miles from Lakehurst, with its course set on a straight line for New York. The position placed it 212 miles eastsoutheast of Cape Hatteras.

Comparing this position with the one given for 3 p. m., the Zeppelin was shown to have made more than 95 land miles per hour during the three hour period.

A Later Calculation.

At 9:45 p. m., according to Associated Press dispatches from Washington, the Graf's position was calculated by naval officials as 85 nautical miles east of Oregon Inlet, N. C., 187 nautical miles nearer its destination than at 6 p. m. Their calculations showed that the ship was nearer the coast and reduced its average speed to approximately 50 nautical miles an hour.

The first definite word that the big airship could be expected tomorrow morning instead of Saturday night or possibly not until Sunday morning, as had been expected, came at 5:05 a. m. when over San Juan the Graf radioed:

"Heading for Lakehurst directly; expect arrive there Saturday morning."

Havana Is Annoyed.

Cablegrams from the Cuban capital said that considerable feeling was manifested by the residents of that city over the failure of Commander Hugo to pay them a visit. Extensive preparations had been made for a reception there and the hotels of the city were crowded with visitors for the event.

ABOARD THE GRAF

ABOARD THE GRAF ZEPPELIN, 9 p. m. ship's time, May 30.—After running through heavy rain and gales late this afternoon we struck at 9 p. m. a strong wind shift off Cape Hatteras, the wind changing within a half minute from 14 meters in the south shift to a strength of 21 meters in the east and the temperature dropping from 21 to 15 degrees centigrade (from 68 to 60 degrees Fahrenheit).

We still are 350 miles from Lakehurst, which in spite of the now opposing wind we should reach at 5 o'clock in the morning, probably continuing to the home of W. B. Leeds at Oyster Bay and landing at 7 or 8 o'clock at Lakehurst.

Three persons will leave within 15 minutes from the landing by airplanes —namely: Mr. Durell, Mr. Crouse, and his sister.

Battle Gale to Rescue 46 of 62 Aboard

BULLETIN.

Santa Monica, Cal., May 30.—(AP)—Chief of Police Clarence E. Webb of Santa Monica late tonight said that forty-nine persons of the sixty-two aboard the fishing boat Ameco when it sank in a sudden squall late today had been accounted for. Three were known to be dead, forty-six had been rescued, and thirteen were missing.

Santa Monica, Cal., May 30.—[Special.]—A total of 16 persons were probably drowned when the deep sea fishing excursion boat Ameco capsized a mile and a half off shore about 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Rescue work was hampered by huge breakers and a stiff northwesterly gale. An accurate report of the number and identity of the victims could not be had, even after hours had passed, due to the fact no complete list was kept of the men, women, and boys who went aboard the boat a few hours previously for a Memorial day outing. Tonight 26 persons had been received in hospitals here. Following are the names of the identified dead:

MISS MARGARET KELLER, 20, Los Angeles.
JOHN H. LOCKHARD, Pasadena.
C. C. BARNETT, Los Angeles.

Names of the Missing.

One Boat Rescues 22.

Twenty-two men and boys were brought ashore half drowned and semi-conscious by the fishing launch Freedom. All available launches, fishing boats, and yachts in the Santa Monica, Venice, and Ocean Park beach area joined in the rescue work.

The captain of the Ameco, Capt. William Lightfoot, and his crew of two sailors, James Hobson and Henry Vandenburg, were among those brought ashore.

How Tragedy Occurred.

The following account of the disaster was reconstructed from the stories of passengers:

The Ameco, a 45 foot power craft, after pulling out with sixty-two passengers, suddenly ran into a northwesterly squall. Unable to make headway into the wind, Capt. Lightfoot is believed to have given orders to turn about and head for Santa Monica, but the maneuver sent the Ameco into the trough of a roaring sea and capsized her.

Here's Captain's Story.

"We were under power returning to the docks," Capt. Lightfoot said, "when some very big swells suddenly were blown up by a strong wind and broke over our bows. Every one ran to the port side. The effect of the waves and the shift in passengers caused the boat to keel over and it sank almost immediately."

R. L. Brown, 24, of Alhambra, Cal., one of those rescued, said:

"The thing happened so quickly that none of us had a chance to grab a life preserver from under the seats.

"In a fraction of a second we were all spilled into the sea. Some were caught under the boat. They drowned, I guess. Most of us, however, were thrown clear. The fact that many life preservers were thrown clear, too, saved our lives. We grabbed for them and kept ourselves afloat until rescued."

CAFE BOMB BLAST ROCKS HOSPITALS ON SOUTH SIDE

Two bombs were exploded in two cafés on the near south side late last night and early this morning, wrecking fronts of the places and shattering windows in houses for blocks around. The second bomb was in the restaurant of Jack O'Keefe at 2213 Archer avenue. The blast aroused patients in the People's and St. Luke's hospitals only a short distance away. O'Keefe, police said, is a relative by marriage of Hirshie Miller, well known to the police, but Adolph Mozer, night man, and Joseph Smith, the cook, denied that Miller was connected with the place.

The damage to the O'Keefe place was estimated at $2,000. In the earlier bombing the kosher restaurant of Max Goldstein at 821 West 14th street was the target. The bomb was placed in the front entrance and did damage estimated at $1,000. Goldstein and his wife, who live upstairs, were out motoring at the time of the explosion.

PARADE STAND CRASHES UNDER GOV. EMMERSON

A section of the reviewing stand, erected on Michigan avenue opposite the Stevens hotel for the Memorial parade yesterday, collapsed as the third division of the procession marched by. The accident unseated Gov. Emmerson and tumbled a score of his guests helter-skelter with military dignitaries into a trough formed by the sagging floor. Among them was Brig. Gen. James E. Stuart, 90 years old, the grand marshal of the parade.

As his chair skidded from under him, the governor stepped briskly to firm footing on the platform's edge, grasped the rail with his left hand and waved the right, seeking to reassure the excited thousands massed around the stand. But the screech of wrenching timbers and the shouts of policemen spread alarm, the parade halted and for a few tense minutes the situation threatened to get out of hand. The governor's calm and a police cordon flung around the stand, however, soon restored order.

Governor Enters the Stand.

Gov. Emmerson in an automobile had ridden near the head of the line of march and alighted at the reviewing stand at 3 p. m. Mrs. Emmerson was already seated in a section other than the one reserved for the governor.

The G. A. R. had passed, followed by the Spanish war veterans and their woman's auxiliary. It was 3:40 p. m. and the first contingents of the third parade division, representing American Legion posts, were swinging past the stand when the floor creaked.

"Something wrong here," remarked the governor. He was hitching his chair forward when the trestles supporting the floor split asunder and the floor planks sagged until they rested on the earth, four feet below.

Officers Pitched Out of Chairs.

Gen. Stuart and other officers were pitched out of their chairs. Among those unseated were Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the sixth corps army area; Col. Howard P. Savage, former national commander of the American Legion; Col. William E. Buehler and Mrs. Buehler, Col. C. O. Tripp, and Col. Marcus Stokes.

Governor Calms Throng.

Meanwhile the crowd was pressing against the stand and Gov. Emmerson, sensing the peril in the crush, stepped sideways along the platform edge to a sounder section of the stand immediately south, called his aides to join him, and took a chair. With the governor indicating his composure by a smiling and animated conversation and with the police bawling orders, the spectators fell back.

A band struck up the strains of "Old Glory," there were sharp commands, and the crowd's attention was again directed to the street as the parade swung ahead. The police announced that no one had been injured.

PARADE HONORS HEROES

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Once again Old Glory fluttered yesterday in the vanguard of the city's annual pageant of patriotism, the Memorial day parade, and Chicagoans by the thousands followed the flag down Michigan avenue.

From the first notes of a bugle that greeted the dawn in 106 city cemeteries, the bivouac of thousands of soldier dead, to the sinking rays of the sun that faded on the last phalanx of marchers in the vast procession of remembrance, it was a notable Memorial day. Bright sunlight enhanced the spectacle of brilliant uniforms and cavorting horses, while a faintly chill breeze ruffled the flags and stiffened the backs of the paraders.

25,000 March in Parade.

For its diversity, its unwieldly size, and its loosely organized divisions, the Memorial day parade was one of the most successful in the city's history. Starting scarcely half an hour behind the scheduled time of 2 o'clock from Chicago avenue, the last of the groups broke ranks at Roosevelt road about three hours later. In the interim considerably more than 25,000 pairs of feet had tramped the asphalt past the reviewing stand at the Logan monument at 9th street.

Directly behind them followed, in snappy cadence, the cadets from St. John's Military academy at Delafield, Wis., marching like West Pointers. The boys were honorary escorts to the reviewing officers.

Gen. Stuart Is Marshal.

Then the venerable grand marshal of the parade for the last ten years, Gen. James E. Stuart, just turned 90, passed with his staff. The Northwestern Military and Naval academy provided the honorary escort to the colors, just preceding the float on which rode Miss Annabelle Buchan as the Goddess of Liberty.

There was a pause after this division of the procession had passed Randolph street, and thereafter, as the march was resumed, the real heroes of the day flocked once more to the colors they defended in 1861. Spick and span of uniform, white of hair and tottery of step, comrades rose from the chairs on which they had been waiting their turn. There was a ruffle of drums, and the most important section of the parade was under way, with the onlookers clapping vigorously.

Fewer Year by Year.

The G. A. R. members grow fewer year by year, and each Memorial day finds familiar figures absent from the roll call at Randolph street. This year hundreds of spectators missed the waving long white hair and gentle jokes of Comrade Jim Ives, a prominent figure in many such parades. Each of the old soldiers wears a fresh red carnation on his coat lapel, and drummer boy Capt. R. D. Parker steps out with the best as he rolls a martial roll on the ancient drum carried fifty years ago by Billy Howard in company I, 13th Illinois Volunteers.

Seventy-five survivors of the civil war participated. Of that number forty-five were afoot, with the Sons of Union Veterans lending a helpful hand to those whose steps were too unsure, and the other thirty occupied the cars provided. Nobody yet, however, has persuaded one-legged George Lyle of the 9th U. S. cavalry that he needs any prop except the crutch with which he manipulates the long blocks down to the reviewing stand.

A small paragraph in yesterday's TRIBUNE, asking for automobiles to take the G. A. R. men home, brought out forty-seven, for which T. E. Beema of the Sons of Union Veterans expressed appreciation last night.

At the heels of the G. A. R. strutted the Lane Technical championship band, a youthful division in trim khaki, with overseas caps and Sam Browne belts, blaring out the Maine Stein marching melody.

Spanish Vets in Parade.

Another chapter of American history passes in review as the campaign hats and dark blue shirts with olive drab trousers herald the advance of the Spanish American war section. Many of the men who charged up San Juan hill marched in "civies," rounding out a surprisingly large column.

A silent fleet of motor cars moves down the boulevard, forty in all, and a strained silence falls on the crowd as they realize the hospitalized veterans of the world war are passing—those youthful, quiet faces and broken bodies over which the juggernaut of war has passed.

Then the file on file of American Legion posts, as the men who came back from the war bring vividly to the thronged street the memories only thirteen years old, of days when they marched away down that same boulevard. There are gaps in many of their ranks, and the graves in France are not forgotten as the hundreds sweep past.

There are majordomos with great white shakos in splendid uniforms and glittering heavy batons stepping high as they lead drum and bugle corps in every variation of color and from all parts of the city. Bagpipes squeal as a section of Scotch highlanders in green tartans and black tams goes past. Tin helmets glisten as the corps pass through shafts of sunlights between the skyscrapers' shadows, and a Legion post comprised entirely of Filipino boys gets "a big hand."

Allies of U. S. Represented.

Flags of the allies headed the groups of veterans of the various nations, and the police who held back the crowds along the sidewalks came smartly to salute as the Union Jack, the tricolor of France, and the other banners were carried past.

Army and navy forces were headed by Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn of the 33d division, Illinois National Guard. Capt. Edward A. Evers commanded the naval reserves, and Col. George C. Reid the marine reserve corps.

Many a spectator rubbed his eyes as an apparently real railroad train puffed its way down the boulevard. The Chicago and North Western post of the Legion contributed the rubber tired engine and coach, with realistic puffs of steam from the old fashioned smokestack of the "pioneer" adding to the illusion.

So it went—Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, police, fire department, Salvation Army, Red Cross ambulances, infantry, artilleryfi and last, but not least, Gold Star mothers. All moved at last past the reviewing stand, and the annual, reverential tribute to the dead of all wars was over.

Ceremonies in Suburbs.

Evanston's parade of more than 1,500 veterans and patriotic groups was reviewed from a stand on the Northwestern university campus, near Patten gymnasium, by Rear Admiral W. S. Crosley, commandant at Great Lakes, and Brig. Gen. Caspar H. Conrad Jr., commandant at Fort Sheridan. Speeches were eliminated, and a silent tribute was paid the war dead at the memorial boulder on the campus, where a wreath was placed, a salute fired, and "taps" sounded.

Oak Park ceremonies were held in Scoville park at the Soldiers' monument following a parade of G. A. R., Spanish American and world war organizations and their auxiliaries. Waters of the Des Plaines river were strewn with flowers, commemorating the navy dead.

Former United State's Senator James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic candidate for the senate in the fall election, was a speaker at the services conducted by the North Shore post of the Legion at the Irving Park Boulevard cemetery, and later at the Austin High school auditorium, where the exercises were under the auspices of the Legion, Gold Star Mothers, and Kilpatrick post, G. A. R.

Gen. Davis for Preparedness.

Gen. Abel Davis, who spoke before a group of 1,000 at the memorial services in Rosehill cemetery, made a strong plea for preparedness.

"Our army is a mere skeleton," he asserted. "From the time of Washington to the present we have been unprepared for war. We are a peace loving nation. If a war came I would hate to see my sons go. But if war comes, even as a result of a politician's mistake, I would be willing that they give themselves to their country."

Portage Park post of the Legion heard a denunciation of congress by Past Advocate Harold R. Schradski at the Mount Olivet services.

"The dead we honor today," he declared, "ask not flowers for themselves, but relief for their living comrades. We countenance the spending of hundreds of millions for a noble experiment, and are deaf to the pleas of those whose noble experiment carried them beyond the seas and back to lives as disabled paupers."

The graves of Mr. and Mrs. John Pershing, parents of Gen. John J. Pershing, in Oakwoods cemetery were decorated by the Hyde Park post of the Legion under Col. Manus McClosky. "Taps' were blown and a salute sounded also over the grave of Walter Eckersall, formerly of THE TRIBUNE.

France Honors Gold Star Mothers at Graves of Sons

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 30.—Volleys were fired over silent hillsides today and taps sounded throughout France wherever rows of white crosses mark the graves of American soldiers fallen in battle.

Because of the presence of the American Gold Star Mothers, the customary Memorial day celebrations took on a new solemnity. In every cemetery, from the hazy ridges of the Argonne to the watery plains of the Somme, little groups of war veterans made solemn pilgrimages to the graves of their former comrades.

Frenchmen Join in Tribute.

One of the most impressive features of the day was the number of Frenchmen who participated in the various ceremonies. Not only were there the usual official delegations of the guarde republicaine and the usual oratory, but for the first time in years, hundreds of simple folk in civilian clothes and faded blue uniforms made long journeys to the American cemeteries to pay their tribute to the men who had stood shoulder to shoulder with them in the muck of the trenches.

Perhaps the most touching ceremony of the day took place at Bony cemetery, where lie the bodies of American soldiers who fell in that bloody drive near St. Quentin, in which they crumpled the Hindenburg line. Here Gen. Pershing delivered an address to a little group of war mothers standing beside the graves of their sons. In simple words Gen. Pershing described the heroism of the men and the greatness of their sacrifice.

Vets Accompany Mothers.

Accompanying the mothers to the graves was a group of veterans of the 27th division, each of whom had been through the war and had witnessed the death of one or more of those mothers' sons buried in Bony cemetery. An added touch was the presence of dozens of little French school children in black smocks and wooden shoes, while an airplane, piloted by a former French ace, zoomed overhead and dropped a wreath at the feet of the mothers.

Similar ceremonies took place in Belleau Wood, Romagne, Thiaucourt, Suresnes, Seringes-et-Nesle, and Waeregem, Belgium, where thirteen mothers spent the day in prayer beside the marble crosses.

The ceremonies in Paris started with a solemn service in the American cathedral. Ambassador Edge and the American embassy staff, the British ambassador, and the Canadian minister were present, as well as Gen. Gouraud and other French officials. Following the service a cortége marched to the Arc de Triomphe.

Afterwards various patriotic societies journeyed to the forest of Garches, where are located the memorial to the Lafayette Escadrille, and Suresnes cemetery.

Ceremony in London.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 30.—Memorial day was observed in London this morning with a ceremony at the Cenotaph, the British monument to soldiers who died in the war, where members of the American Legion placed a wreath in the presence of Ambassador Dawes. Following this ceremony Ambassador Dawes went to St. Margaret's church, where the service was attended by a large number of Americans. This afternoon Ambassador Dawes led a procession from the church to Westminster Abbey, where he decorated the tomb of the unknown soldier.

Another ceremony was held at Plymouth in honor of Anglo-American friendship. A "door of unity" in the restored Prystene house of St. Andrew's church was opened by the American consul. This door was the idea of the American Daughters of 1812.

Other memorial services will be held at Brookwood Sunday by the American Overseas memorial government.

HOOVER DELAYS TRIP TO WATCH VETS PARADE

Washington, D. C., May 30.—[Special.]—President Hoover today delayed his departure to Gettsyburg, Pa., for more than half an hour to review a parade of district war veterans on their way to memorial services for fallen comrades in the Arlington National cemetery.

The President had intended to leave Washington at 9:30 this morning and a White House attaché was sent to ask the grand marshal, Samuel G. Mawson, department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, to advance the time of the parade enough to permit Mr. Hoover to review the marchers.

"I can't help who's waiting," replied Grand Marshal Mawson. "Last year we arrived at Arlington too early and there were no cars waiting for us. There is no use in us moving before 10 o'clock and that's when this parade is leaving, sir."

A few minutes later, however, Mawson was prevailed upon to give the "Forward, march" order, and as the procession swung into East Executive avenue the President, with Mrs. Hoover in a wheel chair, her first public appearance since her injury, appeared at the rail of the east terrace of the White House.

The colorful Arlington services reached a climax when Sergt. Edward Younger of Chicago reenacted the scene of nine years ago at Chalons-sur-Marne in France when, dropping a spray of roses on one of four flag draped caskets, he designated the unidentified body which now lies in the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

STEER COURSE SET BY LINCOLN, HOOVER PLEADS

Honors Soldier Dead at Gettysburg Shrine.

appeal for the unity of our people and the perpetuation of the fundamentals of our democracy is as vital today in our national thinking as it was when Lincoln spoke. Behind him were the seventy years of national experience that had passed between himself and Washington. His words, from their span of the past, rang with courage and assurance for the future.

"Though no President has been so beset, though no time in our history has been so dark, though never have strong men been so affected with doubts, yet in the midst of all that turmoil he found strength to lift his head above the clouds and proclaim that vision which the passing years have so fully confirmed.

His Faith Still Guides.

"Today nearly seventy years have passed since Lincoln spoke. Ours is a new day and ours new problems of the republic. There are times when these problems loom ominous and their solution difficult. Yet, great as our difficulties may sometimes seem, we would be of little courage if our concerns had less of faith than Lincoln had in his far greater task.

"Lincoln's counsel sounded strangely when spoken in the midst of war. His was the call of moderation. Our history would be even brighter than it is if his predecessors and his contemporaries had spoken as temperately as he, if they had been moved by charity toward all, by malice toward none."

The President said that while the pattern may change in the weaving of our destiny, "the woof and warp of our weaving must be those inspired ideals of unity, of ordered liberty, of equality of opportunity, of popular government, and of peace to which this nation was dedicated."

The Pattern of Freedom.

"The weaving of freedom is and always will be a struggle of law against lawlessness, of individual liberty against domination, of unity against sectionalism, of truth and honesty against demagoguery and misleading, of peace against fear and conflict," continued Mr. Hoover. "In the forming of this pattern, the abuse of politics often muddies the stream of constructive thought and damns back the flow of well considered action.

"In the solution of the problems of our times we have some new lamps to guide us. The light of science has revealed to us a new understanding of forces and a myriad of instruments of physical ease and comfort to add to the joy of life. The growth of communications, of education, of the press have made possible a new unity of thought and purpose. But the light that guides our souls remains the same as that whereby our fathers were led. It is the store of knowledge, the great inspirations of men's souls, the ideals which they carry forward that have lifted the nation to ever greater heights.

"The Union has become not merely a physical union of states, but rather is a spiritual union in common ideals of our people. Within it is room for every variety of opinion, every possibility of experiment in social progress. Out of such variety comes growth, but only if we preserve and maintain our spiritual solidarity.

Things of the Spirit.

"The things of the spirit alone persist. It is in that field that the nation makes its lasting progress. To cherish religious faith and the tolerance of all faiths; to reflect into every aspect of public life the spirit of charity, the practice of forbearance, and the restraint of passion while reason seeks the way; to lay aside blind prejudice and follow knowledge together; to pursue diligently the common welfare and find within its boundaries our private benefit; to enlarge the borders of opportunity for all and find our own within them; to enhance the greatness of the national and thereby find for ourselves an individual distinction; to face with courage and confident expectation the task set before us, these are the paths of true glory for this nation. They will lead us to a life more abounding, richer in satisfactions, more enduring in its achievements, more precious in its bequests to our children—a life not merely of conflict but filled with the joy of creative action."

VETERANS WHO DIED IN RUSSIA BURIED IN MEMORIAL PARK

Detroit, Mich., May 30.—(AP)—While blood red poppies dropped from droning airplanes, Michigan today gave an impressive burial to forty-seven men who lost their lives in the American expedition to north Russia twelve years ago.

The bodies were among those brought back last fall from Russia by a state commission. They had lain in vaults and today were lowered into graves which encircle a gleaming white monument in White Chapel Memorial park. The monument depicts a polar bear, the insignia of troops who served on the northern fringe of civilization.

Forty mothers of the dead were among those who stood around the graves and heard high tributes to the courage and patriotism of their sons spoken by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Gov. Fred W. Green and others. Messages from President Hoover and Gen. John J. Pershing were read.

30 VETERANS LEFT TO MARCH IN MANHATTAN

New York, May 30.—[Special.]—Only thirty veterans of the fast dwindling little G. A. R. group left in New York City could muster sufficient strength to march in today's parade on Riverside drive, and they were able to hold out for only six blocks. But they made that distance in becoming fashion and raised mighty salvos of cheers every weary step of the way.

Another thirty or so made the entire route by automobile, while the Brooklyn G. A. R. posts marshaled some 76 for the parade in that borough. Ten appeared for the pageant in the Bronx.

The youngest of the lot acknowledged 80 years, while others were "getting along in the nineties."

Almost 10,000 persons altogether took part in the Manhattan parade. They included veterans of the civil, Spanish-American and world wars, members of the National Guard and naval militia, school cadet corps and Girl and Boy Scouts. Tanks rumbled by, and horses, frightened at the noise, sought to upset colonels.

Maj. Gen. Ely, who commands the Second corps area, was the reviewing officer.

March in Parade, Return to Find Auto Is Stolen

Weary and footsore after having marched from Chicago avenue to Roosevelt road in the Memorial day parade yesterday, Jack) Bold, 1625 North Monticello avenue, and Edward Wenmerskirch, 3623 North Claremont avenue, returned to Franklin street and Chicago avenue to find that their automobile had been stolen.

HEAD OF FLYING CONCERN FINED.

Ernest R. Rowles, president of Air-C-Land Aircraft, Inc., 360 North Michigan avenue, was fined $7 in Wilmette Thursday for driving in Sheridan road at 42 miles an hour.

Bursts Tire and Leaps Into the Crowd.

Winchester, Ind., May 30.—[Special.]—Four persons were killed this afternoon and 20 injured, several of them seriously, when a racing car crashed into the grandstand during a Memorial day auto race at the speedway. The dead:

Malcolm Jennings, 20, Winchester.
Roy Bird, 32, Richmond, Ind.
John Vaughn, 6, Muncie, Ind.
Thomas Hale, 41, Middleton, Ind.

Blows Tire at Full Speed.

The accident occurred during a ten mile race near the end of the program. Coming full speed down the straightaway, Bruhn's car, the Silver Bullet, blew a left front tire. As he struggled to control it, it skidded, snapped off the wheel, and careened into the crowded grandstand. Spectators had no time to jump to safety.

There was a moment of panic as those close to the wreckage tried to escape. The cries of the injured, some of whom were pinned beneath the car, added to the confusion.

Mrs. John Mohler of Muncie, Ind., saved her baby by tossing him into the air several feet over the heads of the crowd to safety. Mrs. Mohler's husband was among the less seriously hurt.

Rescuers Work Quickly.

Rescuers quickly went to the aid of the injured and all available physicians in Winchester were summoned. The more seriously hurt were taken to hospitals. Others were given treatment at the driving park.

Those taken to the hospitals included Mack Orahood, Columbus, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jones, Muncie, Ind.; E. Gaughan, Muncie, father of the boy killed; E. W. Brumbaugh, Troy, O.; Bessie Mettler, Lynn, Ind., and Fern Kizer, 40, of Winchester.

Twelve other persons were cut and bruised, but their injuries were not serious.

Two Killed at Crossing.

Logansport, Ind., May 30.—[Special.]—Albert T. Young, 65 year old Logansport tailor, and his wife, Margaret, 60, were killed this evening when their automobile was struck by a Wabash passenger train at Rockfield, 10 miles west of here. Mrs. Bertha Payne, 50, and Mrs. Carrie Lindell, 55, sisters of Young, and Margaret Haitt, 3 years old, grandchild of Mrs. Payne, were injured but not seriously.

Wreath Sent by Hoover Is Placed on Lincoln's Tomb

HONOR GRAVES OF 7 UNKNOWN SOLDIERS OF REVOLUTIONARY WAR

Camden, N. J., May 30.—Seven unknown soldiers, shot down in a skirmish between British troops and American troops under Gen. Anthony Wayne during the American revolution, were honored for the first time in the Memorial day exercises here today. The graves were discovered only recently by examination of an old deed to the ground. A firing squad from Camden post, No. 80, Veterans of Foreign Wars, fired a salute over the graves in an old cemetery at the rear of the First Baptist church.

Would Close 500 Feet Breakwater Gaps.

Three large Chicago yachts, the Mizpah, the Margo, and the Doris, anchored off the foot of Chestnut street last evening in an effort to demonstrate the value of the location north of the Navy pier as a haven for pleasure craft. This event, witnessed by hundreds of sightseers along Lake Shore drive, was made possible by a calm lake.

On Monday there will be a meeting on board the Mizpah, owned by Eugene F. McDonald, at which proposals to develop the yacht harbor will be discussed.

Officials to Participate.

Lincoln park commissioners, including Warren Wright, president; officials of the Lake Shore Athletic club, Lt. Col. W. C. Weeks and Maj. H. J. Wild, United States engineers, and the owners of the yachts will participate. Burt Massee owns the Margo and William Hoffmauer the Doris.

Two gaps in the breakwater, with a combined length of about 500 feet, should be filled, according to Mr. McDonald. This could be done at a cost of $300 a foot, or a total of $150,000, according to the United States engineers' estimates, Mr. McDonald said. A pier extending outward from the Lake Shore Athletic club and connected with it by a runway over the drive, has been suggested to provide facilities for smaller craft, such as sailboats and launches.

Advantages Are Told.

This section of the harbor, which has been set aside by the war department as a pleasure craft harbor, is the most desirable haven for yachts along the Chicago shore, according to Mr. McDonald.

"It is time property owners west of the drive realized the advantage of improving this section," Mr. McDonald asserted. "If the space, ideal for pleasure craft, is not developed and utilized as such, it soon will be marred by freight vessels, and one of Chicago's most beautiful lake views will be spoiled."

NO TROUBLE AT ALL NOW

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Has Benefited This Woman

Millions today are eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation.

The cause of constipation is the lack of roughage in food. Add sufficient roughage and constipation disappears. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is nearly all roughage.

Here is a letter from Mrs. H. Gilbert, 107 E. Knight Ave., Collingswood, N. J., which will be interesting to many sufferers:

"I had a very serious operation in October and when I came from the hospital my main trouble was constipation. One day I said to the doctor, 'I am going to eat ALL-BRAN,' and since I started I have no trouble whatever. So you see I can't praise it enough and am always telling my friends what it did for me."

You will enjoy the nut-like flavor of this delicious, ready-to-eat cereal. It is rich in iron, and when eaten with milk or fruit juices, adds important vitamins to the diet.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is an essential in any reducing diet. Your grocer has it in the red-and-green package. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

NAL OFFICIALS EEK TO DELAY TRIAL TILL FALL

New [illegible] are to be given today by those [illegible] a year ago in the investiga- [illegible] was directed by Frank J. [illegible], special prosecutor, and those [illegible] on Thursday for the first time [illegible] said that they would arrange [illegible] either or by Monday at the latest. [illegible] Assistant State's Attorney [illegible] S. Northup was expected to con- [illegible] the grand jury investigation next [illegible]. At his office it was said there [illegible] possibility that at least six [illegible] minor figures in the régime of [illegible] Dever as president of the sani- [illegible] district, will be named in true [illegible].

[illegible] under indictment so far are [illegible] Trustees John K. Lawler, [illegible] Link, John J. Tuohy, James [illegible] Claire, and August W. Miller, [illegible] Engineer Edward J. Kelly, [illegible] L. Connelly, former pur- [illegible] agent; John T. Miller, former [illegible] chief of permanent plants [illegible] structures, and Martin Edelstein, [illegible] head of the real estate depart- [illegible].

Kelly Issues Statement.

[illegible] statement was issued yesterday [illegible] Chief Engineer Kelly, who also is [illegible] of the south park board, [illegible] his summer home at Eagle [illegible], Wis. It follows:

"I have given my life's work to [illegible] sanitary district for more than 30 [illegible] and have filled every position [illegible] the engineering department, from [illegible] to chief engineer, regardless [illegible] the political complexion of the [illegible].

"During all these years I served [illegible] public interest faithfully and to [illegible] best of my ability. Large public [illegible] undertakings under my direction [illegible] have been carried through to comple- [illegible] with scrupulous regard for the [illegible] rights of the taxpayers.

"The charge that I conspired at [illegible] time to do any illegal act is false [illegible] and wickedly false and such a [illegible] finds its inspiration in petty [illegible] contemptible politics.

Innocent, He Asserts.

"The grand jury hears such evi- [illegible] and such evidence only, as the [illegible] attorney sees fit to [illegible]. I am innocent and the facts [illegible] vindicate me of this infamous [illegible].

"The people of Chicago know me [illegible] by my work and I feel certain they [illegible] withhold judgment until a sub- [illegible] of all the facts."

[illegible] of Mr. Kelly here protested [illegible] being included in the charges [illegible] of padding and conspiracy to [illegible] the law requiring bids on all [illegible] of more than $500. It was [illegible] in his behalf that he acted only [illegible] orders of elected officials; his [illegible] being appointive.

"Conspiracy," Says Crowe.

[illegible] defense plan was not announced, [illegible] said there would certainly [illegible] motions to quash the indictment, [illegible] for severances, for bills of [illegible], and technicalities to be [illegible] upon by the court before the [illegible] trial is started. The selection [illegible] a judge to preside at the trial is [illegible] expected to be preceded by con- [illegible] discussion, as the defend- [illegible] include both Democrats and Re- [illegible].

[illegible] prosecutor's office it was ex- [illegible] why George L. Chamberlain, [illegible] of the U. S. A. company, con- [illegible], was not indicted, although [illegible] indictment mentions him and says [illegible] defendants conspired with him and [illegible] contractors to defraud the sani- [illegible] district of $5,000,000 by false pre- [illegible].

"In order to indict Chamberlain it [illegible] have been necessary to indict [illegible] contractors," the prosecutor's [illegible] explained. "In order to draw [illegible] somewhere it was decided to hold only the public officials because they were directly responsible to the public."

It was understood that the old indictments are to be dismissed. Under such procedure six men indicted previously would not be brought to trial. They are: Martin J. O'Brien, former chief clerk of the sanitary district, and former head of the Democratic county managing committee; William J. Connors, Democratic ward committeeman of the 42d ward and former chief investigator for the district; Harry E. Wallace, former chief deputy clerk; Attorney Samuel E. Weinshenker, legislative representative for the district; John J. Muza, former head bookkeeper, and Morton D. Kallis, head of the Kallis Printing company and a relative of Trustee Michael Rosenberg, who died in 1928.

WHEN THE STAND COLLAPSED

What might have been a serious accident occurred during the parade yetserday when one section of the reviewing stand collapsed. Gov. Emmerson was an occupant of that section and saved himself from injury by grasping the rail in front of him. The picture was taken just after the crash. The governor is waving a hand to show startled onlookers that he has not been hurt.

NO KISS THIS YEAR IN FLAG PRESENTATION AT NAVAL ACADEMY

Annapolis, Md., May 30.—(AP)—The traditional kiss that for years has marked the flag presentation ceremony of June week at the Naval academy has been censored this year, unofficially but effectively, it was learned today.

The custom calls for the girl who presents the flag and the commander of the Midshipman company receiving it to exchange the kiss. The flag this year will be presented by Miss Alberta Ely, Kansas City, to T. B. Hughes, commander of company No. 1 which won the intercompany competition. Hughes will offer her some kind of a compliment or salute, it was learned, but there will be no public osculation.

Explanation of the censorship was lacking but the impression was widespread that the present academy officials just don't like the idea.

ROB GOLD COAST THEATER; TRICK POLICE AND FLEE

Three robbers early this morning held up the Cinema theater on Chicago avenue just east of Michigan boulevard, a showhouse drawing its patronage largely from the gold coast and the near north side art colony, took $1,200 from the safe and escaped after tricking the police by a daring ruse.

The bandits gained entrance to the theater by kidnaping the manager, Floyd Jackson, at Clark street and Pratt boulevard as he left a street car for his home at 6748 North Ashland avenue. They drove Jackson back to the theater and he admitted them to the first floor office where were Mrs. Louis M. Machat, wife of the owner, and Paul Toome, 1500 Maple street, Evanston, an employé.

In a second floor office sat Machat and a friend, Siegfield Wagner, 823 Lawrence avenue. Machat, hearing the robbers' threat to shoot, locked the door of his office and called the Chicago avenue police. Meanwhile downstairs one of the bandits knocked the combination off the safe and scooped up the loot as a companion held Jackson, Toome, and Mrs. Machat at bay with a pistol.

Sergt. Joseph Brophy and his squad arrived at the theater and found the outer doors locked. Just then the robbers emerged from the office. One quick thinking bandit shouted to the policemen through the door that the holdup men had escaped, but that he would get a key and admit the police. Then he and his confederates walked through a rear door and drove away in their car while the squad was still waiting at the front.

W. D. SHEPHERD'S WIFE SERIOUSLY HURT IN CRASH

Auto Hits Fence Near Benton Harbor.

Mrs. Julie Shepherd, wife of William Darling Shepherd, who was acquitted of a charge of murder following the death of William Nelson McClintock in 1926, was seriously injured near Benton Harbor, Mich., early yesterday in an auto accident. She is in Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, suffering from internal injuries.

Shepherd and G. W. Dickerson of Salina, Kas., and G. G. Dickerson, his son, suffered minor hurts. The younger Dickerson, who is a nephew of the Shepherds, has been living at their home, 341 Melrose avenue, Kenilworth.

Mrs. Shepherd was driving the car. The party had left Kenilworth Thursday evening for a trip over the holidays. Near Benton Harbor a truck forced Mrs. Shepherd to leave the pavement and the car plunged through a fence.

Girl Killed in Crash.

Miss Mary Rushton, 25 years old, 933 West Fiftieth street, died in the Englewood hospital yesterday from injuries received when an automobile collided with a street car early in the morning. A sedan in which she was a passenger collided head on with a Halsted street car at Sixtieth place. Miss Nell Blakely, 24 years old, 609 West 62d street, was seriously injured. Two men companions, Walter Olson, 20 years old, 5938 South Peoria street, driver of the sedan, and Henry Risberg, 22 years old, 5958 South Carpenter street, escaped serious injury.

Another early morning Memorial day accident caused the death of Albert C. Rapp, 40 years old, 3253 West 61st street, and probable fatal injuries of Mrs. Edgar Price, 38 years old, 2917 Wilcox street, and Mrs. Grace Stedman, 28 years old, 109 South Washtenaw avenue. Two automobiles crashed shortly after midnight at Mannheim road and North avenue, Melrose Park. Village police found a pint of whisky in one of the cars and two pints of liquor in a ditch nearby.

Cars Crash on Road.

James Ashby, 25 years old, 3253 West 63d place, in whose car Rapp was riding, was driving north in Mannheim road. His car struck one driven by Glenn C. Denny, 35 years old, 109 South Washtenaw avenue, in which were the two women and Harry Knight, 56 years old, 2342 West Madison street. All of them were taken to the Westlake hospital.

The two deaths brought the Cook county motor toll for the year to 359.

street at 1748 Maypole avenue.

The baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Micheltz, 4853 West Adams street, was killed in an accident near Benton Harbor, Mich. The child's mother also is reported near death from injuries. John Williams, 21 years old, 233 Laurel avenue, a student at Michigan State college, and James Condon, 18 years old, 6445 South Winchester avenue, were also injured in the crash.

IN AUTO CRASH

MRS. JULIE SHEPHERD.

SUSPECT HELD IN SHOOTING FACES A GUN CHARGE

Unless a body is discovered or a wounded man is found by this morning, Sam Hunt, 3000 Indiana avenue, a Capone gangster, will be charged only with carrying concealed weapons, the police said last night. Hunt was arrested on Wednesday night shortly after a shooting at 5301 North Ashland avenue, the victim or intended victim of which is not known.

Chief of Detectives Stege believed that the intended victim of a group of gunmen either escaped injury or was only slightly wounded. He said he presumed the man marked for death had been carried away in an automobile which Hunt was trying to board when two night watchmen pulled him from the running board.

Though Hunt had abandoned a golf bag containing a sawed off shotgun and was carrying a .38 caliber automatic pistol, he persisted yesterday in denials of any participation in the shooting. The watchmen saw him running from an alley where a few seconds before four boys said they had seen a wounded man who begged them to call the police.

"We must have proof that some one was actually shot there before we can accuse Hunt of the crime," Stege explained.

WESTERN RAIL EMPLOYES ASK FIVE DAY WEEK

Following the program mapped out at a recent convention, the officers of the railway employés department of the American Federation of Labor have notified the executives of western railroads that they intend to ask establishment of the five day week in all future contracts. It was pointed out that many of the western railroads do not recognize the shop crafts associated with the railway employés department and operate on an open shop basis.

The Chicago convention of the railway employés department went on record as favoring the five day week in agreements that may be negotiated in the future with all classes of railroads.

PAINTS PICTURE OF U. S. AT WAR WITH ENGLAND

Navy Officer Backs Pact in Memorandum.

Washington, D. C., May 30.—[Special.]—The statement that in event of war with Great Britain the United States would seize the British Caribbean bases on the American seaboard and invade Canada, unless that nation became a neutral, was made today by Rear Admiral H. E. Yarnell, chief of engineering of the navy department, in a memorandum submitted to the foreign relations committee.

In this document, not hitherto made public, Rear Admiral Yarnell defends the London naval treaty, now before the foreign relations committee; outlines the major features of the pact, and estimates their effect on American national defense. His mention of the American war plans in event of a British-American war were made in a section of his report in which he discusses the possible effect of the treaty in any future war in which this country might be embroiled. Both Japan and Great Britain are mentioned.

Pacific Bases Lacking.

Discussing possible trouble in the Pacific the rear admiral states that the United States never has had the forces or the bases in the Philippine area necessary to "ensure with reasonable certainty the security of the Philippines."

Rear Admiral Yarnell took the position that as the United States had given up the right to fortify the eastern Pacific naval bases in 1922, and thus lost an equal chance to hold the islands, it mattered little if the Japanese ratio of naval strength had been raised above the 5-3 ratio set at Washington in 1922. Although twenty-six of the thirty high naval officers who testified during the hearings before the foreign relations and naval affairs committees stated that American chances of winning a war in the Philippine area would be slim if the London treaty was ratified, Yarnell took the position that this country in 1922 had lost its opportunity for an equal chance for victory in that area.

Defends 6 Inch Ships.

Rear Admiral Yarnell attacked the claim that the 8 inch gun cruiser is the best for American needs and asserted that studies made by the navy department indicated a 6 inch gun ship of 10,000 tons displacement could be built which would be just as good for all around purposes as the 8 inch gun ship.

Rear Admiral Yarnell asserted that if the cruiser provisions of the London treaty are carried out the United States would have the best cruiser fleet in its history.

Other developments during the day were the disclosure that several senators are drafting reservations for the London naval treaty which they believe should be adopted. One drafted by Senator Claude A. Swanson [Dem., Va.] would make it possible for the United States to build 8 inch gun cruisers under the emergency building clause if Great Britain exceeded her limit to build 6 inch gun cruisers.

Johnson Continues Attack.

Continuing his attack on the London naval treaty Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.] tonight issued a statement in which he charged the treaty neither results in actual naval limitation nor relieves the "crushing burden of taxation" as claimed by its sponsors. He asserted that ratification of the pact would cause the United States to build its navy according to British specifications.

"The spurious arguments for the London treaty are that it relieves the 'crushing burden of taxation,' that politicians love to talk about and never effectually remove, and that definite limitation in naval armament has been accomplished," Senator Johnson said. "The treaty, in reality, does neither. If the United States builds up under the treaty, and this must be done to make it at all effectual, it will cost this nation [this is the undisputed testimony] one billion and seventy-one million dollars. What nonsense, therefore, it is to talk of relieving our people from taxation. There is neither financial saving nor relief under the treaty if we act upon it.

"Likewise, in reality there is no limitation; for the treaty specifically provides under the so-called 'escalator' clause that any party to it, believing its national security demands it, because of new construction by any other power may build additional war vessels."

Sees Replacements Agreement.

Senator Swanson said tonight that he understood both Great Britain and Japan were now ready to accept the American interpretation of article 19 of the treaty regarding replacements. Naval experts have stated that under this article Great Britain could begin replacing her old 6 inch gun cruisers with 8 inch gun ships in 1934. The American interpretation of this article would provide that replacements ships must be of the same type, and carry the same size guns as the ships they replace.

A part of the Yarnell report, requested by the foreign relations committee and now included in its record, follows:

"There are two areas in which our future wars may be conducted—the Pacific area and the Atlantic area. Let us consider the Pacific first.

"In order to insure with reasonable certainty the security of the Philippines it is believed that the following conditions should exist:

"1. Adequate repair facilities and dry docks in the Philippines.

"2. Fortifications and military force adequate to hold a base until the arrival of the fleet.

"3. A naval force twice as strong as all units of the enemy.

"4. Equipment of Guam as a secondary base.

"5. A merchant marine sufficient to supply the necessary lines of supply to the United States.

"These conditions represent my own personal views arrived at after three years study of the problem at the Naval War college.

Repair Yard Inadequate.

"At no time since 1898 have these conditions been met in their entirety. The repair yard has never been adequate to handle more than the vessels of the Asiatic fleet. The dry dock could not take our present capital ships. No work has ever been done at Guam and the merchant ships for many years have been nonexistent.

"Furthermore, the fleet has never been a balanced one with the requisite numbers in types to insure successful naval operations.

"There seems to be a general impression that the 5-3 ratio with regard to Japan owuld alone insure the safety of the Philippines. I doubt if the most confirmed naval optimist would confirm this belief. It may be observed the United States has violated this ratio by failure to build up to it during the last ten years.

Says Pacific Coast Safe Now.

"When we come to discuss the problem of defending the Pacific coast, it is reasonable to assume that the enemy will require the same advantages and preponderance to come to our coast that we feel are necessary to us in advancing our forces in the western Pacific. Hence, the inhabitants of the Pacific coast can sleep quietly in their beds until Japan builds a navy twice the strength of that of the United States.

"Now, let us consider the other nation with which war is a possibility, Great Britain.

"The attitude of the dominions in such a war is an unknown quantity. They have demanded the right to decide for themselves the amount of assistance they will render in case of future war. For Canada the situation would be intolerable.

War Features Discussed.

"Assuming navies of strength as provided for in the present treaty, the general features of such a war would be: 1. Canada would either declare her neutrality or be invaded, and Canadian ports being denied the British fleet. 2. The other remaining British possessions in the western Atlantic and Caribbean will be occupied by our forces. 3. Lacking bases, Great Britain could not send her battle fleet to the western Atlantic, and, conversely, we could not send our fleet to operate in European waters. 4. We should be able to protect coast and western South American commerce. Our commerce with Europe would disappear and that with the far east become difficult. The result of the war would depend on the lasting powers of the two adversaries, in which the potential and economic resources would play a large part."

Private Fatally Injured in Range Rifle Practice

Fort Crook, Neb., May 30.—(AP)—A charge from an automatic rifle which struck him while he was scoring targets on a rifle range here recently today caused the death of Henry L. Smith, 23, a private of the 17th infantry at Fort Crook.

BRITAIN FORBIDS PICKETING BY REBELS IN INDIA

Rangoon Death Toll Put at 174; 1,500 Hurt.

BOMBAY, May 30.—(AP)—The Indian government took new steps today to check the rising wave of civil disobedience. Lord Irwin, viceroy of India, promulgated two ordinances against three features of the Gandhi civil disobedience campaign.

The first deals with the campaign to withhold payment of taxes, which the viceroy declares is "an appeal to the masses, which must, if successful, involve a grave reaction upon the administration and stability of the state." He said the campaign must be stopped "in its initial stages."

The second ordinance deals with the growth of picketing of shops selling liquor and foreign cloth, and with the boycotting of Indian government servants.

Charges "Coercion of Public."

The viceroy said these activities form an important part of a movement designed to paralyze the government and coerce the public, and that it is necessary to provide powers adequate for dealing rapidly and effectively with them.

He declared that the powers to deal with the molestation or boycott of government servants will come into force only in those areas in which the local government considers the situation demands them.

India generally passed a much quieter day than she has known in some weeks. Only in Dharsana were there untoward incidents, an attempted raid on the salt works this morning resulting in injuries to 26 volunteers and the usual crop of arrests. Under the watchful eye of police, Dacca and Lucknow were on their good behavior.

The rioting that has violently torn both cities since last week was checked.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

BOMBAY, May 30.—The reign of terror in Rangoon, in which scores of people have been massacred in cold blood in the last few days, has for the moment relegated political news to the back page of Indian newspapers. Authentic dispatches tonight show the death roll has risen to 174. The wounded number nearly 1,500. Of the injured in hospitals, many of whom have had whole limbs severed, eighty or more are not expected to survive.

At the moment of this dispatch British military and civil and military police are in control of the city, though serious rioting continues.

Women and Children Massacred.

Scores of shops have been looted and burned, and women and children were massacred in their sleep. After one dastardly attack by Burmans on the Indian quarter of the city, dwellings were set afire, and as the occupants dashed from their homes to safety they were set on and cut to pieces.

Military were compelled yesterday to open fire on more than one occasion when an army of thousands of Burmans from outlying villages swarmed into the city.

Under the leadership of priests and, armed with daggers and sticks, the mob assaulted every Indian it met. A number of further deaths occurred late last night when police were called out to deal with bands of Burmese dacoits (robbers) who attempted to loot the cargoes of ships in the harbor.

Boycott British Films.

LONDON, May 30.—A telegram was received here today by a representative of the Indian cinema theaters instructing him not to purchase any British films for a year. This decision was taken at a meeting of 350 cinema managers in Bombay, when it was decided to boycott all British films and picket theaters showing films of British origin.

PRESS GAG FAILS TO STIFLE TRUTH IN INDIA REVOLT

Figures Show Gandhi Move Hits Trade.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CALCUTTA, May 8.—[By Mail.]—With leaders in jail everywhere, with an attempt by the government of India to associate the Gandhi movement with communism, with the native press suspended through being stifled by the requirement of heavy deposits in advance of publication against the circulation of any statement unfavorable to the British rule, it is difficult to get to the truth of the Indian situation—yet, with all this, the truth is coming out.

The chief trouble is economic. Indian leaders declare, due to a desire on the part of the British government to hold the vast market of India for herself and to keep her mills at home going. Gandhi suddenly turned from his fight against the salt act to his campaign for khaddar, or homespun, and spinning wheels appeared everywhere, while bonfires were made of foreign cloth.

Seeks to Reduce Burden.

His real fight, it is declared, is to reduce the economic burden of the 320,000,000 people of India and to reduce also the extravagance of the administration and the employment of thousands upon thousands of British troops out of the taxation of the people. He who speaks out merely opens a cell for himself.

Arrests for sedition under the Bengal ordinance or under the criminal code already are reaching the court of appeals criminal bench in cases where the men arrested have the means to fight it, but in every instance thus far the police magistrate has been upheld, thus showing the unanimity of opinion of the servants of the Indian government.

Facts Contradict Statements.

While the British press in India generally is asserting that the boycott against foreign and notably Lancashire cloth has had no effect as the result of Gandhi's campaign for the wearing of homespun, it is interesting to note on the financial pages of the same press a perhaps more truthful statement of real conditions. For instance, one reads in the financial review of the Statesman [Calcutta] a direct contradiction of the editorials and the news reports. Here is a sample:

"Naturally, in view of the political disturbances, there has not been prominent any inquiry or bids and at the moment no encouraging point can be seen. Practically all interest in future replacements is nonexistent and, although the market is to all intents and purposes bare of many of the standard qualities in grays, whites, and colored goods, deliveries have been hampered by unrest and the outlook as regards the future, while nainsooks are represented by hardly a single package in the market. There has been and still is a certain amount of demand, but this is gradually dwindling, in view of the fact that upcountry outlets are suffering from the influence of political agitators who are doing their utmost to influence dealers not to purchase foreign goods."

JOHNNY GIVES PARENTS SCARE AND A LESSON

Johnny Weiner's father and mother left him at home at 3728 Pine Grove avenue when they went to the movies last night. They said the place for boys of 8 years was in bed. When they returned they found this note:

"I wish you a good time. I ran away because you would not let me go with you. You will not meet me on earth. Good-by forever."

While his parents hunted the neighborhood police watched the lake shore. Finally the heartbroken parents returned again to their home. Here was further news of Johnny. On the dining room table was a bowl, recently used for crackers and milk, and under the covers in bed was Johnny.

"Aw, I got hungry," said Johnny, and that explained all.

Ald. McDonough Replies to Critics of Plan.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The Public Ownership League of America, through its secretary, Carl D. Thompson, announces its opposition to the proposed indeterminate transit franchise. The league assailed the enabling legislation more than a year ago, but did not voice its views at the public hearing on the ordinance.

"The opposition of that organization, whose adherents have decreased since 1907 until the few remaining are seldom heard any more, was expected," commented Ald. J. B. McDonough, chairman of the nonpartisan committee for the ordinance. "Locally the public is fed up on municipal ownership. Many old time advocates of municipal ownership are now opposed to municipal operation, because they say the city is not operating anything well."

Congratulates Ald. Govier.

"We shall oppose the ordinance with all our might," said Secretary Thompson of the Public Ownership league. He wrote a letter of congratulations to Ald. Sheldon Govier, who was one of three members of the city council to vote against the ordinance.

"We are convinced that you are absolutely right in opposing this measure,' the letter said. "We believe the defiance is the culmination of years of manipulation, political and otherwise, and believe that for the community it is a thoroughly bad measure."

Only one other civic or business organization of the more than 500 in the city—the Cook county real estate board—has adopted resolutions opposing the ordinance since it was approved by the city council by a vote of 47 to 3. There are some advocates of municipal ownership in this board, which is credited with opposing both the 1925 and 1918 ordinances. The Chicago real estate board, the older organization, has indorsed the ordinance by a vote of 466 to 17.

Farnham-Kuhn Ordinance Foe.

Another opponent of the transit program is the Farnham-Kuhn Co., one of the backers of a competing ordinance.

The South Chicago Chamber of Commerce, which protested at the public hearings regarding lack of extensions, has indorsed the ordinance. The sentiment expressed at the hearings by organized groups was overwhelmingly in favor of the ordinance.

Ald. McDonough replied yesterday to the story that the new transit company would not have to make any extensions unless the city first had constructed a subway.

Statement from McDonough.

"That is entirely untrue," he said. "Under the ordinance the company is obligated to spend $65,000,000 during the first three years whether subways are built or not. The ordinance provides an effective guarantee that this obligation will be met. It is the most effective guarantee which Attorney Walter L. Fisher could devise, and no one was able to suggest anything better, or as good.

"Furthermore, the ordinance provides that the company must spend a minimum of $200,000,000 in the first 15 years. It is also provided that the proposed transit commission shall have power to order extensions not enumerated in the ordinance.

"The group which opposes the ordinance because it does not provide for a particular extension the group desires is acting against its own interest. If the ordinance is passed, those who did not get their extensions have a much better chance of getting them than if the ordinance is defeated."

Youth Shot When Police Break Up Alley Dice Game

Walter Kubiak, 17 years old, 2325 South Albany avenue, last night was shot in the side by Policeman Richard Powers of the Lawndale station. Kubiak was one of several youths in a dice game in an alley near 23d street and South Albany avenue. Neighbors called the police complaining the gang was insulting women. Powers said he seized Kubiak, who struggled in his grasp, causing him to discharge his revolver accidentally. Kubiak was taken to the Bridewell hospital.

NORTHERN CHINA CLAIMS FALL OF NANKING IS NEAR

Armies Near Tsinan, Key to Capital.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, China, May 30.—The northern allies claim sweeping victories on all fronts in the civil war with the Nanking government. Official communiques report that the Shansi armies are within a day's march of Tsinan, capital of Shantung province, and that Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang's armies have advanced twenty miles along the Lunghai railway and are nearing Suchowfu, an important junction leading to Nanking.

Chiang Kai-shek, president of the national government, is reported to be returning to Nanking to prepare for the final defence of the capital.

Shansi airplanes bombed Yengcheng, where the Hankow armies' principal ammunition dump is located, striking the dump repeatedly and finally exploding it. Four Nanking airplanes are claimed to have been shot down.

Plan Peiping Government.

The Kuomintang conference at Peiping is reported to have successfully compromised the differences between the left and right wings, assuring the establishment of a Kuomintang government at Peiping within a short time. The commissioner declared that it has been decided to restore the capital to Peiping, even if Nanking is captured.

Endeavoring to follow up their successes, the northern commanders are rushing all available troops to the south, using railroads and automobiles.

Russia Makes an Offer.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, May 30.—Mo Te-hui, head of the Chinese delegation of the Chinese Eastern railway at the conference in Moscow, telegraphed the Chinese government today that the soviets are adamant on all questions of concessions pertaining to the management of the railway and that L. M. Karakhan, head of the soviet delegation, has informed the Chinese that the Khabarovsk protocol signed last year at the end of the Chinese-Russian complications must stand without alterations. Hence, he said, it was useless for China to bring up questions which the soviet government considers already settled.

Karakhan is reported to have told the Chinese that the soviet government is willing to sell its share in the railway for $350,000,000, which is about three times the valuation of the railway. Since the Chinese Eastern railway is only a little over 1,000 miles long the price is obviously exorbitant and far beyond China's ability to pay.

THROWN FROM WAGON; KILLED.

CHARGE MAN AIDED OTHER WOMAN KILL WIFE, THEN CONFESS

Ashtabula, O., May 30.—(AP)—Sheriff Frank Sheldon announced today that he had obtained signed confessions from Trilby Smith, 26, and Mrs. Maude Lowther, 22, to plotting the slaying of Smith's 28 year old wife because they wanted her out of their love affair.

Smith confessed taking his wife last night to a lonely spot, where Mrs. Lowther stepped out and shot Mrs. Smith, according to the sheriff.

Both will be arraigned tomorrow on charges yet to be determined, the sheriff said.

According to their confessions Smith drove his wife and their two small children to the murder spot. Then Smith took the children to a filling station, calling police and telling them his wife was the victim of holdup men, while Mrs. Lowther went to the home where she was employed as a maid.

Mrs. Lowther, who came here from Clarksburg, W. Va., two years ago, said she had been married twice, but was separated from her second husband. Smith did a trucking business. They said they became acquainted only two weeks ago.

GRANDMOTHER, 52, CASHES $5,200 IN BONDS; VANISHES

Police last night began a search for a 52 year old grandmother who disappeared last Tuesday after cashing $5,200 in bonds. She is Mrs. Francis Bernat of 5711 South Albany avenue, the wife of a restaurant owner. Her daughter, Mrs. Aurelia Sandstrom, 3113 West 63d street, said Mrs. Bernat often expressed a desire to visit Europe. Police of the Chicago Lawn station believe the woman may be the victim of confidence men.

Last Tuesday Mr. Bernat returned home and found a not which read:

"Here are the keys to the safety deposit vault."

At the bank it was found that Mrs. Bernat had cashed the bonds, leaving the vault box empty.

St. Louis Votes 8 to 1 Against Enforcement.

New York, May 30.—[Special.]—Only eight bone dry cities were found in New York state, according to final reports from 103 communities of 5,000 population and more issued today by the Literary Digest in its prohibition poll. Final reports from the principal cities of the United States showed most of these favoring repeal or modification.

New York voted approximately 12 to 1 against enforcement, St. Louis more than 8 to 1, Chicago and Detroit more than 6 to 1, Philadelphia more than 5 to 1, Cleveland almost 5 to 1, and Boston more than 3 to 1.

New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, St. Louis, and Boston showed absolute majorities in favor of repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Cleveland gave a plurality for repeal.

The principal cities favoring modification were Denver, Portland, Ore., and Seattle. Those showing dry tendencies were chiefly in the middle west and south, such as Des Moines, Topeka and Wichita, Kansas City, Mo., and Dallas.

WELLS VISIONS SEA FIGHT OF U. S. AGAINST BRITAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 30.—H. G. Wells, the English novelist and historian, has just completed a book in southern France which is devoted to the relations between Great Britain and the United States.

The story brings the countries to war and the most vivid chapters describe a final and terrific naval battle between the British and American fleets. Mr. Wells reverts to the imaginative style of his early writings and dreams of wonderful deadly developments in armaments for annihilation of the enemy with compensating defensive inventions.

Body Taken from Lake; Bullet Wound in Head

The body of a man about 40 years of age was taken from the lake at the foot of East 13th street early yesterday by police who are uncertain whether the man had been murdered or committed suicide. A wound above the right ear indicated he had been shot. The body was that of a man five feet eight inches tall, weighing 160 pounds.

SIMONS WITNESS NEAR HOME SAYS HE HEARD SHOTS

Bullet in Broker's Hat Aids Murder Theory.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kentland, Ind., May 30.—[Special.]—What was the motive for the murder of William Simons, neighborly citizen of Kentland and a broker on the Chicago Board of Trade? This was the question for which investigators today sought the answer.

Developments today included the finding of a witness who declared he heard two shots fired the night of Mr. Simons' death, at a point nearly four miles from the spot where his body was found on the early morning of May 20. The witness, Warren Mattox, lives just south of the Simons home in Kentland, and his testimony tended to support the theory that Mr. Simons had left his home to catch a motor bus for Chicago, had been picked up in an automobile, shot twice through the head, and then was driven to the lonely spot where his body was found. Here the third shot, which drilled through his heart, was fired, according to the theory.

Also Heard Automobile.

"The explosions might have been backfires from an automobile, but I don't think so," said Mattox, who owns an interest in a filling station at Kentland and said he was familiar with the sound of backfires.

"These were sharp reports like revolver shots," he said. "At the same time that they were fired I heard an automobile going by on the highway, the motor purring smoothly."

The highway is the same one on which the body of Mr. Simons was found, three and a half miles from his home, with a heavy suitcase beside it and a revolver alongside the body.

Another development which confuted the earlier theory of the Kentland authorities that Mr. Simons had committed suicide was the announcement in Chicago by members of the staff of Lieut. Col. Calvin Goddard, head of the scientific crime detection laboratory associated with Northwestern university, that a bullet slug found in the band of Mr. Simons' hat had never been fired from the revolver found beside the body.

Bullet Found in Hat.

The bullet was found in the hat by James Hassett, Kentland undertaker who first moved the body. There was no hole through the hat, yet the bullet perched in plain sight just inside the hat band. It had been supposed this bullet was one of those which passed through Mr. Simons' head, but the Chicago bullet experts declared it had not been fired with the weapon found, and it was also announced that the bullet was shiny, had not been recently fired, and that probably it had been carried about as a pocket piece for some time.

Three loaded cartridges were also found in the pocket of the dead man, which would have fitted the weapon. Investigators are of the opinion that the murderer or his accomplices deliberately planted the bullet slug in the hat and the cartridges in the pocket.

Sheriff John Bartholomew, upon learning that Dr. Le Count's examination showed that the three bullets fired into Mr. Simons' body undoubtedly were not self inflicted, declared that he had always been of the opinion that the case was a murder. He has been seeking for possible enemies of Mr. Simons.

Allen Kenoyer, 80 year old coroner of Newton county, said his verdict of suicide had been based on the statements of local physicians. He was unwilling to amend his verdict, he said, until he had completed a new investigation tomorrow.

Warren T. McCray, former governor of Indiana, who was a close friend of the dead man, declared today that the suicide theory was untenable.

"Will was murdered, but I can't imagine who would do such a thing," McCray said.

DRAG RELIGION INTO N. CAROLINA RACE FOR SENATE

Simmons Men Again Cry Smith! Raskob!

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Raleigh, N. C., May 30.—[Special.]—They are fighting the anti-Smith battle of 1928 all over again in the Democratic primary for the nomination of a United States senator in North Carolina. Elemental prejudices are being stirred and primal passions fanned into flame.

The political atmosphere is vibrant again with the names of Smith and Raskob and the pope explosively uttered, with appeals to party regularity and warnings of the collapse of white supremacy and the return of Negro domination.

Furnifold M. Simmons, whose bolt from Al Smith in 1928 is held largely responsible for giving the North Carolina electoral vote to a Republican candidate for President for the first time since reconstruction days, is seeking at the age of 76, a sixth term in the United States senate, against such opposition as he has never experienced in more than half a century in politics.

Opponent 20 Years His Junior.

Simmons is opposed for renomination by Josiah W. Bailey, twenty years his junior, who for thirty years has been a political supporter of Simmons. For thirty years Simmons has been the Democratic boss of North Carolina, naming senators, governors, congressmen and lesser officials. He built up a political machine, the reputed exploits of which in the manipulation of elections make the Tammany boys look like a bunch of amateurs.

Now, the old boss finds himself opposed, with but few exceptions, by the men of the machine he created. They are out to get his scalp for deserting Al Smith and leading his state into the Hoover fold. They are supporting Bailey with a well oiled organization which is in control of the election machinery and which the Simmons managers accuse of a purpose to count the senator out in the balloting on June 7 in the exact manner that numerous victims of the Simmons steam roller for a generation have complained of.

Depend on Hoovercrats.

Simmons is depending upon the unorganized Hoovercrats of 1928 to save him from annihilation by the outraged Democratic organization. It is estimated that 100,000 Democrats in North Carolina voted for Hoover, enabling him to carry the state by 62,000. There were 160,000 more persons who voted in the state in 1928 than in 1924. These 100,000 Democrats are being adjured by the Simmons managers to come forth on primary day and save their leader in the great bolt of the Democratic ticket in 1928. They beat the organization then, which was for Al Smith, and they are being told that they can do it again.

There is considerable circumstantial evidence that the Simmons appeal to the bolters of Al Smith is having a profound effect. For one thing, the registration of voters has been so large that the organization has been disconcerted. The smaller the registration the better the situation for the organization, for the reason that the professional politicians and those they influenced always take care to get on the polling list. But the registration just completed, the first new one in twelve years, is unusually large. It is larger in many counties than the total vote cast in 1928. It is so large that the organization leaders know it includes a large percentage of voters that the organization would prefer to scratch off the rolls. Hence many misgivings that the astute old boy has the votes to beat his old machine.

Register as Democrats.

There is also considerable evidence, particularly in Asheville and other parts of the mountain territory, where Republicans abound, that Republicans have registered as Democrats, presumably with the intention of voting for Simmons in gratitude for the help he gave in carrying the state for Hoover. A Republican leader in the west end of the state told me that as a result of the heavy registration of Republicans as Democrats, he expects an extremely light vote in the Republican primary despite the fact that there are four contenders for the Republican nomination for senator.

The Simmons managers have succeeded in reviving conspicuously the prejudices that compassed the defeat of Al Smith. They are dwelling on the argument that the defeat of Simmons will mean the entrenchment of the wet Smith-Raskob faction in the Democratic party, not only in this state but in the nation. They are putting it up to the drys of North Carolina to strike the first blow at the nomination of a wet candidate for president and the writing of a wet platform by a Democratic national convention in 1932. To deal this blow next Saturday the Simmons managers are giving special attention to the marshaling of the women.

Within the last few days the Negro issue has come to the fore with a bang. Bert M. Gatling, Wake county Simmons manager, charges the Bailey faction with registering more than 400 Negroes in Raleigh as Democrats to be voted for Bailey. He announced that their right to vote in the Democratic primary would be challenged "upon the frank and open allegation that they are Negroes."

Their color, Gatling maintained, is prima facie evidence that they are Republicans. They could not be, it was asserted, affiliated with the Democratic party, which disfranchised the Negroes in the constitution in 1900, much less for Simmons, who, wearing a red shirt, rode the countryside raising the white populace to put the blacks out of politics once and forever. The Negroes, alleged the Simmons partisans, naturally would be for Bailey, who held office under Gov. Daniel Russell, the last Republican governor before Negro disfranchisement.

Produce Negro to Testify.

The Bailey managers have countered with charges that the Negroes were registered at the instigation of the Simmons managers for the purpose of raising the race issue against Bailey. They produce the testimony of one Negro who says that he registered as a Democrat for the purpose of voting for Simmons in gratitude for the senator's help in electing Hoover, who "has given the black man more political and social recognition than any other President." By social recognition the Negro, it appears, was referring to the episode of Mrs. Hoover receiving at a White House tea the wife of Representative Oscar De Priest, Negro congressman from Illinois. Thus both the Simmons and Bailey factions are accusing each other of catering to the Negroes and thereby underminig "white supremacy."

Not only the De Priest incident but the business depression, which is derisively dubbed "Hoover prosperity" hereabouts, provides ammunition for the Bailey faction against Simmons, the leading Hoovercrat of the south.

Point to Hoover Prosperity.

The Bailey managers called attention to the fact that virtually all of the 633 textile mills and 100 furniture factories in the state are either shut down or running part time. This they call an example of "Hoover prosperity" for which they hold Simmons, as a leading Hoovercrat, responsible.

The textile mill owners and other tariff beneficiaries are supporting Simmons, who has obtained favorable rates for them in the present and previous tariff bills. Likewise he has the support of the tobacco and water power interests.

The newspapers of the state are divided between the two factions with a few, such as former Secretary of Navy Josephus Daniels, Raleigh News and Observer, maintaining neutrality.

Bailey, whom the Simmons managers accuse of being opposed to prohibition, formerly was head of the Anti-Saloon league in this state and editor of a Baptist publication, the Biblical Recorder.

The Republican candidates for senator are Congressman George M. Pritchard, the Rev. H. Grady Dorsett, Maj. George E. Butler, and Irving B. Tucker.

NEW MODERATOR

PASTOR DEFENDS DRY LAW BEFORE PRESBYTERIANS

Convention Told Foes Are "Conspirators."

Cincinnati, O., May 30.—(AP)—An address on behalf of prohibition enforcement was delivered by Dr. Mark Matthews of Seattle here today. It brought the 142d general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. to a rising vote of support for the 18th amendment and for solid opposition to any attempt to modify it.

The situation faced by President Wilson during the world war when he declared "an invisible government" was working against him, is shared by President Hoover because "an invisible government" is working for the downfall of the prohibition law, Dr. Matthews declared.

Criticizes Newspapers.

The "invisible empire working against the 18th amendment," Dr. Matthews declared, is represented chiefly by national and international liquor interests.

The attack that is made upon the young people of today he called "part of a conspiracy against constitutional government." The newspapers, he asserted, publish stories of motor accidents involving young people in which the first thought of the arresting officer is to "smell the breath" of the driver to learn whether he has been drinking.

"In the days of our fathers," he declared, "no newspaper would have dared to do that. The conduct of the young people of this generation is no worse than that of the youths of the preceding generation. The attack that is made upon them is unjust, unfair, and false. Conscious of the responsibility of my words, I wish to say that the statements made against them are premeditated perjury. It is a pure libel on the finest generation of youths that America has ever produced."

Dr. Matthews also described the agitation for a modification of the prohibition law as a part of the conspiracy against that statute.

Would Modify Loyalty Oath.

The Los Angeles presbytery asked that President Hoover and congress be memorialized to the effect that the Presbyterian church "believes that the refusal to make a promise to bear arms, because of supreme loyalty to God, shall not be a barrier to citizenship in the United States," and that the naturalization laws be made to conform to this condition.

Sunday baseball, Sunday motion pictures, and cigaret advertising, which it termed "widespread and unscientific," were protested against by the West German synod. The Pittsburgh presbytery asked an investigation of crime as shown in the advertising and programs of motion picture theaters.

New York, May 30.—[Special.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, candidate for United States senator, made a forty-five minute flight from Atlantic City to Newark, N. J., today. They flew in the Lockheed Sirius monoplane in which the colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh, the ambassador's daughter, established a new transcontinental record on Easter Sunday. Col. Lindbergh had come from Washington. The fleet monoplane averaged close to 150 miles an hour between the seashore resort and Newark.

BISHOP DOUBTS MORALITY CLUB IN LEGISLATION

Discusses Laws Seeking Enforced Goodness.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 30.—[Special.]—The wisdom of attempting to change the moral character of a people by legislative enactment was questioned today by the Right Reverend James E. Freeman, Episcopal bishop of Washington, in a Memorial day sermon in the Bethlehem chapel of the Washington cathedral.

"Are we seeking the impossible?" asked the bishop, whose sermon was broadcast over a national radio network, "attempting through legal enactment to change the moral character of our people? Is it reasonable to suppose that you can make a people temperate, or chaste, or honest merely by law or by a watchful and vigilant constabulary?"

Dry Law Not Only Example.

Discussing the sermon later, Bishop Freeman said that the Volstead act is "an outstanding example of such legislative attempts," but emphasized that he did not intend to single out the prohibition law alone.

"We have demonstrated in our homes," the bishop asserted in the sermon, "that the imposition of precise rules and inhibitions and exacting disciplines with penalties imposed for their infraction fail of large results."

Laws Not Always Agreeable.

The bishop, however, sharply criticized "selfish patriots" who observe "only such laws as appeal to their personal tastes" as "creating a situation that tends to the disregard of all law and the removing of those safeguards that insure our peace."

"It is reasonable to suppose," he said, "that laws have been enacted that contravene both convenience and our so-called personal liberty. It may be that such laws, by the will of the people, may be abrogated or modified. To effect such abrogation or modification we have proper and legal methods, and it is only through such legal methods that the ends sought may be effectively attained."

RIDES NIAGARA RAPIDS SAFELY IN STEEL BARREL

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 30.—(AP)—William [Red] Hill, daring river man, won for himself a new place today among the heroes of the Niagara by riding through the whirlpool and lower rapids in a specially constructed steel barrel. Three times the barrel was caught in the treacherous eddies, but relatives in a rowboat freed it.

Hill entered the stream from the American landing of the Maid of the Mist at 1:15 o'clock and emerged at Queenston docks at 6:05 o'clock, his face bloody and his shoulders and arms battered from the pounding he received as the barrel was shot through the lower rapids.

Hill was assisted in his venture by his son, William Hill Jr., his brother-in-law, Edward Sloggett, and brother, Charles Hill, who dared the dangerous currents of the stream in a rowboat to tow Hill out of the eddies when his craft was halted.

To the spectators at least one of the high lights of Hill's wild ride was his trip through the whirlpool rapids. His barrel was shot into the whirlpool with terrific force from the fast currents above and, as he reached the whirlpool, he raised the cover of the barrel to watch the proceedings. Six times the barrel was whirled around the whirlpool and on the sixth time was caught in an eddy from which it was towed by his son.

Broker Arrested; Charge His Auto Hit Policeman

Howard S. Hansen, 38 years old, 2515 Central avenue, Evanston, a broker, was arrested yesterday in Evanston, charged with having run down Policeman S. S. Sanford in an attempt to escape a police squad whose flivver he had rammed. The accident occurred near Main and Sherman streets. Sanford was not seriously hurt and joined the chase after Hansen, who faces charges of driving while intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident.

DR. VAN DYKE SAYS DR. WILSON TELLS UNTRUTH

Resents Dry Leader's Slur on Dead Father.

Princeton, N. J., May 30.—[Special.]—Dr. Henry Van Dyke, author and professor emeritus of English literature of Princeton university, took issue today with statements in the report of Dr. Clarence True Wilson, which was read before the senate lobby committee, relative to the shifting of prohibition enforcement from the treasury department to the department of justice.

Dr. Wilson, who is secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition, and Public Morals, assailed Dr. Van Dyke on his stand in the 1929 presidential campaign and also attacked Dr. Van Dyke's father.

Dean Gauss Assails Wilson.

The report of Dr. Wilson which was read before the senate committee dwelt at length on the work of the Protestant church, pictured as aligned against many malevolent forces in the 1928 campaign which wished to bow the preacher out of politics.

Dr. Van Dyke scored Dr. Wilson not for attacks on his own "insignificant personality," but for the attacks on his father.

"Dr. Clarence True Wilson of the Methodist board of something or other has made a public attack on me which is of no consequence because it is so evidently false," Dr. Van Dyke said. "His middle name is a mistake.

"I have never advocated the election of any President, except Woodrow Wilson, but I have protested, and still protest, and will protest as long as I live, against the tyranny of an inquisitional church in American politics. That is treasonable. I am a Protestant.

Unable to Keep Silent.

"But when Dr. Clarence Blank Wilson goes beyond my insignificant personality to attack my beloved father in his grave it is impossible for a man of honor to keep silence. Dr. Wilson says that my father 'denounced the government of the United States, cannonaded Lincoln, and advocated the extension of slavery.' All three of these statements are false and their tone is malignant.

"My father firmly believed that the church, Protestant and Catholic, ought to keep out of politics. As a private citizen he voted according to his conscience and resented any kind of dictation.

"Can it be that Dr. Wilson now really represents the great Methodist church? It seems incredible. He has no scruples and the truth is not in him."

BUSBY TO JOIN COLLEGE MATES AFTER 26 YEARS

"Buzz," "Pat," and "Shawk" will breakfast together on Sunday in Huntington, W. Va., for the first time since they were graduated at Ohio Wesleyan university 26 years ago.

"Buzz" is Leonard A. Busby, president of the Chicago City Railways and of the Calumet and South Chicago railway; "Pat" is Bishop Francis J. McConnell of the Methodist Episcopal church, who lives in New York, and "Shawk" is Dr. Morris P. Shawkey, president of Marshall college at Huntington.

The occasion of the meeting is the 93d commencement of Marshall college, at which Bishop McConnell will deliver the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday. Vice President Charles Curtis will make the commencement address on Monday.

NEW SHOW IDEA AT PALACE

RKO UNITES CELEBRITY VAUDEVILLE WITH FOREMOST TALKING PICTURES IN GIANT, STAR-STACKED, POPULAR-PRICED PROGRAM

Big Stars of Stage and Screen in Blazing Joy Pageant as Victor McLaglen, Fifi D'Orsay, Fritzi Scheff, Roxy's Gang and Johnny Burke Inaugurate the First Titanic Bill.

(By the Critic)

Today's inaugural program, which will serve as a criterion for the future, is star-filled on both stage and screen. It was assembled through the far-flung international resources of Radio-Keith-Orpheum, which in one brief year of giant expansion, has become the nation's most titanic amusement organization.

On the talking screen, and projected over RCA 1931 sound equipment, are Victor McLaglen and the provocative Fifi D'Orsay in "On the Level." Acclaimed by Hollywood and New York critics as funnier than "The Cockeyed World," and more pungent than "What Price Glory," or "Hot for Paris," this new success was chosen from more than seventy-seven reviewed productions as the picture to inaugurate the new Palace show idea.

And then—behind the footlights—are Fritzi Scheff, brilliant Viennese song and dance star of "Mlle. Modiste"; Roxy's Gang, famed New York air entertainers; Johnny Burke, wise-cracking soldier humorist—plus a veritable pageant of sparkling stage novelties, together with an augmented orchestra under the direction of Art Frasik, nationally renowned conductor and composer.

Combined, this host of living variety celebrities and outstanding film personalities make up a bill of popular-priced entertainment which showwise executives declare is destined to turn the realm of the theatre upside down.

"An analysis of this massive, inspired show," declare executives of Radio-Keith-Orpheum, "reveals some astounding facts. In Fritzi Scheff, Roxy's Gang, and Johnny Burke, the theatre-going public will see and hear actual star headliners of a two-dollar vaudeville program. With this, they will also see and hear Victor McLaglen and Fifi D'Orsay in their newest talkie triumph—a picture which normally occupies the screens of de luxe theatres devoted to motion pictures alone.

Balanced Entertainment

"Radio-Keith-Orpheum is enabled to present this perfectly balanced entertainment at prices within the reach of all, after a year of intensive preparation. Through its mighty affiliations, it controls the finest vaudeville artists of the nation, while its own studios, which are the largest in Hollywood, guarantee a never-ending flow of superbly produced talking pictures.

"Because of the enormous expenses involved, this towering new show plan will be limited to major metropolitan areas. Chicago, ranking high in this field, was selected for the world debut of this ambitious endeavor because it has cradled most of the great developments in film and vaudeville circles in the last decade.

"When the curtain rings up on this revolutionary era of entertainment at the Palace Theatre at 11 o'clock this morning, few people will realize the scope of the organization which made this program a reality. This, however, will in no way detract from their enthusiastic appreciation of the entertainment wonders they will see and hear. As the great parade of stories march before their eyes they will be conscious of a new power which ransacks the globe to provide them with recreation which is not duplicated in any other theatre.

Show World Amazed

"As the dimensions of these shows became known in theatrical circles, a wave of amazement and incredulity arose, which culminated in the remark by a certain high theatrical official: 'This is practically giving the public $9.25 worth of entertainment.'"

The onward sweep of these titanic shows continues at the Palace next week when the "Fox Movietone Follies of 1930," with El Brendel and a tremendous cast, which was presented last year in this city and elsewhere as an extended run feature without the addition of any stage entertainment, will be shown.

There can be no doubt that the movement of show-goers in Chicago from now on will be straight down Randolph street to the portals of the Palace Theatre, for at no other point in the city of Chicago will the public be able to buy such tremendous stage and screen attractions at popular prices.

LATE NEWS FLASH!

EXTRA!

Chicago, May 30.—Radio-Keith-Orpheum has been advised that the Exhibitors' Herald-World, trade paper devoted to the progress of the theatrical industry, has awarded a bronze plaque to the Palace Theatre as a mark of honor for the high quality of the reproduction of its sound pictures. This plaque will be placed on display in the lobby of the theatre.

Technical experts of the paper were present at the exhaustive sound tests of the Photophone 1931 equipment, which were held in the theatre last Thursday night.

World's Biggest Show for the Least Money

Palace Prices Smash Show Value Records.

Marking a new milestone in Chicago show values, the RKO Palace Theatre today launches its new show idea at popular prices.

After twelve months of painstaking preparation, and the marshalling of comprehensive vaudeville and motion picture affiliations, Radio-Keith-Orpheum is enabled to present titanic, massive shows at prices which are so moderate as to be revolutionary.

A notable instance is the admission price of 35 cents which is extended to those patrons who are in a position to come to the RKO Palace Theatre Monday to Friday between the hours of 11 a. m. and 1 p. m.

"It is interesting," comments an RKO executive, "to analyze the actual values purchased by ticket buyers during this 35-cent admission period. In one fell swoop these theatregoers participate in an investment which required more than five million dollars to produce. This covers the erection and the equipment of the theatre itself, a seven hundred and fifty thousand dollar outlay for the production of such a picture as Victor McLaglen's 'On the Level,' and the cost of creating a vaudeville booking combine which can deliver stars of the calibre of Roxy's Gang, Fritzi Scheff and Johnny Burke, and the salaries of the stars themselves."

Standard prices which will be constantly effective in the continuation of the RKO Palace's new show idea, complete, are as follows: Monday to Friday, inclusive, 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., 35 cents; 1 p. m. to 6 p. m., 60 cents; 6 p. m. to closing, 75 cents. Saturday, 11 a. m. to 2 p. m., 50 cents; 2 p. m. to closing, 85 cents. Sunday, all day, 85 cents. Children at all times, 25 cents.

About Fritzi

Fritzi Scheff, glorious song and romance star who headlines on the inaugural new show idea at the RKO Palace Theater today, is the wife of the late John Fox, famous author of "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" and "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine."

DIRECTOR OF McLAGLEN'S PICTURE SAYS "IT'S THE BEST"

Ordinarily extras on an all talking picture are interested only in those scenes in which they appear, but when one of Irving Cummings' productions is being photographed everybody takes a deep interest in all scenes.

Cummings' work is inspirational and his enthusiasm is infectious. If at the conclusion of a scene he cries "Cut," and makes no further comment, everybody knows he is not satisfied; but if he shouts, "O, K-k-k-k, that's it," it is the signal that everything answers all requirements.

When, however, this popular director cries, "O. K-k-k-k, it's a peach," every one within hearing realizes that the superlative has been reached.

Many times during the making of "On the Level," featuring Victor McLaglen, Cummings made use of that expression, and when the picture was completed he predicted that it would be the most popular of his many productions, which include "Behind That Curtain," "Cameo Kirby" and "In Old Arizona," which he co-directed with Raoul Walsh.

In "On the Level," which opens the New Show Idea at the Palace, McLaglen portrays the character of a structural iron worker. He flirts with a beautiful woman, who later induces him to invest his life savings in a real estate "racket." McLaglen then prevails upon his fellow workers to buy worthless lots, and before the plot is entirely unfolded, powerful drama and hilarious comedy run a neck-and-neck race to a romantic finish.

HEAD TODAY'S PALACE SHOW

SPARKLING PERSONNEL OF PALACE PROGRAM. Fritzi Scheff in person heads vaudeville with her entire company. Johnny Burke, famous soldier monologist, returns with new wise cracks. Roxy's Gang of air entertainers brought special for opening, including Adelaide De Loge, Victor McLaglen and Fifi D'Orsay in "On the Level" will delight in their latest vehicle, bigger than "The Cock-Eyed World" and other successes.

Secret Court Documents Found in Rare RKO Palace Clock

The architectural beauty of the Palace Theatre is such that theatrical men and architects from all over the world pay visits almost every day to study details of its beauty. The most recent of these visitors was Baron D'Alivere of France, who is using plans of the auditorium for a large theatre to be built in Nancy.

The outer foyer is trimmed in Barzola marble, which is quarried near the Italian Alps. Only a limited output of this is available as a restriction has been placed upon its export by the Italian government. Only one other consignment left this quarry since the erection of the RKO Palace Theatre, which went to repair certain parts of the Vatican.

The massive chandeliers in the foyer and lobby are of cut-glass brought from Czecho-Slovakia, and these were made by the famous Herbel factory at Prague.

Few Chicagoans know that the rug in the foyer of the Palace Theatre, eighty-five feet in length and thirty-eight feet wide, is the largest rug in this city woven in a single design, and was made at Aubusson, France, as a special part of the equipment of the Palace Theatre.

Upon the mezzanine floor there is a rare Louis Quatorze clock, the only one of its kind in the world that works. This rare antique was purchased at a sale in London for $62,000.00, and it is an interesting fact that when brought to this country and examined carefully before being placed in the theatre, some rare court documents, including a signature of Marquis Chenilly, a famous courtier of that period and mentioned in French history, was found secreted in a false bottom in the clock.

The auditorium of the theatre is covered with ninety thousand pounds of gold leaf which took over two months of hand brushing to place.

The lounge and smoking room on the lower floors are English in treatment and panelled in Circassian walnut. These panels were taken from Fulton Manor in Hertfordshire, England, and were placed almost intact into this room, and provide an atmosphere of rare dignity and elegance. In late 1927, a representative of the Earl of Slunke visited Chicago for the purpose of buying a number of these panels which were unused. These now line the study of the present Earl at St. Albans outside of London.

FAMOUS JOHN GRIFFIN OF AIR IN ROXY GANG

John Griffin was born to be one of two things, for to be a Griffin and be anything except a newspaper man or a tenor would be little short of family treason. John took a fling at both these arts and finally wound up as the featured tenor with the celebrated Roxy Gang, currently at the RKO Palace Theatre.

The Griffins, it seems, are descendants of none other than Gerald Griffin, the famous Irish poet and writer of a few generations ago. They are also descendants of F. H. DeQuincy, at one time Great Britain's leading Shakespearean actor and vocalist of note. And down along the Griffin line all the sons have followed either the stage or the newspaper business. It just wouldn't do to be anything else, for a Griffin.

John went into the business of singing songs after considerable experience with several Chicago newspapers. Even now he can't get wholly away from the newspaper business. He still represents a chain of papers in various cities and he's mixing business with more business in visiting these cities as a member of the Roxy Gang, which has "gone RKO" for this season, at least.

JOHNNY BURKE—WARRIOR AND WITTY COMEDIAN

Soldiering is dirty work.

Johnny Burke knows because he was a soldier. He went through the same routine as the millions of others who came under the draft act. Before the war, during the war, and after the war, Mr. Burke retained his sense of humor, which enabled him to put his experiences in the army to good advantage. The things that happened to him happened to so many other men that his humorous account of his evolution from civil life to man-at-arms and back to civil life again is a case of holding the mirror up to nature. This account he calls "Dirty Work." Of course, while Mr. Burke's monologue is based on facts, he has exaggerated and magnified it for the benefit of better comedy results.

Dressed as a buck private fresh from the trenches, Mr. Burke with wit and humor, carries you all the way from the draft station to the mustering out period. Mr. Burke was always considered one of vaudeville's best monologists. Last season he was drafted by a Musical Comedy Manager. He was the principal comedian in the Music Box Revue, but he received his discharge and went home again to vaudeville.

"SEA BREEZE" AIR CURRENTS MAINTAINED FOR PALACE PATRONS

Weather, once the bugaboo of summer theatre patrons, has been conquered by science. "Dog days" are no longer a menace since the invention of superb theatre cooling systems, such as are installed in the RKO Palace Theatre.

By certain basic chemical and physical laws, practical and economoical machinery now provide thousands of cubic feet of cool, dried and cleansed air.

The new trend in creating summer comfort in theatres is to avoid violent changes in temperature. Automatic regulators, such as installed in the RKO Palace Theatre, definitely assure theatre-goers of temperate, sea-breeze atmosphere. House engineers conduct tests at 10-minute intervals and through zealous watchfulness maintain invigorating, yet sensible air currents. This is a far cry, indeed, from that dead and gone era when it was impossible to secure reasonable comfort indoors during the summer.

NEW PHOTOPHONE SOUND MARVEL FOR PALACE THEATRE

The Photophone equipment in the Palace is the newest 1931 model and the first of its type to be installed in the city. This equipment is acknowledged to be the leading mechanism for the perfect reproduction of sound.

Six huge amplifying horns are swung upon traveling cranes backstage, and these are slid into position or out at the touch of a button. All of this is handled electrically, and these changes are made to permit the acts to perform upon the stage. Over one hundred eighteen miles of wire that is unseen, encircles the huge auditorium so that every minute sound can be brought to the audiences.

Vic Versus Eddie!

Victor McLaglen has always been given the merry "ha-ha" by Edmund Lowe in their escapades with women. In "On The Level," at the RKO Palace Theater this week, Eddie puts over the fastest one of his career, even though he is not in the picture.

McLaglen, in the star role, is given "a runaround" by Lilyan Tashman, who portrays the feminine lead. And it is here that Eddie Lowe's sinister hand again asserts itself in Vic's love-life. Lilyan, in private life, is Mrs. Lowe.

BIG SHOWS SWEEP ONWARD TO PALACE; "FOLLIES" NEXT WEEK

El Brendel, the comedy star who has built for himself in one short year the most tremendous following of any celebrity on the talking screen, heads the cast in the new "Follies of 1930," which comes to the Palace Theatre next week.

Last year the "Fox Follies" played an extended run at a loop theatre without any stage show. The fact that it comes to the Palace this year with tremendous headline vaudeville acts is proof positive of the remarkable quality of entertainment going into this theatre at popular prices. This year's "Follies" is considered by critics to be vastly superior to the previous one, inasmuch as it has a thrilling story running throughout, and is shot through with color scenes and bristles with stars and favorites, including El Brendel, William Collier Jr., Marjorie White, Noel Francis, Frank Richardson, and Miriam Seegar.

This smart new gang of "whoopee-makers" run through the fast-moving comedy romance with laughs that come easy, dances that are different, and songs that are said to be the season's biggest.

The personnel of the star-studded vaudeville bill has not yet been announced, but Aunt Jemima, the distinguished star of Florenz Ziegfeld's "Show Boat," will be amongst those who will come in person to grace the Palace stage. A splendid program of short subjects and novelty stage entertainment will also be provided.

MIGHTY RADIO PICTURES FOR PALACE THIS SEASON

Titan Talking Pictures First Listed for Public in Special Story

Hollywood, May 30.—Unheard of a little over sixteen months ago, Radio Pictures have become favorites of talking picture lovers in forty-eight civilized countries throughout the world where its productions has been seen, heard and applauded.

With the star personalities of screen and stage under contract, with the rights to the greatest novels and plays purchased for production into photoplays, and the guidance of such men as Joseph Schnitzer, William Le Baron, the programme outlined for the coming season is predicted to be the most pretentious ever achieved in the industry.

Radio Pictures, but a few weeks ago signed Amos and Andy for three pictures at a guarantee of $1,000,000. The first will be "Check and Double Check," titled after an expression coined by the most universally popular radio comedians and entertainers.

"Cimarron," Edna Ferber's famous novel of the Oklahoma frontier times, will live in talk, music, and natural colors, a Radio Picture. Richard Dix will take the leading role.

Bebe Daniels, star of "Rio Rita," whose singing voice stirred up nothing short of a sensation in Hollywood circles and surprised her millions of admirers, is selected to head the roster of luminaries in "Dixianna," a forthcoming all musical romantic drama.

Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, the comedy stars of "Rio Rita" whose unprecedented success in that picture won them the right to be the whole show in "The Cuckoos," are slated to continue their merry mad adventures in "Half-Shot at Sunrise."

Of outstanding importance among the coming Radio Pictures are "The Silver Horde," "Heart of the Rockies," "Leathernecking," "Babes in Toyland" and "The Iron Trail."

According to Ambrose Dowling, export manager, the Radio Pictures trademark is as familiar in the capitals of the Orient as it is on Broadway.

Icebound Oslo was cheered by "Street Girl," "Tanned Legs," and "The Cuckoos." Bebe Daniels in "Rio Rita" has been seen and heard on the southernmost tip of Africa; girls and women in every clime thrilled to the voice of Rudy Vallee in "Vagabond Lover."

Language differences have proved no embarrassment to the better type of music and dialogue film. Such pictures depend on the universal language of music and drama for their success, and are not only understandable, but enjoyable throughout the world.

"American-made talking pictures," states Mr. Dowling, "have done more, in my opinion, to promote international understanding than the combined forces of literature, science and statecraft.

"To promote internationality, Radio Pictures gathers its talent from every corner of the globe. The art director of "Rio Rita" was Max Ree, a Scandinavian; the chorus director was Pietro Cimini, an Italian; the cast included Don Alvarado, a Latin-American, and George Renevant, a Frenchman."

Roxy's Gang, famed New York radio stars, and who are headlined on the RKO Palace new show idea bill today, receive more than 1,200 pieces of mail from admirers each week. Four secretaries are employed to answer this deluge of correspondence for the Roxy stars of the ether lanes.

Johnny Burke, wisecracking soldier monologist, who is headlined at the RKO Palace Theater today, came to Chicago direct from Hollywood. He has been starred in Mack Sennett talking comedies for the last six months.

ONLY LOOP PARKING SPACE NEAR THEATRE

With adequate parking space for thousands of cars in the immediate vicinity, the RKO Palace Theatre at Randolph, between Wells and La Street, is a haven for motoring theatregoers. For a radius of three blocks there are unlimited parking facilities.

For the convenience of its patrons, the Palace Theatre management have prepared a small pocket size map of the Loop, designating the legal parking space surrounding the theatre. This was drawn up in conjunction with the Traffic Division of the Police Department, and gives full and authentic directions. This parking chart can be secured at the box office of the Palace Theatre on request.

Only two blocks from Randolph and Wacker Drive, Palace patrons have the advantage of parking on the upper and lower levels of this wide thoroughfare. La Salle street provides another convenient place for auto parking, a space being reserved in the middle of it for this exclusive purpose. No other theatre in Chicago presents the same promising parking facility.

SMOKE UP!

An attractive feature for patrons of the Palace who will witness the new titan shows today are the five hundred luxurious, individual, upholstered armchairs on the mazzanine floor, upon which smoking is permitted for both ladies and gentlemen.

These restful chairs might grace any fine home and are unique in their construction. An ash tray is let into each of the arms, matches are provided, so that smokers of both sexes can enjoy cigar or cigarette during the performances. Each of the chairs are an individual unit, wide and roomy, and will be a haven of comfort and amusement to those seeking entertainment.

By a special arrangement of suction ducts and ventilating tunnels the smoke is sucked out into the open air. Not one wisp will disturb those in the audience to whom it may prove distasteful.

RKO'S SENSATIONAL PROGRESS SPURRED BY CHICAGO FIRMS

Quality Products of Many Aggressive Commercial Organizations Combine to Foster Radio-Keith-Orpheum's Amazing Growth

The bright, electric signs that blaze above the RKO theatres and turn night into day must necessarily be kept in repair and in a spic and span condition. The Whiteway Electric Sign Service Company has for many years maintained, painted, and relamped all of the huge, vertical signs, as well as the marquees of RKO theatres in Chicago. RKO insists on quality and service at all times, believing that this must be the background of any large organization, and it is because of this policy that they ultimately discovered that after many tests, the Whiteway Electric Sign Company was the only company that could consistently and capably maintain these huge signs in the right condition of brilliancy. The Whiteway Electric Sign Service Company also takes care of the respraying of the hundreds of thousands of colored electric globes that sparkle upon the marquees of RKO theatres in Chicago.

Service upon these signs is rendered both day and night, a large fleet of wagons being maintained by the Whiteway Sign Service Company, each of them equipped with the necessary machinery to take care of their work, and constructed so as to allow the raising or lowering of a man to effect necessary work.

RKO, as well as many other theatres with whom the Whiteway Company have contracts, have found this service thoroughly adequate in every way, and the neatness of appearance of the Palace and State-Lake Theatres testifies to the efficiency of this organization.

Carbonic gas, the most important item in the operation of the RKO Palace Theatre's refrigerating systems, is a product of the Pure Carbonic Company, which has factories and branch depots at Chicago, East St. Louis, Illinois; Kansas City, Missouri; Detroit, Michigan; Milwaukee, Wisconsin; Seattle, Washington; Berkeley and Los Angeles, California.

This firm enjoys unusual prestige in the carbonic gas field because of the veritable regiment of engineers which they maintain in consulting capacities for the benefit of their numerous accounts.

It becomes necessary to advise the public at all times of the current attractions at the Palace Theatre. Many mediums besides newspapers are used and one of the most popular is that of posting paper in locations all over the city that keep the public thoroughly advised of what they may see at Chicago's popular-priced talking picture and vaudeville theatre.

These posters must be printed artistically so that the original color of the artists are brought out, rendering them easily visible from the street. Chicago Show Printing Company are responsible for the printing of these posters for Radio-Keith-Orpheum, and provide this material for their use throughout the entire middle west. All sizes of paper are made by the Chicago Show Printing Company, from the largest twenty-four sheets to the card which may be seen tacked on the telephone poles.

It is fortunate that the studios of D. H. Bloom, the famous theatrical photographer, are located in the same building as Radio-Keith-Orpheum Circuit offices, for there are many requests by out of town artists coming into Chicago for Mr. Bloom's address, so that they may have a number of his excellent photographs made while in Chicago.

Bloom specializes in the posing of dancers, acrobats and acts that suggest life, as well as in the large heads with soft diffused effects that are so popular with America's stage celebrities. He does a considerable amount of this work for the big acts that appear at the RKO Palace Theatre in connetcion with the unusually fine talking pictures direct from Hollywood at popular prices.

An outstanding requirement for safety of actors and the personnel of a theatre's operating staff are the supports and props which are numerous in the magic haunts which are known as "backstage."

At the RKO Palace Theatre this protection is assured through the purchase of building material, especially lumber, from the George Green Lumber Company. The firm has a wide diversification of lumber, but it is all properly suited to the purpose that it must fulfill. It must be ornamental on occasion—but always it must be safe. This company uses exclusive kiln-dried lumber, and they have machinery and facilities calling for the most unusual specifications.

The operation of theatres constituting a purely cash business necessitates some protection for the large sums of money daily received into the box office and temporarily deposited in large safes in the basements of the theatres. This protection is afforded by Brink's Express, whose armored cars, protected by armed guards, pick up receipts of RKO theatres in this city.

AMATEUR GENTLEMAN AND AN AMBITION

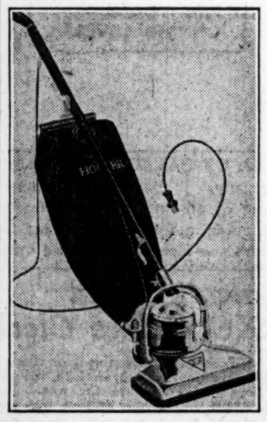
EL BRENDEL (in circle), popular Scandinavian character comedian, stars in the new edition of "Fox Follies," all-talking musical romance coming to the RKO Palace next Saturday. The coolly clad young lady is one of several who lead the aspiring Mr. Brendel into uproarious misadventures.

Hoover Cleaner Final Selection For Great R K O Theatre Chain

With several miles of carpets and hundreds of yards of luxurious upholstery and expensive hangings to keep immaculately clean day in and day out, the RKO theatre conducted exhaustive tests to select premier cleaning apparatus. The ultimate selection fell to the Hoover Electric Cleaner, with its myriad companionate dust-collecting tools.

Day after day, night after night, hundreds of feet track in extraneous matter to settle on the deep-pile carpets and hangings. All of this must be thoroughly absorbed. The Hoover, due to its exclusive cleaning principle, known as Positive Agitation, has given absolute evidence of its efficiency when applied to this task.

"Postive Agitation," declare Hoover officials, "performs three distinct cleaning functions. It sweeps the carpet, at the same time suction cleans the carpet. Under its gentle, thorough action, the carpet is thoroughly rid of deeply embedded dirt, of light dust, and of clinging threads and lint. At the same time, the carpet nap is straightened and combed, preserving its attractive appearance through years of hard usage."



The Hoover dusting tools, used in conjunction with the Hoover cleaner for the draperies, upholstery, and hangings in the Palace Theatre are by far the most efficient set of dusting tools ever devised for any electric cleaner. Their ease of handling, and their thoroughness make for quick, easy dusting. Positive spring touches hold the tools firmly together when in use, but they can be separated merely by the pressure of a finger.

Quality of RKO Display Ads Due to A-1 Work

Advertising being an integral part of the operation of a large theatrical circuit, the mechanical requirements, that is, the engravings and cuts used in newspaper display advertising, must be perfect.

For many years Peerless Engraving Company, Howard Dilkes, president, have been responsible for the high quality of engravings and cuts by this organization.

Much comment has been aroused in the last few days by the large display ads featuring the change of policy at the Palace theatre and advising the public of the titan shows that are to grace the stage and talking screen. The symbolic figures used in these advertisements, the work of Charles E. Courtney, Art Director of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum theatres, was intrusted to the Peerless Engraving Company with perfect results.

CHARLES OFNER UNIFORM SPECIALIST

The nurses' uniforms used by the matron and house staff at the Palace theatre are provided by Charles Ofner, who is a specialist in this class of work. Many of the linen uniforms used by the ushers are also provided by Charles Ofner.

From the primeval forests of the far Canadian Northwest, and the swamp and jungle country of the African Congo comes lumber which was used in the original erection of portions of the RKO Palace Theatre Building.

Pointing for certain permanency and assured quality, Radio-Keith-Orpheum conducted rigid investigations among the lumber marts of the middle west to obtain supreme wood products. Contracts were finally negotiated with the Louis Rubenstein Lumber Company—and today this dominating Chicago company supplies virtually all of the lumber purchased by RKO for its extensive national enterprises.

The rest rooms at the Palace Theatre are kept up to date at all times and sanitary products are provided by the Morgan Tissue Company.

COMMERCIAL ROMANCE MARKS HISTORY OF 105 YEAR OLD SEAT FIRM

Other Interesting Organizations Contribute to Efficient Workings of National Theatrical Circuit

With a production record reaching back one hundred years, the Heywood-Wakefield Company, manufacturers of theatre seats, enjoy a unique, dominating position in the amusement world.

Throughout a century this organization, with seven factories distributed over the length and breadth of the United States, has seen a remarkable evolution in the requirements of theatre seats. Once in the dim and distant past, the first and only specification was for comfort. Today, the Heywood-Wakefield Company, in keeping pace with the public requirements, observe both comfort and artistic principles in the creation of their fine products.

Unusually fine examples of Heywood-Wakefield seats are to be found in the RKO Palace Theatre, with special emphasis directed to the five hundred lounge chairs which are to be found on the mezzanine, and provided for the pleasure and comfort of those who wish to smoke while watching titanic show performances. These represent the epitome of absolute rest and relaxation, being equipped with mattress springs, overstuffed upholstered backs and spring bottom boards. It is a psychological fact that receptive moods cannot be attained without physical comfort—and for this reason Heywood-Wakefield and Radio-Keith-Orpheum have devoted years of research to the proper seating of the millions who attend RKO shows annually.

If a canvas were made of the outstanding, important theatres of the United States, resulting statistics would show that Heywood-Wakefield has been instrumental in providing seats for ninety per cent of these palatial cinema cathedrals. This record is impressive and is a signal tribute to the constant vigilance of the Heywood-Wakefield organization. In passing, it is interesting to note that throughout the hundred five years of its existence, the control of the Heywood-Wakefield firm has passed from generation to generation, and still is captained by representatives of the original family.

Among other nationally known theaters which are equipped with Heywood-Wakefield seats is the Roxy Theatre in New York. Starting at this point, the firm's product is represented throughout such tremendous circuits as the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation down to the seating in fifteen Big League ball parks and a considerable number of horse racing arenas.

From the primeval forests of the far Canadian Northwest, and the swamp and jungle country of the African Congo comes lumber which was used in the original erection of portions of the RKO Palace Theatre Building.

Pointing for certain permanency and assured quality, Radio-Keith-Orpheum conducted rigid investigations among the lumber marts of the middle west to obtain supreme wood products. Contracts were finally negotiated with the Louis Rubenstein Lumber Company—and today this dominating Chicago company supplies virtually all of the lumber purchased by RKO for its extensive national enterprises.

Six million seven hundred and fifty thousand paper clips, more than enough to circle the globe, have been supplied Radio-Keith-Orpheum Circuit by the Reliable Stationery Company, 307 West Monroe street. In addition it has provided enough printing and typewriting paper to blanket the entire state of Illinois, according to "Morrie," genial representative of the Reliable organization.

The use of beautiful colors is invariably associated with theatrical life. The romance of the stage calls for hues that rival the rainbow, and this becomes a chemical problem in the selection of beautiful and enduring dyes.

All of the colors used upon scenery of the RKO theatres in the middle west, and upon posters displayed in the lobby are provided by the Helam Chemical Manufacturing Company, who have made themselves famous over a number of years in this phase of delicate manufacturing.

Celebrities Enjoy Milwaukee Railroad

"The Milwaukee Road," Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad, is the travel choice of many RKO celebrities because it entertains them when en route and not engaged in doing the entertaining themselves.

The "Milwaukee Road" trains wind through the scenic wonderlands of the west. The Olympian and the Columbian to the northwest regions from four mountain ranges—the Rockies, Bitterroots and Cascades—over 656 miles of electrified, underfeed, smokeless, "chugless" railroad.

Summer tourist fares are in season until September 30, with the final return limit October 31. Stop-overs are permitted at all points and a large selection of different return routes are offered. The trip to the Yellowstone via Gallatin Gateway, a big favorite, includes a spectacular 85-mile motor excursion into Gallatin canyon.

The importance of keeping a theater cool in the summer time has been emphasized greatly, but even greater in importance is the importance of keeping the audience warm in the Winter.

The Fleming Coal Company, located in the Strauss Building, has more to do with keeping the world warm and happy in the Winter than any other coal company in the loop. Most of our office buildings burn the Fleming brand, and the RKO theatres, realizing that it takes more than a hot show to keep the audience comfortable when the temperature runs "below," patronizes this king of coal dispensers.

The nearest place for Palace Theatre patrons to park their cars while seeing the show, and where they will be sure that the requisite attention is given, is at the Hotel Sherman Garage, directly across from the theatre.

This garage is one of the largest and best equipped in the loop, and affords a great opportunity for patrons to view titan shows at the Palace and have their cars guarded against the inclemency of the weather or other dangers of leaving a car parked upon the public streets.

LUXURY TRAINS ON PENNSY LINES

"The train must get through," a tradition of the railroad vitally fortifies the tradition of the theater that "the show must go on." Nowadays the trains roar through in luxury and the shows go on in splendor.

The Pennsylvania railroad is one of the routes widely used by RKO actors and actresses.

Whether the stars arrive from New York, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Columbus, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, Fort Wayne, Toledo, Detroit or Grand Rapids, Pennsylvania trains carry them with speed and safety, providing the comforts, good food and conveniences required by the business, health and temperament of those of the stage.

De luxe Pullman car berths rest travelers on spring mattresses. Observation cars are furnished with deep-seated chairs and lounges. There are private smoking compartments for both men and women. Diners offer the finest cuisine. These features and numerous niceties of service make traveling a pleasure on the Pennsylvania lines.

Modern Cooling Plant at Palace Theatre

A modern cooling plant is always in operation at the Palace Theatre whenever the temperature becomes uncomfortable outside. With the arrival of the summer months this plant will be in continual operation, so that patrons may be comfortably cool at all times.

Those having business in the loop upon hot days may find refuge in the Palace, may go to the mezzanine floor, sit in a comfortable armchair covered with white linen, and smoke their favorite brand of cigars or cigarettes.

WM. SLATER JR. DRAPERIES IN THEATRES

Beautiful Hangings Give Warmth to House.

With the opening of the RKO Palace Theater for the initial showing of big pictures and vaudeville at popular prices there were many people who had never before been in this house. They marveled at the elaborateness of stage and rest room draperies of this theater.

The furnishings of any interior accentuate the beauty of the room or spaces treated. Radio-Keith-Orpheum, with years of experience, have maintained and encouraged a color harmony and balance of furniture in all of their lounges and public spaces, with the result that all of their work is carried out in a typically pleasing and restful manner—colorful enough to be pleasing, but properly balanced in color to be dignified. Theater-goers notice this subconciously and are made happy in their surroundings, not realizing that great efforts were made to create just that atmosphere.

Rooms may be decorated to give one a gay thrill of pleasure, but these rooms do not win the constant admiration that the steady theater patron experiences in his visits to a Radio-Keith-Orpheum theater.

Months of preparation and thousands of dollars are spent annually furnishing and maintaining this atmosphere of pleasing dignity. Fabrics, specially designed, are woven months in advance of their installation. These fabrics are then made up into gorgeous draperies under the careful supervision of experienced drapery experts. Great care is exercised to properly balance the folds and festoons of these fabrics in giant arches and small openings. Stage draperies 30 feet high 40 feet wide are made up and installed on tracks and equipped to open on the touch of a button. Openings as large as an ordinary window are given just as much consideration and are worked out to as perfect a balance.

RKO PALACE SIGN RECONSTRUCTED BY LUMINUS COMPANY

Huge Research Staff Aids This Dominating Firm.

Supremacy in the manufacture and erection of electric lights, through earnest research and experimentation, has been achieved by the Luminus Sign Company.

Backed by a huge laboratory and a dozen of the foremost lighting experts in America, this aggressive firm ranks high in its chosen field.

As a tribute to the efficiency of the Luminus Sign Company, Radio-Keith-Orpheum intrusted it with the rehabilitation of the new RKO Palace Theatre sign. This huge vertical affair possesses all of the many new developments created by Luminus engineers, and represents the ultimate in theatre sign possibilities.

CENTRAL TRANSFER CO. HAULS LARGE "PROPS"

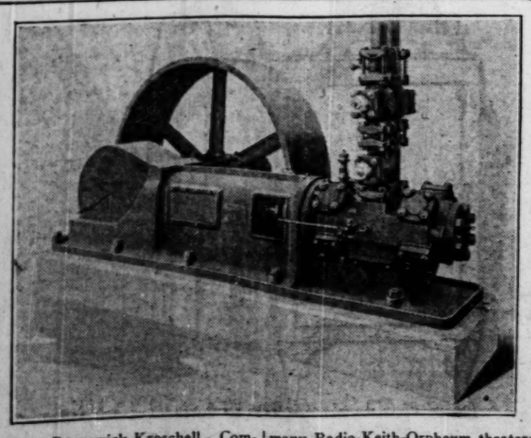
An important phase in the operation of large theatrical circuits featuring star acts and celebrity vaudeville is the expedition with which the baggage, properties, and sceneries belonging to these acts can be removed from depots to backstage.

Absolute reliability is the main factor to be considered by theater executives in matters of this kind, and for that reason Radio-Keith-Orpheum use the services of the Central Transfer Company in shifting from point to point with large trunks containing costumes, property pieces, stage machinery, and the impedimenta that go along with big acts.

STERLING PAPER ENDORSED BY RKO

A mammoth organization like the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation, which operates theaters from coast to coast and from Canada to the gulf, uses dozens of different stationery forms at each of their theaters and in their various departments so that a complete and accurate record can be kept of every phase of all their business operations. The Sterling Paper Company, experts in printing forms of this type, do much of the printing for the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation. The Sterling Paper Company is noted in theatrical circles for the speed and beauty of its work, and has an enviable reputation.

Brunswick-Kroschell Compressor



The Brunswick-Kroschell Company, 4221 Diversey Ave., Chicago, Ill., have successfully installed their air cooling plants (carbonic system), in many Radio-Keith-Orpheum theaters and numerous other theaters, restaurants, hotels, etc.

FRITZI SCHEFF IS VIVACIOUS AND TALENTED

Despite her well-known "temperament" the glorious Fritzi Scheff is always kind to her public, whom she loves more than any one or anything else in life. And so, with a little coaxing, she may be counted on to sing once more, and as beautifully as ever, that charming waltz, "Kiss Me Again," whose haunting strains played so vital a part in carrying the famous Viennese songbird along the road of immortal glory.

But although Vivacious Fritzi returns to the vaudeville stage direct from a tour in another revival of her greatest success "Mlle. Modiste," her versatile talents lend themselves as perfectly to "Songs and Steps of 1930" as to the unforgettable melodies of the past.

It is in this, perhaps . . . in her amazing capacity to remain as eternally young in spirit as in appearance . . . that her greatest genuis lies.

There have been stars . . . celebrated stars . . . who could always rely on the perpetuation of some distinctive early achievement to keep their glory undimmed in the firmament of theatrical fame. And the actresses who seemed to have discovered the much sought secret of everlasting physical youth, and charm and beauty, also make a fairly long list for one who delves deep into theatrical lore.

Miss Scheff, always vivacious, always up-to-the-minute, always progressive, has the additional gift of being as completely a part of this day and age as a sixteen year old girl just making her debut behind the footlights, Fritzi's success in "Mlle. Modiste," brilliant though it was, only repeated her previous triumph in the same operetta.

But in "Steps and Songs of 1930" she offers an entirely new repertoire of ultra modern melody; and assisted by her eight boyish bachelor buttons, who lend her the atmosphere of youth that best suits her girlish appearance and up-to-date spirit, she scores a brand new victory, which is much more difficult than polishing up an old one.

MONROE EQUIPMENT IS NERVOUS SYSTEM OF RKO THEATRES

Electricity plays one of the most outstanding roles in the theater. When patrons are viewing the huge productions at the RKO houses they rarely stop to think of the amount of electricity used to make their entertainment possible.

Monroe electrical equipment is used in RKO theaters throughout the country. Products of the Monroe Electric Supply company in the theater includes the quiet motors and fans that contribute to the comfort of patrons, and the lights that add glamour to the world of the show.

A trip through the company's plant is not only instructive, but most interesting, and the officials of this company encourage the visit of their many friends so that they may familiarize themselves with an immense plan of production.

AMERICAN SEATS ADD TO THEATRE COMFORT

The comfort of patrons at RKO theaters depend almost entirely upon the ease with which they view the performance. This is obtained by the construction experts of the organization being certain that the seats used allow the body full repose at all times.

They have supplied tens of thousands of upholstered seats, and are also responsible for the bolting of these rows into the concrete floors.

Many of the leading theatres from coast to coast feature these carefully springed, softly covered, and sturdy chairs. The American Seating Company are at the present time preparing special seats for many of the new palatial RKO theatres being constructed throughout the country.

RKO theatres at all times use the special packages of the Swansdown Sanitary Products Company, having found this article far superior to any other.

HOENIGSBERGER COMPANY MAKES NEW "TALKIE" FABRIC

"Conservatory Fabrics," a development of the forty-year-old firm of A. Hoenigsberger, with offices at 16 South Market street, Chicago, Ill., have been created since the advent of sound pictures. Prior to the invention of the audible cinema only color, pattern and general quality of material was taken into consideration. Now, however, a primary consideration of fabric is its ability to absorb sound and to prevent interference with sound reproduction.

"Conservatory Fabrics," which make up important decorative items in the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Palace theater as seat and rail covers, are constructed of damasks, brocades, mohairs and velours of amazing softness and richness.

RKO APPROVES OF SCHUMANN PIANOS FOR NEW THEATERS

First produced in 1847, and distinguished from all others because of the elimination of metal from its sounding board, the Schumann piano has been selected as the official instrument for theaters in the international Radio-Keith-Orpheum chain.

A first feature of this remarkable piano is that it lives up to its reputation of "Built Like a Violin." Imported European experts with talented American artisans are pledged with its production at the mammoth Schumann Piano Company factory, Rockford, Ill. It is especially designed to combat unusual atmospheric changes which occur in theaters and homes, and for its signal clarity and beauty of tone.

18 Added to 100,000 Class.

Eighteen new cities of more than 100,000 population thus far have been added by the 1930 census to the 68 that were on that list ten years ago. Twenty of those cities have not yet reported their new count.

The five largest cities in the country are unreported and may be considered as leading the list. They are New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, and Los Angeles. Also Boston and St. Louis have not yet reported. The list follows:

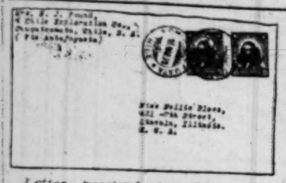
FROM CHUQUICAMATA, CHILE



Letter received by Miss Nellie Bloes, 421 7th street, Lincoln, Ill.

Concerning the senders of this letters, Miss Bloes writes:

"Although Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. Pound are Chicago and Denver bred, and Chuquicamata, Chile, is a far cry from the United States, they have the following to say, regarding that far away country:

"'We both like it here very much and it hardly seems possible that we have been here a year. Have only 22 more months to go.'

"Mr. Pound is under a three year contract as engineer at the offices of the Chile Exploration company, which operates oxide mines in that locality.

"This southern territory, so far south of the equator, is now beginning to enjoy its winter. The temperature during the winter season seldom goes below freezing. The town is situated 10,000 feet above sea level, within sight of the picturesque Andes. In this range, our friends can see two very high volcanic peaks, San Pedro and San Pablo, the former being 20,000 feet high and still an active volcano.

"No vegetation at all grows wild in this territory. There are a few—a very few—cultivated gardens, but only the sturdiest flowers can weather the dryness. Incidentally, we might say that the skies are practically always cloudless. Water is piped down from the Andes 60 miles away. The town is electrically lighted.

"Social life in the American colony is ideal. The 'gringos' are separated entirely from the native quarter and their colony is called American Hill. Americans predominate in numbers, but there are also many English. United States newspapers are about 24 days old by the time they reach 'Chuqui.' THE TRIBUNE is one of the mostly widely read of the newspapers from the states.

"Christmas is not celebrated much by the Chileans. They have a fiesta, but not nearly as great a one as on May 21 and Sept. 18. The former is the date of a big battle with Peru and the latter is their Independence day."

SPONSORS ABANDON SOUTH AMERICA HOP FROM CONNECTICUT

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., May 30.—(AP)—R. Stuart Murray, representing the backers of the Connecticut-Buenos Aires nonstop flight of the aeroplane "K of New Haven," announced tonight they had withdrawn their support from the project. Murray said the proposed flight had been postponed several times and the backers decided finally to withdraw their support. He said all refueling points along the proposed route had been notified.

The K of New Haven landed here today four hours after it had taken off from Hartford on its proposed South American flight when, members of the crew said, the plane had developed an air leak in the oil line.

Two of the crew, Capt. Herbert G. Partridge and Lieutenant Commander G. R. Pond, said they would see D. C. Townley, chief of their sponsors, tomorrow in an attempt to reorganize plans for the flight.

The other flyer, Lieut. Garland Peed Jr., said he had no further interest in the project and removed his belongings from the ship.

CONVICT SLAIN; FELONS ATTEMPT TO FLEE PRISON

London, O., May 30.—(AP)—Guards at the London state prison farm today shot to death one convict who, with 46 other inmates, attempted to batter his way to freedom from a cell block. The 47 were among prisoners brought here from the Ohio penitentiary April 28 after the Easter Monday penitentiary fire in which 320 convicts perished.

The prisoner shot was Sam Mazello of Trumbull county. Bullets pierced his head and heart when he and his mates refused to obey orders of the guards to stop the disturbance.

The shooting came as a climax to 48 hours of unrest within the prison. After the convicts had broken much of the equipment in their cells and began to storm the gates Supt. W. H. Amrine gave the order to fire.

When Mazello fell dead the other convicts returned to their cells and became quiet. The county coroner, who investigated the shooting, gave a verdict of accidental death.

Officials of the prison said Mazello had been a member of Company K at the penitentiary, the "dangerous squad," and that he had been one of the disturbing elements in the unrest at the penitentiary after the fire. He had been unruly at the prison farm also, they said.

LITHUANIA CLAIMS POLES MASSACRE VILNA SUBJECTS

GENEVA, May 30.—(AP)—Correspondence published today by the league of nations shows that new friction has developed between the Polish and Lithuanian governments over the disputed Vilna territory.

David Zaunius, Lithuanian foreign minister, in a telegram May 22 protested an incident which occurred May 18 in Imitrauka, decrying "acts of terrorism committed by Polish soldiers," and characterizing the incident as "massacre by Polish soldiers of the inhabitants of the occupied territory of Vilna."

In reply Francois Sokal, permanent Polish delegate at the league, wrote the secretary general that the incident took place in Polish territory between Polish subjects. Poland and Lithuania long have disputed over the city of Vilna, claimed by the Lithuanians but now a part of Poland. The situation has been before the league several times.

Girl's Stepfather Fires Shots as Suitor Flees

Joseph Ballestere seized a pistol and drove 18 year old Harry Marano from the Ballestere home at 257 West 22d place yesterday when the youth came to the house to ask permission to marry Jennie Marello, Ballestere's stepdaughter. As Marano, who lives at 154 West 24th street, fled, Ballestere fired three shots into the air. The suitor went to the Cottage Grove avenue police station and said he would ask a warrant for Ballestere's arrest today.

CENSUS POINTS ILLINOIS' PATH TO REMAPPING

15 Downstate Districts Short of Requirement.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Complete census returns have been received from twenty-one of the thirty-two downstate legislative districts. On the basis of an estimated state population of 7,500,000, which is admittedly low, fifteen of these districts fail to measure up to the population requirement of the state constitution concerning senatorial apportionment. It is predicted there will be half a dozen more in the same class when all the counties have been heard from.

These figures have been watched for in Cook county and other large counties that have not the representation in the general assembly to which the constitution entitles them. The redistricting question is excluded from the special session of the legislature now in progress, but it is believed certain that the issue will be taken up in the regular session next January and that Chicago's campaign for reapportionment will have an increased support from the larger cities downstate.

What the Figures Show.

On the present population estimates Cook county is entitled to at least twenty-six and probably to twenty-seven of the fifty-one districts in the state. This would give it a majority in each house—at least 26 of the 51 senators and 78 of the 154 representatives.

The constitution commands that the state shall be apportioned every ten years. This mandate has not been carried out since 1901. The law also requires that the federal census shall be the basis of computation of the population assigned to each senatorial district. It provides that the state shall be divided into fifty-one districts. The process prescribed is that the state population as shown by the latest census shall be divided by 51 and that the figure obtained shall be the ratio to be sought in the formation of the districts.

A further constitutional requirement is that in no case shall less than four-fifths of the senatorial ratio be allowed as the population of a senatorial district.

Six Districts Meet Requirement.

On the basis of 7,500,000 population, the ratio after the completion of the census will be 147,060. The constitutional minimum of four-fifths of that number is 117,648. Only two of the downstate districts completed meet the full ratio and only four others pass the minimum four-fifths mark. Following is a tabulation of the twenty-one districts, where census enumerations are now complete, showing the populations in 1930, 1920, and 1900:

12	78,712	79,005	78,429
22	116,973	111,931	93,908
24	93,690	87,512	80,552
26	88,624	86,573	86,202
28	129,030	113,989	91,655
30	107,203	107,385	109,956
34	74,948	75,877	77,276
35	107,077	95,517	96,360
36	163,674	106,788	118,025
38	116,931	134,242	111,106
39	98,447	92,925	87,776
40	97,123	107,104	109,905
42	92,281	97,684	90,288
44	114,337	119,966	115,075
45	146,012	133,829	106,590
46	76,678	81,310	92,310
47	145,427	122,949	80,772
49	157,263	136,520	86,685
50	170,167	177,243	104,109
51	82,379	89,479	84,244

The only Chicago census figures made public have been by wards. Therefore the populations of Cook county senatorial districts, all of which break over ward lines, cannot be computed at this time.

TEST ACCURACY OF TAX FIGURES IN TWO SURVEYS

N. U. Professor Launches Study of Valuations.

A survey to determine the percentage of accuracy in real estate valuations under the reassessment was begun yesterday. The study is being made by Herbert D. Simpson, associate professor of economics at Northwestern university, for the joint commission on real estate valuations.

Prof. Simpson will compare assessments on individual properties throughout the county with neighboring properties and with other sections of the county. The comparison is to be made on selected blocks of various classifications of property. From the study Prof. Simpson will establish the percentage of error and of accuracy.

Cutmore Also Makes Survey.

A similar study is being made by Harry S. Cutmore, director of the reassessment. Cutmore began his survey to prove his contention that the reassessment is 80 per cent perfect.

"I am confident that my estimate will be supported," he said. "For the first time in years Cook county has an assessment in which every effort has been made toward equality. Compared with the 1927 assessment, with its haphazard valuations, the 1928 assessment is perfection.

"The cost of appraising each piece of property in the county under the reassessment was 72 cents. In New York the cost is $1.14. The job was done within six months. In the hurry mistakes were made. In some instances they were intentional, but we cannot guarantee the infallibility and honesty of man.

"Mistakes Easy to Find."

"Under the reassessment the mistake stands out like a sore thumb. It's there in black and white. Formerly there was no way of telling where errors were made, not to mention fixes. Now an error can be readily corrected.

"Taxpayers complain against high taxes. I have nothing to do with that. I was hired to make an equitable reassessment. I have done my best and am still working to perfect it. Protests come largely from persons who escaped a just share of the tax burden in the past.

"I have no sympathy with such complaints. If I could lower tax rates I would most certainly do so. But as long as home owners must pay taxes they should appreciate attempts to have them pay on the same basis as their neighbors."

Would Eliminate Collectors.

J. L. Jacobs, county efficiency expert, yesterday urged the abolishment of the jobs of the 30 country town tax collectors, declaring their posts useless and expensive. The collectors are allowed $250,000 for collecting $13,000,000, while the county treasurer gets a salary of $10,000 a year for collecting $225,000,000, Jacobs said.

"The treasurer has so developed his office and the system of branch banks as collection substations that the work of taking over the country township collections could be taken over at a fraction of the annual cost of $250,000," Jacobs said. "The collectors work about a month for their money. In addition to the fee charges there is the unnecessary cost to taxpayers in interest charges while spending bodies wait on collectors to turn over the money."

DETROIT MAN DIES IN CRASH.

Logansport, Ind., May 30.—[Special.]—En route to his former home here to spend the holiday, Russell Doyle, 30, of Detroit, was killed instantly when his machine crashed into a car operated by Michael Maloney, Chicago merchant, at Ann Arbor, Mich., last night. Mrs. Doyle and her brother, Elrod Paddock, suffered critical injuries.

TWO GANGSTERS TORTURED, SLAIN NEAR NEW YORK

Hijackers' Bodies Found by Farmer.

New York, May 30.—[Special.]—"Wild Bill" Schlessinger, 32, of Passaic, and "Spary" Standey Wilda, 28, of Wallington, two of the most notorious hijackers, racketeers, and gunmen in northern New Jersey, are dead and evidence indicates that they were first tortured by slow strangulation and then shot to death.

Their bodies were found near Paramus, Bergen county, early this afternoon by Albert Rickow, a farmer.

Wilda's body was partly covered with brush and a small hot water tank taken from a nearby dump. Schlessinger's body also was partly covered and on top of it was a small gas stove.

County Physician Dr. Ralph Gilady, who performed an autopsy, said the men had been dead about 24 hours. He found a bullet hole in the left temple of Schlessinger and there were rope marks on his neck.

Wilda was shot twice through the chest, near the heart, and one bullet was found just under the skin near the stomach. The bullets were of .38 caliber. A sash cord was found around Wilda's neck.

Police were of the opinion that the victims were partly stripped of their clothing and tortured before being shot. There existed also the belief that Wilda was dead before the bullets were fired into his body.

THE AUTHORSHIP OF THE TRACTION ORDINANCE.

On July 1 the voters of Chicago will pass upon a new franchise to be granted a new local transportation company. Before considering the detailed provisions of the franchise it is worth while to examine its authorship. Inevitably its general character will reflect the good sense, the planning power, the fairness and integrity of the minds which drafted it. It cannot rise much above their level nor fall much below it.

The ordinance is not a one-man creation. It is the product of a number of minds representing a variety of interests. In its present form it has been accepted by the spokesmen for two surface lines, the elevated company, and the aldermen and their lawyers. All of these interests had a greater or less part to play in the drafting of the measure, but it is safe to say that the influence of none of them was as great as that of Mr. Walter Fisher.

Mr. Fisher entered the negotiations under somewhat unusual circumstances. One of the surface lines—that serving the north and west sides—was in receivership when the negotiations toward the present ordinance began. The federal court—Judge Wilkerson—appointed Mr. Fisher to represent it in the negotiations. With this authorization Mr. Fisher passed upon the enabling laws subsequently enacted by the state legislature and he has been the central figure in the drafting of the ordinance based upon these laws.

Throughout his participation Mr. Fisher has been accepted as the spokesman for the public interest. A strictly legalistic interpretation of his rôle might lead to a different estimate of it. The court which Mr. Fisher represented is charged in a receivership with conserving the interests of the invested capital. Neither the court, the public, the spokesmen for the companies, nor any one else familiar with the transportation situation in Chicago has ever assumed that Mr. Fisher was taking this narrow view of his responsibilities. Mr. Fisher has been, in fact, if not in name, the representative of the public exactly as he was during the preparation of the 1907 ordinances. The only difference is that then he was acting as special counsel for the city, while now he is the representative of Judge Wilkerson.

The choice of Mr. Fisher for this rôle could hardly have been bettered. He was thoroughly familiar with the local transportation situation from his experience with it in 1907; his record in public life in Chicago and as secretary of the interior is above reproach; and the community had every reason to repose confidence in him because of the satisfactory operation of his 1907 ordinance within the limitations placed upon it by the laws of the state at the time it was adopted. As a result of the 1907 ordinance, which concerned the surface lines only, a great improvement in surface transportation was obtained. The city's growth was encouraged, streets were paved, and the comfort and convenience of the passengers was served about as well as the art of mass transportation at the time permitted.

It is, of course, impossible to say to just what extent Mr. Fisher wrote the ordinance now before the voters. Those who have been in touch with the progress of the negotiations say he is the author of a large part of it and the umpire in all or nearly all of the controversies between the companies involved and between them and the city officials. While it would be unwise to judge the ordinance solely by the fact of his connection with it, the fact that he did play a dominating part in its preparation can be regarded as an indication that the interest of the public has been safeguarded.

INJURY TO THE FEDERAL BENCH.

The house judiciary committee has approved a bill to increase by seventeen the number of federal judges. More judges are needed, it is said, because of the large number of prohibition prosecutions.

When the story of prohibition is finally written, the injury to the federal judiciary will be seen as by no means the least of its evils. From the founding of the country until today the federal judges have been, with few exceptions, men of learning and high character. They have not been well paid and in recent years particularly they have accepted appointment only because the position of United States judge was one to which great honor was attached. In private practice many of them can command half a dozen times the salary they receive as judges.

A 10 per cent increase in the number of federal judges such as is now proposed for the reason given will inevitably result in lowering the esteem in which the position of federal judge is held. If many soldiers in the army received the congressional medal of honor the distinction conferred by the medal would be greatly diminished. Likewise, if the distinction conferred by appointment to the bench is blurred by a multitude of appointments men of the sort who now feel honored by appointment will have less incentive to serve.

LET THE STATE DEPARTMENT EXPLAIN.

Twenty-seven members of the navy board and other high naval officials, the highest in the country, have appeared for questioning on the London treaty before the senate foreign relations and naval affairs committees and have analyzed the agreement as injurious to the American navy. Four others of high standing have said that they found it satisfactory. For one reason, they believe that the United States has a better chance to get a well balanced navy under an agreement than without one. That is, in effect, that whether the treaty in itself is all it might or ought to be, the results under it will be better than if there is no treaty. These are deductions from probabilities and may be given some weight. They go outside the treaty itself and are speculations regarding the temper of congress, the aggressiveness of pacifists and the attitude of the administration.

It remains notable, however, that the heavily preponderant opinion of the navy is against the treaty. It is natural far navy men to oppose a sacrifice of ships and of the right to build ships. Other negotiators may think in terms of peace but peace is not when a navy is used. Navy men think in terms of battle strength, that being their concern. They also have the professional bent, but it also is for the good of the service.

It is apparent that the treaty is not one which has the fleet as its main preoccupation. It is a political rather than a naval treaty, a diplomatic agreement intended for certain purposes in international relations. That being the case, it is essential to find out what all these diplomatic agreements and purposes are. It may be done by getting the whole correspondence and interchange between the nations involved, particularly between the United States and Great Britain.

NEW WANTS AND BETTER GOODS.

Depressions in America are based more on technological failures in adjustment than on scarcity of materials or men. When hard times come because we can produce more than we can buy, it is clear that the trouble is not a fundamental lack of goods and labor to feed, clothe and give us services that human beings may desire, but a lack of brains, socially speaking, in distributing what we have. Depressions in this western world come of failures in our financial and distributive system and the lack of desire or power to consume what our hands make.

A new want may stimulate the entire industrial system of the country into new action and prosperity, and a succession of new wants made possible by science and invention in great part has driven America and the west into the economic expansions on the grand scale of the present age. The automobile, the radio, the airplane, the movie, the talkie—one after another they have come, adding new fuel and energy to burn the old and to build the new. The question is "not how long can you keep a thing," says Owen D. Young, "but how quick you can economically scrap it. That's progress."

Of late years this progress seems to be less in improved instruments of production, tools, machines to make more things, than in things made directly to consume. Most of the radios, the automobiles, for example, are purchased not to make more money or produce more commercial goods for their purchasers, but to use directly by the consumer. They are for enjoyment, not production, and with greater leisure and more surplus of production the modern age turns more and more to the problems and technique of consumption. How to consume more is now far more the problem than production.

Better goods will revive our wants, quiescent for the moment with what we have. A radical improvement in a motor car, a better movie camera and so on will stimulate new buying. Though the process perhaps is topheavy, it has been our way of growth for the last century or so. Better goods will build up business in America.

CHICAGO SKYSCRAPERS—AND OTHERS.

Ald. Coughlin has proposed an amendment to the building code to permit an increase in the dimensions of the towers on downtown buildings. To do so, objectors have said already, is to increase the fire hazard and discriminate against owners of buildings erected under existing restrictions. It is also said that there is no shortage of space in the downtown district to warrant Ald. Coughlin's measure.

These objections all deserve careful study. At least one other consideration merits attention. Under existing regulations a type of building has been designed which has contributed much to Chicago's appearance. Individually many of our towers may be lacking in architectural charm, but in the aggregate, as they are silhouetted against the sky, they present a mass which is unrivaled in American cities. The contrast with New York is striking and all in favor of the Chicago type of tower.

Editorial of the Day

[Decatur Herald.]

An incident in the life of John Masefield, newly appointed poet laureate of Great Britain, piques curiosity. It is recorded that when Masefield was a gangling youth off a windjammer in New York a saloonkeeper named Luke O'Connor gave him a job cleaning the cuspidors and polishing the brass rail. These menial tasks Masefield apparently performed admirably. A sort of friendship sprang up between O'Connor and the boy who "certainly could make things shine" according to the saloonkeeper's later testimony. Masefield even received a job of minding the O'Connor baby.

Masefield eventually drifted to another job, and went back to England to write poetry. Prohibition came along and the saloon was closed. O'Connor, finding himself with leisure and money, took a trip to Europe. It is on record that he searched England for his former janitor, and failing to find him, for Masefield was living in seclusion, returned a second time. His persistency was rewarded. He and Masefield had a good visit.

The question that naturally occurs is what John Masefield and the Greenwich village saloonkeeper had in common and what they found to talk about. But there may have been no difficulty here. The conclusion is that O'Connor must have been one of those saloonkeepers who never drank, and whose real interest, instead of in a sordid business, was in art and poetry. He may have known "Sea Fever," "Cargoes," and "The Widow in the Bye Street" by heart. What we really wonder is whether the author of the "Everlasting Mercy" remembered vividly some of Mr. O'Connor's patrons and inquired about them.

FATIGUE AND SLEEP.

"Stonewall Jackson increased the day's march of his soldiers by feeding them some sugar and requiring that they lie flat on the ground resting for a short time periodically.

"Human muscles get forty per cent of the energy from food. A Diesel engine gets thirty-five per cent of the values from gasoline, and ordinary gasoline engines only twenty to twenty-five per cent. Exercise of one part of the body may make the entire system tired. [By using up tissue sugar and accumulating lactic acid waste.] Exercising an arm may help us to recover from a tired leg. As much as three-fourths of our fuel may be re-created oxygen of the blood and may change lactic acid back into glycogen [body sugar].

"During hot weather, when physical fatigue increases through the loss of body salts in perspiration, drinking water that contains a little ordinary table salt quickly replaces lost body salts and fatigue is lessened.

"Muscular efficiency is highest on a predominatingly carbohydrate diet such as one containing sugar, beans, bread, corn meal, crackers, dates, honey, macaroni, molasses, oatmeal, rice, and cereals.

"To repair muscle strength meat and egg foods are best. To supply iron needed to carry oxygen the diet should contain liver, meats, eggs, almonds, beans, dates, figs, hazelnuts, lentils, oatmeal, spinach, and raisins.

"During the world war German soldiers were given sodium phosphate before long marches and they proved to be unusually fatigue-resistant. Just how the salt acted has not been determined.

"Factory output can be increased by alternating jobs so that workers use different groups of muscles. In one glass plant shifting men from one machine to another occasionally increased the volume of work fifteen per cent.

"Weston visibly accelerated his speed by accentuating each third step.

"The longer we work the less we accomplish per hour. After about two weeks of overtime working a worker does no more work in ten to twelve hours than is usual in an eight hour day.

"By resting we do more work with less fatigue.

"If we use heavy muscles instead of light ones, carry weights near joints rather than far from them, and take advantage of leverage and remember principles of physics we can greatly increase our apparent strength and lessen fatigue. The apparent magic of the Georgia Wonder was due to this woman's application of physics.

"Emotional fatigue, the most insidious and harmful form of tiredness, can be overcome by change of emotion.

MRS. D. D. W. writes:

1. What can be used on the body to keep fleas from biting?
2. How shall a flea bite be treated when it forms a large bump?
3. What can be used about the place to kill fleas?

REPLY.

1. Try a line of mosquito repellents. Begin with a mixture of one ounce cedar oil, two ounces citronella, two ounces spirits of camphor.
2. Let it alone. If this is beyond you, apply a little witch hazel.
3. Get rid of the infested animals such as cats and dogs. Clean up the breeding places. Fleas breed in dust. Use flake naphtha to drive away the adult fleas.

DEMENTIA PRÆCOX.

M. R. S. C. writes: I see you say dementia præcox can be cured. My niece has it. Kindly tell me where to take her to be cured.

REPLY.

You do not quote me correctly, because you omitted some qualifying phrases. Many cases of dementia præcox can learn to fit into home and business life to a satisfactory degree. In that sense, they are cured. Such cures are made in all sanitaria and hospitals for mental diseases.

ASKS FOR TAX BILLS.

Chicago, May 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.)—1. I hold the title deeds for a lot which I purchased 4 years ago, but all assessment and tax bills are still sent to the man from whom I purchased, although the assessment department at the city hall has been notified of change several times. What procedure should be taken to get this put right?

2. Am I likely to have lot taken from me through not receiving assessment or tax bills?

3. Is an owner given grace to pay assessment bills one year after due with added interest? R. E. S.

1. The tax officials should comply with notice to send the bills to you. We do not see how you can be in a position to say what they are doing in view of the fact that only two sets of bills have been sent in these four years.
2. You should see that the taxes are paid. Your question is not clear.
3. Yes, in the sense that he is given two years after a tax sale in which to redeem. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

THE GENTLE GRAFTER.

Chicago, May 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A short time ago I ordered a suit and deposited $10 on it. Then I took a job working on a certain building. Then I got out of work and the man wouldn't deliver the suit nor return the deposit. E. D.

We consider his course unjustified, but the amount involved is too small to be worth litigating. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DERIVATIVE CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, May 27.—[Friend of the People.]—I know a young man 20 years old who came to the United States lately for permanent residence. His father was naturalized last September. Will the son become a citizen through his father's naturalization? J. N. F.

If the young man referred to came to the United States after his father's naturalization and before he reached the age of twenty-one years he is a citizen, and if he desires a certificate of derivative citizenship he should apply to this office for an application. FRED J. SCHLOTTFELDT, District Director of Naturalization.

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. W. M.

THIS FELLOW BOBBY JONES—

he goes over to England with nothing but some golfing clubs, and look what he does to 'em. We send statesmen with high silk hats and long black coats and striped gray trousers and patent leather boots and spats and everything, and what happens to 'em? We ask you! Bobby Jones won again yesterday, and now he's up to the finals. Did any of our statesmen who traveled away over there and sat in various conferences ever get as far as the finals? They did not. They got bunkered and euchered and double-crossed and jinxed and hoodooed and eliminated and everything else. They never got up to the finals. What we ought to do is to insist that in the next international peace conference the thing be settled with golf clubs or baseball bats or tennis racquets or something we can play. Whenever our boys go over there with silk hats on they have it handed to 'em. International diplomacy is over our heads, and the higher our silk hats are the higher it goes over us. But when we grab a golf club and spit on our hands and yell "Fore," we're not so bad; in fact, we're pretty good. Let's play Great Britain to settle this naval parity thing, and every time we make a birdie we're to be allowed a battleship. Boy, what a navy we'd have!

WHERE THE SUWANEE RIVER FLOWS.

In its windings, in its turnings, in its purling way it goes,
Loitering here in coves or scrambling over shallows as it flows,
There are fifty rivers like it that run rippling to the sea,
But there's that about the Suwanee that is different to me.

The river may not sing it, but a voice is there it seems,
Floating downward in the current with each bubble as it gleams,

There are rivers that go singing under sun and under star,
There are rivers broader, swifter, that come gayly from afar,

But the Suwanee river's cadence is a music of its own,
A poignant, sweet old melody that goes with it alone,
And it touches every heartstring with its pathos once again,

CLARENCE P. MILLIGAN.

STUDENTS at Ottawa university are bragging about being served with plum jam which had been buried on the university grounds for twenty-seven years, and which was excavated by workmen just the other day. We rise to respectfully ask the authorities of Ottawa university if several spring chickens likewise twenty-seven years old were not also exhumed at the same time the plum jam was? We sent to market the other day for a spring chicken—oh, nothing; but we were just wondering.

THE AMERICAN Bible society announces the Bible is printed in whole or in part in 886 languages. Yet, when you read what Dr. Clarence True Wilson and Deets Pickett had to say regarding the last election we throw up our hands and meekly say, what's the use?

HORRORS! And we love cream puffs, and now we can't have any cream puffs any more forever! No, sir, because Johnny Hines, the w. k. movie actor, told the judge out in Loz Ong Glaize that he wasn't intoxicated as the traffic cops said, but he was driving sort o' wobbly because he had been eating cream puffs and he suspected that somebody had slipped some wine into those cream puffs. So, of course, the Anti-Saloon league and the W. C. T. U. and Bishop Cannon will now make eating cream puffs a felony. Goodaby cream puffs, how we hate to see you go; but goodaby, goodaby!

Lagniappe.

THE GOVERNMENT has ordered a railroad station off the air for using improper language. All very well. BUT—we are still pained that radio announcers and preachers on Sunday continue to say — constitooshun . . . roon . . . Joon . . . toon and . . . the Indianner Doones. And if that isn't improper language, what is?

ROMANCE in this machine age? There is no sich animule! A Chicago young man sallied forth the other night, and, standing under the window of his darling, played a beautiful love serenade on his banjo. Many of the families in the building threw things at the young man, and the father of his adored one sailed out with a gun and filled the air with cold lead. Romance? Today? In Chicago? Bah!

THIS IS, INDEED, A PROBLEM—this thing of blackstrap molasses. It's down in the impending tariff bill for a very low duty. But a wail comes from the embattled farmer that if blackstrap molasses comes in from the tropics at a low duty then the bootleggers will buy it to make hootch out of instead of home grown Ioway corn. Let us appeal to the bootleggers to be patriotic and patronize home industry.

SATURDAY, and the second day of your three days' vacation. How lovely; so we'll take a vacation, too, and consequently there will be no Line today. Now for at least a dozen letters saying—"but you did have a Line Saturday! How come?" Go ahead, ask us. R. H. L.

THE VOICE OF THE PACIFIST

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Lewis F. Bates testified in the assassination conspiracy trial. He said that he had lived at Goldsboro, N. C., for four years and that on April 19, this year, Jefferson Davis stopped at his house. Davis received a telegram announcing the assassination of President Lincoln and the attacks on the Sewards. Bates said that Breckinridge and Davis discussed the assassination and Breckinridge remarked that he regretted it very much. Davis' reply, the witness said, was: "Well, general, I don't know. If it were to be done at all it were better that it were well done, and if the same were done to Andy Johnson and Secretary Stanton the job would then be complete."

NEW YORK.—John G. Nicolay, consul to Paris, and Maj. Hay, secretary to the legation in France, will sail from New York on the City of London on July 24 to assume the duties assigned to them by President Lincoln and subsequently ratified by President Johnson.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Maj. Gen. George H. Thomas arrived here and will soon supersede Gen. Halleck in command at Richmond. Gen. Halleck is to be transferred to the Pacific department. Gen. Meade is to command the Atlantic department.

DETROIT, Mich.—Maj. Gen. Custer left his home at Monroe for Cincinnati, en route to New Orleans, where he will assume his new command. He was presented with a valuable hound by a gentleman of this city, which he takes with him.

LONDON.—The Transvaal war practically ended yesterday. Convinced that further resistance would be futile Johannesburg admitted the British troops. Before noon President Kruger departed from Pretoria, leaving a committee of safety to preserve order and to make full submission to Lord Roberts' victorious army. Terms of surrender are now being drawn. So draws to a close a struggle begun last October and waged with unvarying fierceness on both sides for nearly eight months, at a cost of 25,000 lives and more than one billion dollars. Complete details are yet to be received but enough has come over the wires from Pretoria to show that the Boer republics are now things of the past. President Kruger fled in his private car to Watervalboven, 120 miles away. Just what his plans may be is uncertain. He may reconstitute the seat of government at Lydenburg and try to prolong the struggle a bit longer or he may take a steamer for Europe. President Steyn's whereabouts is unknown.

CHICAGO.—North side residents will have rapid transit from Wilson avenue to the downtown district today. The Northwestern "L" will start its regular service at noon. Tests yesterday revealed the road to be in perfect working order.

HAGERSTOWN, Md.—"American soldiers never surrendered to any but American soldiers," were the words of President McKinley in an address to veterans of the blue and the gray in accepting from Maryland in behalf of the federal government a monument erected to the memory of the men of both the northern and the southern armies who died on the field of Antietam.

MAY 31, 1920.

CHICAGO.—There will be no "steam roller" in the 1920 Republican national convention to be held in Chicago next week. Every candidate will receive an absolutely square deal not only on the floor but during the convention preliminaries. Contests which involve delegates will be heard in public sessions, and there will be no pretense afforded for a bolt. These were the messages brought to Chicago by Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican national committee, who will call the convention to order and have much to do with its management.

KNEE PANTS.

Chicago, May 29.—If our student friends shorten the long trousers and doff the heavy coat in the interest of freedom, let them consider whether they may not be leading us, their fellow citizens, into a worse state than we now are. We all know what a fat man looks like with his coat off. The same man in shorts and middy blouse would look—but words fail to adequately express it.

Will we all have to quit eating so that we will come down to the size and shape which will permit of the new fashions? Will we have to modify our figures by means of belts, supports, corsets or some sort of device to improve and restrain the figure within the bounds of grace and beauty?

Whatever comes of it (if anything) let us hope that they will improve the hideous clothes now worn by men, but also let us hope that they do not get us into worse than we now have.

PHILOSOPHER.

A PLACE TO MOOR.

Chicago, May 27.—"Would-Be Sailor," indignant that he has failed to obtain mooring for a motor boat, intimates that the Lincoln park administration favors the wealthy owners of large boats. I do not believe this is so, because I assure you that I am neither wealthy nor the owner of a large boat, yet I have secured a stall in Lincoln park lagoon. My boat is about eleven feet long, draws an inch or so water, is powered by an outboard motor, and I pay $7.50 the season. The administration might just as well have given my stall to some owner of a larger boat and obtained more money for it, for the charges are based on the size of the boat, and, I understand, run up to $100 or more. There certainly was no discrimination so far as I was concerned. I sent my application in the latter part of March and received my permit for mooring last Saturday.

I have a suggestion. There is a lot of space left in the lagoon, now used by the boat club at the north end. Stalls could be built in a part of this space without serious interference with the boat club. LYNN C. KNOWLES.

SARAH LINCOLN'S DESCENDANTS.

Chicago, May 26.—There appears in the Sunday issue—May 25—of THE TRIBUNE the following notice: "Dennis Franklin Johnston, grandson of Abraham Lincoln's stepmother, died at the age of 34. He was the last descendant of Sarah Bush Johnston Lincoln." The statement as to her last descendant is entirely incorrect. I am personally well acquainted with at least seven of her descendants, all of whom are her great-grandsons, and through correspondence I am acquainted with as many of the same generation and more remote—her great-great-grandchildren. There are also a number of her descendants that I have not yet written to for material to be used in my research work.

ELEANOR GRIDLEY.

UNVOTED BALLOTS.

Chicago, May 25.—I have read recently with much interest Mr. Henry Ford's comment on the Literary Digest straw vote and was much amused at the way he accounted for the 15 million unvoted ballots. When the Digest poll of 1928 pointed to the election of the dry Mr. Hoover, did Mr. Ford try to account for the unvoted ballots? Not on your tintype! J. B. JORDAN.

DR. WILSON'S ALLEGATIONS.

Chicago, May 29.—Dr. Clarence True Wilson is a fanatic and, like all fanatics, bases his belief on his own opinions instead of on facts. I have lived in the Fiftieth ward in Chicago since 1894. Since living there I have been clerk of election and still am. In our precinct there is one Catholic institution that houses about forty-five nuns and two priests. When I took up the books all of these persons were registered and had been for some time before. That was several years before any one even thought of Al Smith; in fact, before Calvin Coolidge was elected President. So much for that misstatement.

As to the priests and nuns supporting a Catholic: Never did the people of Chicago need Catholic support more than did Mr. Dever (a devout Catholic and excellent executive) need it in his second campaign. Did he get it? He did not. Of the above forty-seven Catholic nuns and priests, one voter came to the polls and that only after three individual workers for Mr. Dever made personal solicitations. Whether he supported Mr. Dever, we do not know. Certainly the other forty-six did not.

Your correspondent is allied to no church and no individual, but is a firm believer in fair play and facts.

FLORENCE M. BARON.

THE FRUIT OF INTOLERANCE.

Chicago, May 29.—The information going into the record as a result of present senate investigations may well give to every citizen—Protestant, Catholic, Jew, freethinker—reason to pause and consider.

Now I think it reasonable to ask the misguided Christians who glorify their efforts in the last election whether victory has been worth the candle? Hoover is admittedly a fine, good and true man; but ever since his advent in office he has been hampered by the ill will, unrest, uncertainty and depression a bigoted and misguided voting element let loose upon the country. We live in hard times these days, as many of the former now know to their sorrow. Is it not better, perhaps, to set our house in order and acquire good will and forbearance toward all before we ask God to send us prosperity we have not earned?

OBSERVER.

COLD SCHOOLS.

Chicago, May 26.—Do the taxpayers of the city of Chicago realize that after June 13 our public schools will be without heat, due to the fact that all the firemen will be laid off until September? This means that the children will have no protection from the cold and dampness of the school. Why have a repetition of what happened last year? Should not our children's health be protected until the last day of school?

TAXPAYER.

PANSIES FOR GAAR.

Chicago, May 27.—The Wild Flower Preservation society keenly appreciates Mr. Gaar Williams' fine cartoon showing a secret ambition to turn the forces of the law on wild flower bandits.

Charles Boni, already issuing new s for seventy-five cents in his r books club, will continue to pub- at that price, but since the mem- of the Paper Books club already getting twelve books for five dol- there is nothing economically ic about his action. He an- ced the organization of a one dol- book of the month club and to the club has five thousand sub- rs.

e of the older publishers met and a statement that it is econom- y unsound to publish new books e dollar and that they would con- e their present schedules. The ers Harper & Brothers, Charles ner's Sons, Dodd Mead & Co., rick A. Stokes, the Macmillan pany, Harcourt Brace & Co., Al- d A. Knopf, G. P. Putnam's Sons, E. Dutton & Co., and the Cosmo- an Book corporation. It is the ng of many of the individuals of group that the lower price move cial to the industry. On Thurs- seven of the ten, with the addition Little, Brown & Co., Horace Live- ht, Inc., Longmans, Green & Co., William Morrow & Co., made a ined statement on the conse- ces of the price reduction.

Herbert Liveright who returned from Europe the day the news was at its exciting point, hinted at combines and trusts, but thus far at least no book publisher shows any signs of closing his desk and going in for one of the world flights or other busi- that have been economically perilous than publishing books and no two or three houses have announced uniting of their fortunes or misfortunes (accord- ing to the point of view).

Meanwhile for the first time since I can remember the man in the street, the elevator boy, the home girl, the business woman who is supporting a husband on a small salary, the banker who buys at 92 and sells at 94 and the broker who buys books to match her eyes [not mental] all are talking about lower priced books. New York has been more book conscious the last year or so than it has ever been since days when a book called "Uncle Tom's Cabin" sent a nation to war.

Whatever happens in the book busi- ness as a business, hundreds of thou- sands of people have been talking about books as if they were food. Books are, by the miracle of becoming habit, have taken on the proportions of staples and not remote luxuries. I am not an economist. In spite of the fact which have been prancing be- fore my eyes for days, I don't really know whether new books can be sold for a dollar with profit. But I do know that millions of people who never thought of a book as a part of their daily food have suddenly been made conscious that it may be, and of those things certainly some percentage who are not wont to go into book- stores will do so.

FREDERICK STOCK LAUDS SCHAUFFLER'S BOOK ON BEETHOVEN

BY FREDERICK STOCK.

"Beethoven: the Man Who Freed Music," by Robert Haven Schauffler [Doubleday Doran].

Schauffler's portrayal of Beethoven as the man who freed music is a very readable biography and a work of distinct value to the student and lay- man alike, to the former it furnishes a new and illustrated analysis; to the latter it gives a profound and com- prehensive study of the genius—not, however, with an approach that is too technical.

The author has delved into no end of research and has brought to light interesting data concerning the char- acteristics of Beethoven, happy and unfortunate, with which we are so familiar. He portrays the genius as he was from his youth by tremendous physical handicaps, harassed by an unfortunate family and struggling with innumerable difficulties which fought him, relentlessly, ill health, sorrows, and despair.

The author strikes throughout the story of "the man who freed music," starting from Beethoven's earliest writ- ings to the greatest works of his ca- reer, his influence on music and his determination to democratize and uni- versalize it.

'FREE,' ANOTHER TALE OF DEVIL'S ISLAND; EXILE THIS TIME

"Free," by Blair Niles. [Harcourt, Brace & Co.]

BLAIR NILES.

In her new book called "Free," the author of "Condemned to Devil's Island," goes on with her account of the punish- ment France metes out to her criminals. In the former book Blair Niles traces the tragic life of a prisoner from the moment he left the St. Lauren- prison in France to the day when, on a far distant tropic island off the coast of French Guiana he was turned out of jail to fare for himself.

This period of exile, when a man is neither free nor a prisoner, when his existence is only a peg removed from the ghastly torture days he has just experienced, furnishes the subject mat- ter for the new book "Free." That narrative is told by means of one cen- tral character, a boy who was sen- tenced to eight years' imprisonment.

He endured those eight years some- how or other. He tried to escape once, was caught, and was put in solitary confinement on St. Joseph's island. At last he was freed—that is, he was allowed to leave the prison walls, but the rest of his life was doomed to be spent in exile, either on Devil's island or on the mainland of French Guiana. Here an ex-convict dies by inches. He cannot compete with the cheap con- vict labor that does all the work of the place, he cannot escape to a coun- try where he could earn a decent liv- ing, for he is under close surveillance of the French authorities.

The liberé, as he is called, therefore must eke out a bare existence as well as he can, must see himself growing weaker day by day, because of the tropic heat and rains, must see some- thing even worse—the steady disin- tegration of his own morale, as hope of escape grows weaker and weaker, as loneliness and desperation engulf him.

Mrs. Niles writes because she has an insatiable interest in human life and human motives, because she has been in French Guiana and seen these things and must speak. Her words ring with truth and sincerity.

Blair Niles is an artist. She projects her characters with such vividness that toward the end, when Stephen is risking everything to escape, the ten- sion is almost unbearable. The reader feels "I can't endure it if he doesn't get away."

Whether he does or not you must read the book to discover. E. D. W.

How J. B. Gough Made Own Defects Valuable Told in "Tiger, Tiger"

"Tiger! Tiger!" by Honore W. Morrow (Morrow) is the life story of John B. Gough, the leader of the temperance movement in the America of the last half of the nineteenth cen- tury. It's the story of a man who, known the country over as a tem- perance worker, was found, in Sep- tember of 1845, in a house of ill fame after six days of a drunken debauch.

That was a national scandal. Gough was supposed to be ruined. But from that debauch began his most spec- tacular success, because coloring his oratory were moving stories of the conquering of the beast of tempta- tion.

Mrs. Morrow tells with intensity the colorful, dramatic story of that tor- tured life in which the craving for drink sprang up within him—accord- ing to its victim—"like a famished tiger." There is a background of the gaudy New York of the day and the famous men and women who helped make it so.

In reply to a query about how much of the book is fact and how much fiction, Mrs. Morrow says it is the au- thentic account of Gough's life, drawn from his autobiography and con- temporary history, that it embodies the results of her years of study of the temperance movement. Every in- cident in the book is true, she says, with the exception of fictionalized dialogue and details of description.

This Book Tells How Your House May Reflect You

In "The Personality of a House" [Funk & Wagnalls] Emily Post goes into the subject of the proper house as thoroughly as she goes into the subject of the proper social relations in "Etiquette," which has been, ever since its publication, the last word on the subject.

"The Personality of a House" is not a book on interior decoration—it is rather a consideration of how to make a house express YOUR per- sonality as well as its own. There are chapters about closets that have 10,000 cubic feet of space with hang- ers numbered and drawers and cubi- cies of accessories bearing the same number, but there are also chapters on closets so narrow that you can't step into them, and beds that look [really] like couches, and old mate- rials dyed by the owner's loving hands, and the colors for blondes to avoid, and the backgrounds that make brunettes look like magazine covers.

Call of Oceans Echoes in These Books for Boys

BY AGATHA L. SHEA.

"Kah-da," by Donald Macmillan. [Doubleday-Doran.]

"Boys' Book of Explorations," by J. Harris Gable. [Dutton.]

"The Thackeray Alphabet," by William M. Thackeray. [Harper.]

Outstanding among the books of the month for young people are "Kah- da," by Donald B. Macmillan and "Boys' Book of Explorations," by J. Harris Gable. Boys who like tales of adventure will enjoy both of them. The first is a tale of north Greenland having as its hero Kah-da, a young Eskimo lad, telling his story from the day of his birth to that auspicious one when he became a hunter in his own right and could, therefore, look forward to having an igloo and a fam- ily of his own. The author, a noted arctic explorer, lived six years with Kah-da's tribe, the Smith Sound Es- kimos, and has given us a fascinating account not only of the country but also of the home life of its people. We see the young Eskimo boy, during the long arctic night, listening to the age old legends.

We see him training the dog team which is to be his own, and which may some day save him from the death which ever is stalking the north- land dwellers. His story as a hunter is thrilling. It is one of the finest Eskimo stories I have read in a long time; an adventure story par excel- lence.

Another book which will suit the taste of the adventure lover is J. Harris Gable's "Boys' Book of Explo- rations," which begins with an ac- count of the Phoenician seamen and closes with the story of Admiral Byrd's flight to the south pole. It is concisely written rather than exhaus- tive in treatment, and will appeal to the boy who is seeking definite infor- mation rather than a story. It is well arranged for reference use.

Both boys and girls will enjoy "From Boston to Boston." It is the story of 13 year old Hannah Garrett, who sailed from old Boston, England, to the new one, and of the many adventures which befell her in the new land. It is a good story of the early colonial days.

For the little children there are James Tippett's "I Spend the Sum- mer," a little book of verses on vaca- tion days, and "The Thackeray Alpha- bet," a unique and amusing little al- phabet book by the great English humorist. The story goes that Thack- eray, visiting the home of a friend, found the small son sobbing in a cor- ner with a determined mother stand- ing guard. Inquiring the cause, he found that it was all due to the little boy's refusal to learn his alphabet. To remedy the situation the kindly visi- tor called for a piece of note paper and illustrated an alphabet. The manu- script was carefully preserved in a little blue silk case from 1833 to 1915, and counted among the treasures of the little boy, later Col. Edward Chad- wick, and now is published for the first time.

STORY OF LIBERIA TOLD BY FORMER FINANCIAL ADVISER

Sidney de la Rue, present financial adviser to Haiti and formerly holding the same position in Liberia, tells in "The Land of the Pepper Bird" [Put- nams] of an African black aristocracy for which our own days of slavery were responsible.

At the beginning of the nineteenth century a great many colored people were sent back to Africa from Amer- ica under the misapprehension that all Negroes came from Africa. They found themselves in an utterly strange world, and, not knowing the ways of Africa, they set up, not straw huts but two and three story brick build- ings with white pillars and peaked roofs after the Virginia models of their memory.

They laid out plantations of sugar cane and planted fruits and vegeta- bles, duplicating for themselves as much as possible the life of the mas- ters they had known. They called the colored people near by in the bush "heathen." Mr. de la Rue's book is an account of present day Liberia.

MURDERS BECOME MERE BACKGROUND FOR HER STORIES

MARY ROBERTS RINEHART.

This is the first mystery for some time to come from that most popular of all the femi- nine pens dipped in murders and their who's whos.

Mrs. Rinehart has the delightful gift of writing about creepy things with the kind of insouci- ance that makes them alluring—amusing, almost—instead of grew- some. There is more than one murder in "The Door"—in fact there are a whole handful of them, but you haven't any deep sense of loss over any one of the murderees.

The three people that you are inter- ested in are an elderly woman, who is more like the famous Tish than she is like your own great aunt, a woman who isn't afraid to slap the face of a ghost, a young girl and the boy with whom she is in love. The flowering of the romance between the two young things and the old girl's amusing in- dependence give a flavor to the story which takes away the pure acid of slaughter.

The plot itself is per formula—the murderer turning out to be the one person in the whole cast who had no suspicious spots on the character, but I ask the world to name me one mys- tery story if recent vintage of which that isn't true.

Quiet Island Called Boon to the Author in Need of Rest

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—The boat from Ber- muda to New York, usually of use only to reluctant returning vacation- ists, brought last week Elizabeth San- xey Holding, eager to exchange sunlit days and a low, serene horizon for the jagged skyline and jangle of Manhat- tan. "Vacation means contrast to whatever you call home. And a born Brooklynite must harken now and again to the call of the subway," says this plump Juno with dimples, author of many short stories and eight novels —no it's ten, what with the new com- pleted manuscript that shared her crossing and her mystery story, "The Chain of Death," now appearing se- rially in Liberty.

Charles M. Schwab, it seems, must be listed as brother to the muses for his words are responsible for Mrs. Holding's first novel. In striking black newsprint she read one morning in her Brooklyn subway—she was at that time teaching languages at the Berlitz school in New York—"Unless you have done something by the time you are thirty, you will never amount to anything." With just a year to es- cape such ignominy, she completed her first long story within the sched- ule.

How Lusty Fleming Turned Poverty and Paints Into Fortune

"Droll Peter," by Felix Timmer- mans [Coward McCann] is a lusty novel based on the lusty life of that painter of lusty folk, Pieter Brueghel. At 14 he was an orphan penniless, with a set of bagpipes and the clothes on his back his complete assets. When he died he had amassed the fame of being considered the greatest of the Flemish painters, and the for- tune of having lived life completely, robustly, and passionately. That life the author paints in high Flemish colors.

Widow Plans Biography of C. F. Masterman

Who Followed Advice of Sir Arthur Balfour.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspond- ence.]—It is good news that Mrs. C. F. G. Masterman is writing a bi- ography of her husband. Charles Masterman was at one time the close friend and collaborator of G. K. Ches- terton and Hilaire Belloc.

Masterman was a brilliant talker and a most charming man. He used to say that he took the late Lord Bal- four's advice, which was, "Talk dan- gerously." This meant, "Don't be cau- tious. Don't be afraid of overstate- ment. Give free play to your wit." But Masterman did not read into this advice what might have been a fur- ther meaning, "Don't bother about sin- cerity." He was very sincere. He used to recline, rather than sit, snug- gling deep down into a chair, and he spoke in a very soft, gentle voice which was nevertheless quite audible to all.

His wit was considerable. So was his candor. But he was extremely generous, and I never knew him to say an unkind thing, even to a stupid person. His political career was a disappointment; he was made a scape- goat for an unpopular measure. But although he was a sick man for years before his death, he was, whenever I saw him, always the same, always smiling, and always ready to tease.

Mrs. Masterman probably will write a very good and very charming book. She is, herself, an able writer, who at one time was literary editor of the London Outlook, a weekly review of the Spectator type. She is one of the most charming literary women in Lon- don—the other is Miss Susan Ertz— and has been a parliamentary candi- date upon her own account. In spite of the fact that she belongs to the at present depressed Liberal party, Mrs. Masterman did well at the last election; and, with luck, might carry the seat at the next. I shall look forward to this book.

Sir Arthur Pinero will be 75 years old this year. The event is to be celebrated in several ways, and one of these ways is by means of a book, written by Hamilton Fyfe, called "Sir Arthur Pinero's Plays and Players." This book will survey the history of the English theater during the last half century. Sir Arthur, although he walks more slowly than he used to do, is still alert and vigorous in mind.

Fyfe, who was at one time editor of the labor newspaper, The Daily Herald, now is on the staff of the London Daily Chronicle and continues to view life with his own melancholy, dry wit.

Here's Package Worth Opening, for Look What It Contained

There arrived not long ago a pack- age for the literary editor. It con- tained the autographed edition of Vir- ginia Woolf's "A Room of One's Own," published by the Hogarth Press in London (the press of Vir- ginia and Leonard Woolf) and Ran- dom House in New York in an edition of 492 copies.

It also contained a delightful object of literary art by Christopher Morley called "The Palette Knife," illustrated with water color plates and auto- graphed (in an edition of 450 copies); one of 535 copies of a very beautifully illustrated edition of "Tales from Hans Andersen" (the work of Hester Saintsbury), and one of 642 auto- graphed copies of "The Winding Stair," by William Butler Yeats.

I tell you about the package not to fill you with criminal jealousy, but be- cause, although these particular vol- umes are probably by this time out of print, you should, if you are a collec- tor, have your name on the Random House lists and have a chance to sub- scribe to their treasures before they are all snapped up.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS

FICTION.

"A Party of Baccarat," by Donn Byrne [Century], a brittle, un-Byrne- an tale of the smart gamblers of the Riviera, gamblers in love as well as baccarat. Written years ago, now published in book form for the first time.

"A Family That Was," by Ernest Raymond [Appleton], is one of those from babyhood to manhood English novels, done with great skill, by the author of "Tell England."

"A Virtuous Girl," by Maxwell Bo- denheim [Liveright], is, of course, about one that isn't, Emmy Lou, 17, in Chicago in 1900, when "fast" and "easy" were not used entirely of baseballs and examinations.

"Apples Be Ripe," by Llewellyn Powys [Harcourt Brace], is the first novel by one of the best known, and the best of the present day writers of nonfiction. A cidery novel of the English countryside.

"Brief Candles," by Aldous Huxley [Doubleday Doran], is a collection of a novelette and three short stories by the most witty and, at times, cruelest pen in England.

"Tanar of Pellucidar," by Edgar Rice Burroughs [Metropolitan], is about an adventurer into the hollow center of the earth and among its savage inhabitants.

MYSTERY.

"The Scarab Murder Case," by S. S. Van Dine [Scribners], is the same handsome Philo Vance unraveling a murder mystery, this time of a wealthy collector of ancient treasures.

"The Valley of Creeping Men," by Rayburn Crawley [Harpers], is all creepy with the African jungles. If you can withstand reading the last chapter, and return the book with the seal unbroken—money back.

"The Tag Murders," by Carroll John Daly [Clode], is all about a gang that labels its victims with a metal tag.

"The Rhododendron Man," by J. Aubrey Tyson [Dutton], is about a murder among the élite and the men- tal tortures of a young amateur de- tective of the same group.

"The Best English Detective Stories of 1929" [Liveright] is a collection of nineteen short stories all made in Eng- land.

NONFICTION.

"Amiel's Philine," translated by Van Wyck Brooks [Houghton Mifflin], is the publication for the first time of the suppressed portions of Amiel's fa- mous journals.

"Briand," by Valentine Thomson [Covici Friede], is the first book to be published here on the outstanding advocate of the United States of Eu- rope.

"A Scandinavian Summer," by Har- ry A. Franck [Century], is about that increasingly popular portion of the globe by a traveler who has done most of his vagabonding in tropic spots.

"Living Architecture" [Kroch] is a discussion of present day problems in a collection of essays written for and sponsored by the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Archi- tects, edited by Arthur Woltersdorf.

Sale of Biography Helps Pearler to Ocean Depths' Riches

Last January there was published a book called "Pearl Diver," the record of the life of one of them, Victor Berge, who with the collaboration of Henry Wysham Lamer set down a great tale of excitement, including sharks.

A dramatic climax to Mr. Berge's adventurous life [undersea and sharks are only one phase of it] was his finding in the depths of the Pacific a milk-white pearl weighing ninety- one grains, measuring more than half an inch in diameter, and worth more than $250,000.

The gem which is known in the pearler's language as a "baby" was found near Tahiti, and its finding was facilitated by an improved pearl- diving apparatus which Berge designed.

British Group Urges National Theater Now

LONDON, May 30.—With the issuance of the Shakespeare Memorial National theater committee's report this week, the national repertory theater, to seat about 1,000, is on the road to becoming a reality after fifty years of campaigning.

The committee, under the chairmanship of Lord Lytton, reported that the proposal was practicable. While it was unable to state the cost of the site, building, and equipment, the committee declared that it was prepared to contribute $500,000 toward the amount required.

Detailed estimates of the probable receipts and expenditures, accompanying the report, indicated that after an adequate preliminary expenditure the theater might be conducted on a self-supporting basis. It would be equipped for production of Elizabethan or Greek classical plays.

It was explained that the capital necessary to establish the theater probably would be raised, if the government provided an annual grant of approximately $500,000 over a short period of years to meet the annual charges for interest and sinking fund.

The report pointed out that the sum could be obtained easily from the proceeds of licenses for wireless receivers, which already provide an income of $1,500,000 after paying the postoffice a commission and meeting the expenses of the British Broadcasting corporation. The desired grant, it is stressed, might appropriately be allocated to the promotion of drama and music.

The objects of the National theater, the report sets forth, are:

To provide in the capital an empire theater where the people will have opportunities to see the best plays of all ages worthily presented.

To keep the plays of Shakespeare in its repertory.

To revive whatever is vital in the British drama.

To stimulate the art of the theater through the varied opportunities which it will afford.

There have been objectors, both in the theater and out, to the idea of a national theater ever since it was first suggested by Matthew Arnold 50 years ago. Sir Frank Benson, distinguished Shakespearean actor, launched yesterday a new attack in Manchester where he is appearing this week.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Five year old Henrietta was much distressed and protested loudly when her father was driving the car fast. When he came to a hill he shut off the engine and coasted.

Leaning back contentedly, Henrietta said: "It's all right to go fast like this, daddy—just so you don't keep stirring it up so much." MRS. M. V.

My little nephew, a 3 year old, said at luncheon a few days ago the reason he was not eating was that he was sick. I said to him, "Let me see your tongue." He held it out.

When I saw it I said, "Your tongue is perfectly clear; you're not sick."

Much to our gayety, he came back with, "My tongue is not all of me."

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Two Egg Sponge Cake.

We might call this little cake a cream pie cake and say that it belongs distinctly to junior cookery. At any rate it was the second item I learned to cook in my early teens. I believe that any little girl in learning to bake what we may call a cream pie cake may learn all the rules of simple cake making. If she can bake a layer of this cake without a hump in the middle, she has learned something many women who cook do not learn in their whole lives—that is, to bake a cake with a level top.

For this cake take two eggs, four tablespoons cold water, one-half cup of sugar, three-fourths cup flour, one-half teaspoon baking powder, one-half teaspoon vanilla. Sift the whites and yolks of the eggs, add to the yolks the four tablespoons of cold water, and beat into a stiff froth, sift the sugar and fold in about three parts of it into the beaten yolks of the eggs. Then fold into the yolks after the same fashion and a part at a time the flour sifted with the half teaspoon of baking powder. Finally fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs, to which the rest of the sugar has been added with the half teaspoon of vanilla.

This can be baked in one good sized layer cake tin, split open while it is hot and cooked cream filled in. Or it can have some other filling and a butter icing. In any case it can be served like a pie in triangles. Powdered sugar may be the only icing used over it. One can be a little more economical and get a larger cake by doubling the water and using one cup of flour for the two eggs and the same amount of sugar.

The filling for the cream pie: One tablespoon cornstarch, one teaspoon butter, one-fourth cup sugar, one and one-fourth cup milk, one egg, one-half teaspoon vanilla, a pinch of salt. Rub the cornstarch smooth in the butter, add to milk in a double boiler or directly over the fire if the cooking can be careful enough. Stir the two until the milk is thickened, then add the well beaten egg, the salt, and vanilla. Cook but a moment after the egg is added, strain it while hot if through inexperience it is lumpy. Partly cool before putting in cake. This cake or pie will be best if it stands half a day before being served.

Hit Her on the Ear.

I had been transferred to a new high school as a substitute for the history teacher. As this was my first time teaching in a high school class, I was rather nervous. Of course, I didn't want the class to know that, so I nonchalantly picked up a rubber band and started to play with it.

Whiz! Bang! Out went the rubber band, which had broken, to hit a nearby girl right on the ear. I was so embarrassed that I couldn't say anything, which made it all the worse.

Stopped the Traffic.

When returning from a visit a few evenings ago, carrying the baby, I walked across the boulevard. As I passed the policeman standing at the safety island he said something that I didn't quite hear. When I reached the other side of the street I saw that I had crossed against the lights! The cars had all stopped for me because I had the baby. Just imagining what kind of a fool the policeman had called me and what the passing motorists who stopped were thinking was real embarrassment.

Art Displays Will Blossom Through June

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A number of new exhibitions are cropping up for the month of June. The Walden-Dudensing galleries will show a group of paintings by Arnold Wiltz, a romantic interpreter of nature. He served at one time in the marines, but left the sea to pursue his art and attached himself to the group of modernists who have Woodstock, N. Y., for their headquarters.

Dorothy Dick and Dorcas Henderson Shaffer are opening an exhibition of their paintings in the lobby of the South Shore Club hotel the first of June to continue to the fifteenth. Seymour De Koven, a nephew of Mrs. Eli Dalches, who has been living and studying and exhibiting in Paris the last several years, is opening a one man show of paintings, pastels and drawings at the Knoedler galleries on Monday. The exhibit for some unannounced reason will be a very temporary affair, continuing only, if one can believe the card, through June 4.

Baroness Violet Beatrice Wenner is back in town again and she is enjoying a one man show of recent portraits from her fertile brush in the lounge and dining room of the Seneca hotel, 200 East Chestnut street. The exhibit will run into the middle of June. Baroness Wenner has always something of importance to tell and her portraits are distinctive and distinguished work.

The Chicago Galleries, 220 North Michigan avenue, are holding their members' exhibit over a few days to give the jury on prize awards a little more time in which to straighten up their final decisions and we may expect an announcement of the prize giving Wednesday or Thursday of next week. The prizes are among the most substantial and important that are awarded in Chicago each year.

Frederic M. Grant is opening a one man show of recent paintings in the Anderson galleries on Monday to continue through the month. The figure paintings and portraits by Crewes Warnacut and the sculpture by Robert Davidson remain on view in the Hoosier Art gallery, 211 West Wacker drive, for another week. The Art institute anounces the annual school exhibition from June 12 to July 13. The work done in the Saturday morning children's classes will be shown in the Children's museum starting June 11.

FARM and GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

Bramble fruits may well be regarded as profitable side lines to other branches of fruit growing, according to indications of many small farm operators in midwest states where farms are within easy reach of large city markets. An interesting development has been apparent in the last few years, for instance, at Madison, Wis.

Poultry farms ranging from three or four to around 20 acres, adjacent to the Badger state capital city, now include well cultivated, expertly pruned and healthy red and black raspberries, as well as some blackberries. The picking season comes when chickens get the most use of outside range, and consequently require somewhat less care. Lower egg production in midsummer also permits more attention to the picking and marketing of the fruit crop.

Consideration of the amateur gardener should be given to these fruits, says G. L. Slate, station horticulturist of the New York agricultural experiment station at Geneva. The reason they fit in well with other fruit growing, his recommendation points out, is that they follow strawberries and precede all tree fruits in season.

SYNOPSIS.

Catherine West of Boston, on her way to Paris, meets Geoffrey Macadam in the Havre-Paris train. Macadam is an Englishman who lives in Paris. Catherine tells him that she is going to visit her cousin's widow, Mme. Belmont Bender. She is a little apprehensive about the coming visit because she had received just before sailing a letter from Jeanne Cushing, who tells her that Mme. Bender is far from well. Macadam is a lawyer and he tells Catherine that his firm handles Mme. Bender's affairs, but he doesn't know the widow very well. He had heard that she was ill. Arrived in Paris Catherine is a little disappointed when her cousin's chauffeur is not at the station to meet her, but Geoffrey sees her into a taxi, giving her his address and telephone number. He tells her that he will be anxious to know how things are at the Bender apartment and she promises to call him. Arrived at Mme. Bender's apartment, she is treated coldly by the servants, and Jeanne, Mme. Bender's maid, suggests that she go to a hotel. Catherine insists on staying in the apartment as she is suspicious of the servants. Jeanne tells Catherine that Mme. Bender attempted to commit suicide the night before. The next morning Catherine goes in to see Germaine Bender, who is pathetically glad to see her. She tells Catherine how she had taken poison by mistake.

Geoffrey invites Catherine to dine with him and it is a relief for her to get out of the apartment and to tell him of her vague fears. He is disturbed, too. Geoffrey escorts her back to the apartment. The door is locked, but Geoffrey arouses Eduardo, who says he thought Miss West had come in long before.

The next morning Catherine calls on Miss Cushing, who takes her to her milliner, where she sees a man she has noticed hanging around the Bender apartment. Back in the apartment she finds the gallery open for the first time and she goes in only to discover a number of pictures and tapestries missing. She asks Jeanne about them and is told again that they were sold shortly before Mr. Bender's death. Catherine feels she is right in believes she and Eduardo are thieves. She finds Jeanne is exerting a baneful influence on Mme. Bender. Jeanne denounces Catherine to the invalid.

Geoffrey takes Catherine out to dinner and she unburdens herself to him. He has already put an investigator on the case. When he takes her back to the Bender apartment he takes her in his arms as he says good night. Catherine responds to his caress. He wants her to marry him, but she wants time to be certain of her feelings. On the way to her room she hears Germaine sobbing and goes to her. She retires hurriedly on Jeanne's return. Next morning Catherine is violently ill and the doctor is called in. Geoffrey's sister invites Catherine to visit her. She accepts, but wants first to arrange to have Hermione come every day and keep an eye on things. Geoffrey's protest at the suggestion puzzles Catherine.

INSTALLMENT LIV.

A MONSTROUS THOUGHT.

Geoffrey was thankful that Catherine had misinterpreted his hesitation, since she was clearly in a state conducive to exaggerating every trifle.

The fact was that every afternoon he had been allowed to see Howard, to whom he had cautioned him discreetly about Blom's visit to the office, to receive a somewhat disconcerting reply.

"I recall the fellow," the old man had said at once. "He gave the name of Bender, and he came on a rather delicate mission, on behalf of a lady client. He wanted information respecting one of our own clients, no less a person that Mme. Belmont Bender."

"Why should he interest himself in her affairs?" Geoffrey had demanded, startled by this news.

"As I tell you, it was for this lady, who felt a natural hesitancy in coming to us herself, since she is by way of being a personal friend of Mme. Bender's. It seems she has hopes of inheriting something substantial in the event of madame's decease, and was anxious to learn if the bequest had been put into legal form. That was all."

"I give it up," he said briefly, adding after a moment, "There is no accounting for the vagaries of mental patients."

Geoffrey's mind had leaped to the conclusion that Jeanne, fearing her mistress had stolen a march on her, had taken this roundabout means of learning the truth.

"I suppose you don't know who the client was?" he asked.

"O, but I do. It seems she is an American lady by the name of Cushing."

Chagrined and mortified, Geoffrey had departed, feeling that he had doubled upon his own tracks. The revelation that the mysterious Blom was acting for Hermione shocked him strangely. Was it possible that under cover of mutual hatred Jeanne and the singer were linked in collusion towards a mercenary end? For a wild moment he even asked himself if Hermione herself were engineering the series of thefts, with Blom as agent and go-between. It was a monstrous thought.

Yet going over it all he was convinced that this could hardly be the case. The blameless character of the woman rose to testify to her innocence, and moreover had she not herself asked him frankly about the matter of the will?

Still, what could be the explanation? The only answer he could think of was that Blom, in reality acting for Jeanne, had substituted Miss Cushing's name in order to guard the identity of his client.

Now he was filled with a new uneasiness, which was relieved only when he recalled the fact that Jeanne was undoubtedly profiting by her mistress' present condition. Yes, he had overlooked that point. There was as yet no talk of a will, and whatever the maid's secret intentions might be she was pocketing all she could lay hands on. He breathed again.

Still—Miss Cushing! The connection in which her name had cropped up stuck in his mind like a burr. He wondered if she really did have some association with Blom, and if the latter had nothing whatever to do with the stolen pictures, but was acting in some other capacity.

"By Jove!" he reflected in annoyance. "If that's the case, Blom may be trying to protect Mme. Bender's property instead of defrauding her, and I have sent Bernard off on a goose chase!"

For, although he had not mentioned it to Catherine, he had just instructed the agent to go to Bordeaux with the idea of making inquiries into the notaire's visit in that city three months ago. It now began to look as though the mission might lead to nothing worth knowing.

When he opened the door of his own flat, his father called out to him from the library.

"Come in for a moment, Geoffrey. I've something which may interest you. It's this Bender business again. I've got hold of Harry Bender's pass book and all the details I can assemble regarding his movements prior to his death. There's no record of a picture sale, nor any unidentified deposit large enough to correspond with one.

"And I've talked with Ellsworth, the manager of Mme. Bender's bank, to find out if any use has been made of that duplicate key. It was used by the maid herself."

"The devil it was!" exclaimed the young man sharply.

"Yes—but everything was quite in order. It seems Ellsworth received a note from Mme. Bender saying she wished to exchange her string of pearls, which she felt nervous about keeping in the apartment, for the copy then in the bank, and proposed sending her maid to attend to the matter."

"Stop a moment—you say the copy was kept at the bank? Surely that's a bit absurd?"

"She explained that. Apparently no one but herself was aware that the pearls in her possession were the genuine ones, as for safety's sake she had always pretended they were the copy. She had given up wearing them, because their lustre was suffering from her low state of health, but she wanted the imitations to keep up the deception. Foreseeing the chance of a hoax, Ellsworth himself telephoned to Mme. Bender and was assured by her that the maid was completely to be trusted. The next day Laborie appeared, was conducted by one of the clerks into the vaults, made the exchange, and went away. The clerk watched her closely and saw nothing amiss. The two strings were identical, the copy having a clasp of real diamonds set in platinum."

"I suppose I ought to be satisfied, but it seems odd for all that," declared Geoffrey, moving about restlessly. For the life of him he could not reconcile Mme. Bender's action on this occasion with her recent helplessness. His eyes narrowed in thought. "See here," he said suddenly. "When Miss Cushing was asked about that key only last week, her cousin disclaimed all knowledge of it. At least she appeared not to recollect until the maid reminded her. Doesn't that strike you as queer?"

"And nothing was said about changing the necklace?"

"Not a word."

The elder man wiped his glasses upon a silk handkerchief, then rubbed the bridge of his nose exasperatedly.

"I give it up," he said briefly, adding after a moment, "There's no accounting for the vagaries of mental patients—for I understand she is a mental patient."

"Whose word have you got for that? Only the maid's," retorted Geoffrey as he went out of the room.

A voice whispered to him that those pearls were the ones Hermione Cushing considered as her rightful property, at least when her friend should die. He recalled well the anxiety with which she had referred to them, also her mention of the fact that they were in the bank, safe from Jeanne's clutches.

For the second time that day suspicion laid hold of him. What if Miss Cushing herself had a hand in the proceeding? Suppose there was some fraud about the exchange?

"Rot, that bank manager knows Mme. Bender's voice," he argued, "so it's certain she approved of the transaction." Then after a moment's pause he added to himself, "At any rate I'm glad Catherine doesn't know."

Good Morning!

Today's the day the Palace falls into line! The former all-vaudeville house is now operating at popular prices and talking pictures are on its entertainment menu. May the new policy prove successful, hopeswe.

"On the Level," the first altalker to be shown at this theater, is good entertainment. It is comedy built on the broad lines of farce. Mr. McLaglen impersonates a lusty iron worker much at the mercy of two women. One is a brunette, who loves him ferociously but truly. Fifi D'Orsay—and she is a wild woman who will have her way. The other's a blonde, whose catspaw he becomes and who scorns him heartily beneath her fair, false pretense of undying allegiance. Lilyan Tashman is the blonde and as such she is tough, determined and funny. She's Mrs. Edmund Lowe, by the way. Poor Victor! That there family's always pestering him!

From N'Orleans to N'York, Fifi follows the object of her desire. She is his nemesis for about six reels and his savior and permanent sweet patootie in the seventh, wherein the blonde and her boon companions get all washed up.

The action carts you merrily from skyscraper to ironworkers' boarding house and union meetings; in to cafés, swell apartment dens of confidence men and women, and Pullman sleepers. Its first action is punctuated with laughs and some songs well sung by Miss D'Orsay—whose mouth makes me think of Joe E. Brown's. The "Good Intentions" number as rendered by her to her beloved in a night club where she discovers him with the nolady who has cut her out, is a dandy.

Snappy program number, "On the Level," which should please Palace patrons.

The Girl .....Betty Amann
Consul General .....H. A. von Schlettow

A petty thief—who is better than you think—and a handsome young policeman—who is weaker than he thought—are principals in this German production.

"Asphalt"—so called you are told because it is a story of the street—is staged in Berlin. Splendid acting and direction and keenly atmospheric staging, make it excellent entertainment, despite a somewhat bromidic story. Never did a girl cry more convincingly and to better advantage than Betty Amann. Never did a stalwart, duty-respecting young officer take longer to fall—or fall harder!—than Gustav Froehlich. Never was a supporting cast less camera conscious or more sincere than the players supporting this personable young pair.

The picture starts with a conglomeration of kaleidoscopic photographic effects which include asphalt road builders, street scenes and such. From these it steps neatly into the story which proves again that crime does not pay.

See you tomorrow.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

The Answers.

Bernard Golbus, 4957 North Sawyer avenue, student — I don't wear hats. They are too cumbersome. It is healthier to go without them. You wear a hat, a wind delivers it to the wheels of an automobile. Then your are without a hat.

Louis Dominick, 1432 Mohawk street, U. S. special delivery boy—A cap. I would like to wear my uniform cap even when I am off duty, but I wear a plain woolen cap then. I have a panama hat. In summer I wear that to church on Sundays.

C. Glen Robison, New Market, Va., salesman — I like a straw hat in summer, a soft felt hat in winter. A fur cap would be O. K. for the weather you are having in Chicago now. The principal purpose of a straw hat is protection against the heat rays of the sun.

J. S. McChesney, 1100 North Dearborn street, inventor—In place and season I might have use for any of them. A cap is best for sports. Nothing is likely to take the place of straw for summer hats.

C. O. Stephenson, 202 East Indiana avenue, South Bend, Ind., oil station manager—A cap. It is not soiled easily, and a gust of wind can't do tricks with it. Caps are not formal; they are warm and comfortable in winter, practical in summer.

Bulgar Youths and Maidens Must Work 8 Months for Nation

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOFIA, May 30.—This little Balkan country of 5,000,000 persons is no place for lazy youths or maidens.

They make them work in Bulgaria for at least eight months of their lives. Therein lies the story of the strangest labor law in all Christendom. The state literally forces its young men to spend almost a year of their life at hard manual labor for the benefit of the nation or go to jail.

The Bulgarian labor law, promulgated in 1920 by the late Premier Stamboulsky, peasant dictator, established a system of compulsory manual labor for all male and female subjects of the kingdom. It was a consequence of the treaty of Neuilly, by which the allies prohibited Bulgaria, as they had prohibited all the enemy nations, from employing compulsory military service.

"If we can't have an army equipped with rifles and bayonets then we'll have one with picks and shovels," Stamboulisky said. He believed disciplined manual labor was not bad training for prospective soldiers. Forthwith he created the national labor army.

The law met with practically no opposition from the people. That was because the idea was not entirely new. Under the rule of the Turks forced labor, known as "angaria," had long been in vogue. Every year, for a period of at least a month, the Bulgarian peasant had been forced to work on government projects, such as road building or construction of public buildings, and those not employed directly by the Turkish government had to donate a certain amount of labor to the service of the wealthy pashas and beys living in the country.

The main outlines of the law of May 25, 1920, were as follows:

1. All Bulgarian subjects of both sexes are submitted to compulsory labor, beginning for the young men at 19 and for the women at 15. The duration of the compulsory labor period is 12 months for men and 6 months for women.

2. Certain exemptions from service, or postponement of service, may be made if circumstances allow.

3. In cases of great national emergency all men under 50 are subject to compulsory labor for a period of at least four weeks.

4. Compulsory labor is to be applied to all branches of national economy, for the building of roads, railways, public buildings, water channels, harbors, drainage systems, etc.

Way of Press Is Made Hard in Rumania

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, May 30.—Recent action of the Rumanian peasant government, cramming through parliament press gag laws, serves as a reminder of how far those central and southeastern European countries, created or greatly enlarged by the peace treaties, have deviated from pledges to perpetuate the lofty Wilsonian ideals of free press, free speech and full rights for minorities.

"The time for democratic sentimentalism has passed," the Rumanian finance minister, Dr. Madgearu, shouted when the Liberals objected to the Peasant government's seizure of most of the Bucharest daily newspapers.

A law was rushed through parliament giving the government power to suppress all attacks on national peace, credit or security and also on the royal family. The method permitted was confiscation of the newspapers guilty of making such attacks. The government did not wait long to try its strengthened hand.

On a Sunday—for all political party gatherings of importance are held on the Sabbath in central Europe—the impotent but raucous "peoples party" of Gen. Avarescu held a meeting. The party only has a few thousand adherents; only a few hundred of them turned out. The government and everybody of importance in the country was denounced; Prince Carol acclaimed, even as to his personal character.

The newspapers of the following Monday morning, news being scarce there as elsewhere, printed fairly long accounts. Dr. Maniu consulted with his colleagues and decided to seize the newspapers. Most of the foreign correspondents had ignored Gen. Avarescu's gathering entirely. But the government action was a clear violation of the freedom of the press which Dr. Maniu had guaranteed when he drove the corrupt Bratianu government out of power. And so the story was cabled around the world.

Pressure from the regency, which can turn him out of office at its will, also from the big banks whose support is necessary to save the country from bankruptcy, forced Dr. Maniu to reëstablish censorship. Added to that was the unscrupulous campaign begun by the newspaper the Independence Roumaine, organ of Bratianu's liberals

BRITISH DOCTORS CITE VENUS AS PROTEST AGAINST HIGH HEELS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HASTINGS, England, May 30.—"If models of the feet of Venus de Milo, giving the correct size and shape of a woman's foot, were publicly circulated, women might come to their senses and abandon high heeled, pointed toe shoes."

This is one of many condemnations of present day shoes received by the Federation of Boot Trades' Associations in Hastings in reply to a questionnaire sent out to 200 medical men.

The physicians again combine in protesting against the shoes now worn by fashionable women. Women's habit of wearing high heeled shoes leads to more foot trouble than all other causes put together and is also responsible for many nervous diseases, according to some of the opinions expressed.

It is suggested that the manufacturers of shoes scrap their present lasts and build their shoes along natural, sensible lines. The perfect shoe is described as one which has a good quality of sole leather of a fair thickness, a leather upper, and is made so that it allows proper support for the arch and free movement of the toes. It is claimed that such a shoe would greatly lessen the amount of rheumatism, chest troubles, heart disease, colds, foot deformities, and flat feet among women.

Baptists May Pick Woman to Preside Over Convention

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., May 30.—[Special.]—The Northern Baptist convention meeting here paused today to pay tribute to the nation's war heroes and to consider candidates for the presidency of the church.

If the program slated for tomorrow is carrid out there will be a presidential race between a Chicago leader of Baptist women, Mrs. Clayton D. Eulette, and Dr. Albert W. Beaven, president of Colgate-Rochester Divinity school.

Mrs. Eulette's candidacy for the convention presidency has been advanced quietly by women delegates. It is said her nomination will be made from the floor, whereas Dr. Beaven was the choice of the convention nominating committee. The committee's nomination usually constitutes an election, and should Mrs. Eulette be elected it would be the second time in the history of the Northern Baptist organization that a woman was its chief executive. The only other woman to hold the office was Mrs. Barrett Montgomery of Rochester, who was president six years ago.

Mrs. Eulette addressed the convention on the dangers confronting the American home. She declared that these real dangers come more from within the homes than from without.

"If marriage and home making were commercial and money making enterprises," said Mrs. Eulette, "then all the schools and colleges in the country would be giving courses in matrimony. Degrees would be offered to students, either for residence work or by correspondence."

Doug Fairbanks, on Way to Hollywood, Talks About Movies

Douglas Fairbanks, movie actor, stopped one hour in Chicago yesterday on his way from England to Hollywood. He arrived on the Twentieth Century Limited and departed on the Santa Fe Chief.

Doug's chief reason for his flying return from the golf matches in Scotland was the trouble with his wife's latest film. Mary Pickford has been making "Forever Yours," but work recently was stopped. "I'm going out there and see if I can help her," Doug said. "We always aid each other and she feels a little lost without me."

It is possible, he added, that he can induce his wife to fly back to New York with him and take a boat back to England.

There is a possibility that Dr. Hugo Eckener will bring the Graf Zeppelin to Chicago for the celebration.

Curtiss Reflies Epochal Trip Above Hudson

From Albany to Statue of Liberty.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 30.—[Special.]—Glenn H. Curtiss, pioneer airman, accompanied by 110 of his friends, retraced the course of his historic hop of twenty years ago down the Hudson river from Albany to the Statue of Liberty this afternoon. On his anniversary flight Mr. Curtiss piloted a Curtiss Condor carrying twenty passengers and was trailed by five other ships of equal cabin capacity. He made the original flight in a kite-box contraption known in 1910 as a "flying machine."

Mr. Curtiss flew the course nonstop today in 1 hour and 20 minutes. In 1910 it took him 2 hours and 32 minutes, and he was compelled to land three times for oil and gas.

Mrs. Curtiss accompanied her husband on the flight down the Hudson today. It was her first cross-country flight and the third time she had been in the air.

"He bumped us some, but he is a good pilot," was Mrs. Curtiss' comment.

"When I flew down the first time for that $10,000 prize," said Mr. Curtiss after he had circled the Statue of Liberty and flown over Governor's island to land at Valley Stream, L. I., "I spent most of my time worrying about the special train that I was racing. I just knew it was going to jump the track.

"Today we slipped past a train on the same tracks so fast that I hardly saw it. That illustrates how far aviation has progressed in twenty years. I flew higher today and also a lot safer. All those instruments in the control cabin of the Condor were a bit confusing at first. In my old ship there was no control cabin. I sat outside and used my coatsleeve and my face to tell the direction of the wind and the altitude. There were no instruments.

"I suppose I bounced my passengers a bit going over the mountains. It was rought when we passed Storm King mountain, and I remembered that it was there that I had my first trouble on the 1910 flight."

Four large planes took off from Valley Stream airport this morning for Albany. There were two Condors, a Keystone Patrician and a Sikorsky amphibion. A trimotored Ford joined the fleet at Albany airport for the anniversary flight.

Mr. Curtiss met his New York friends at Albany where the chamber of commerce tendered him a testimonial luncheon. The retracing of the flight down the Hudson started at 2:45 p. m. A crowd of more than 5,000 persons waved good-by to the airman and his friends as the ships soared over the airport. A crowd of almost equal size was present when the flight ended at Valley Stream.

Chicago Student Phones a Speech to Mexico Boys

Harold Huffsteter, 18 years old Lindblom high school senior, yesterday told thousands of Mexican boys at Vera Cruz, Mexico, of the wonders of Chicago and the work of boys' organizations here, and invited them to participate in the World's Fair in 1933.

He spoke both in Spanish and English from the Rotary club rooms in the Sherman hotel in connection with the observance of Boys' week in Vera Cruz. His voice was transmitted by telephone to Vera Cruz and there was amplified by loud speakers. Harold was given a scholarship by the Rotary club during Boys' week in Chicago as a reward for his scholastic attainments.

SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE ABOUT THIS.

HAVANA, Cuba, May 30.—(AP)—Clarence Saunders Jr., 21, son of Clarence Saunders, today emphatically denied his reported engagement to Miss Sarah Puyol, daughter of Eduardo Puyol, retired colonel of the Cuban army.

Saunders, who a week ago completed a round the world cruise on the steamer Franconia, was reported engaged to Miss Puyol when the ship docked at New York yesterday.

"I met Miss Puyol on board ship after we left New York last January," Saunders told the Associated Press. "She was traveling with her aunt, Mrs. Josefa Lopez, and we became friends.—

"There is nothing to this engagement report. Miss Puyol and I are good friends, but nothing more."

Miss Puyol likewise denied the report. "Mr. Saunders and I are very good friends, but nothing more," she said.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"If you are an ordinary person," to quote from a health authority, "you take the two fundamental baths a day—one in the evening, one in the morning. The evening bath for cleansing, the morning bath for stimulation."

How ordinary are you? Do a little cheating on the "stimulating" bath in the early a. m.? If so, you are missing a grand beauty bet. Of course you can't substitute it for the old fashioned tub and scrub in sudsy water. That once a day scrubbing is duty. The other is a tonic for what ails you—nerves, hate-to-get-up-in-the-morning feeling, don't-talk-to-me-until-after-10-o'clock dejection. It's a wide-awake eye opener, and just about the best little complexion saver and beautifier you can find anywhere.

We introduce the morning shower to those who have evaded it, so far, as a daily custom, because the moment is timely for the plunge. You cannot start at any better season than the present. The house is warm enough for you to take it without the shivers. You do not have to start jumping right into a tub filled with cold water. Get your bathing cap and rig up a shower if your bathroom does not boast one permanently installed. Turn the water on warm at first, then slowly add a bit more from the faucet marked cold.

You're right, it takes courage at first. Not after a week of it, though. Rub like the very old Nick with your coarse towel, powder yourself with your dusting powder, weigh yourself, dress and step out into the family circle, blooming.

Women object to this beauty procedure because of marcels they're trying to hold on to. But a cap is a simple enough purchase in an era of anything but economy where one's beauty is concerned. Bind the edge of the hair with a strip of cotton under the bathing cap, just to soak up any possible dampness and be assured that the marcel may be disarranged, but not ruined. Anyway the habit will get your skin in such a splendid condition that a little hair discomfort won't count.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

F. C.: CORN MEAL IS MUCH used as a dry shampoo. Allow it to remain on the hair a half hour, then brush it out thoroughly. The meal absorbs the grease. Powdered orris root may be used in the same way.

LONESOME: YES, ELECTROLYsis removes superfluous hair permanently if the work is done by a skilled and experienced operator. Everything depends upon the skill of the operator. It is a rather expensive operation.

Put Soft Pedal on Self-Praise; Use More Girl-Praise

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I wish you'd ask boys not to try so hard to 'impress' us poor creatures known as women. It's an almost universal failing of the sterner sex. I know our act is to admire with ohs and ahs and I don't find them hard to deliver, either. But it is a bit of a bore to have to listen to what a 'live wire' the boy friend is to hear him tell it.

"We girls honestly could do with a little more modesty from men—not hangdog stuff, but just that touch of human simplicity that makes you love people in spite of everything else.

"G."

Apropos G's plea for less self-praise and more girl-praise we were told of a girl who wasn't impressed by a young man who took her to an expensive eating place and ordered the most expensive food on the menu and who punctuated the conversation with "I want the best or I don't want anything." He dragged in an expensive tailor, bootmaker, shirtmaker, and so on.

The girl had money; the young man a good position. He wanted to impress. And he did impress with his bad taste. He was a chap with many likeable traits, too. But, like a lot of other people, he emphasized his less likeable trait instead of the others. A pity it is, too, that people with fine qualities are known sometimes for their less fine ones.

A little self-praise is in line with our current estimates of people. We do take people pretty much at their own valuation. On the other hand, women aren't dumb estimators. They are pretty shrewd in placing their man. So that overestimating or overemphasizing is apt to be taken into the judgment, too.

Anyway, there is a charm in man or girl of simple, natural manners. Not an apologetic sort of simpleness, understand. That doesn't get either sex anywhere with the other.

Besides, girls like to have the conversational topic turned on themselves once in a while during the evening. They love the friendly interest in their goings and comings and doings. They love a turn at "impressing."

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

She's Unreasonable.

"Dear Miss Blake: My girl told me to call her up. I had to work that night, but called her the next night. Now she is sore. Please advise

"JIM."

Hold the Potential Development of Your Children Before You

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

A list of toys and playthings for children from babyhood up will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The old theory about human nature was that people had good traits and bad traits and that we must encourage the good traits and suppress the bad ones.

Consequently children were brought up with that in mind. Anger, jealousy, hate, selfishness, cowardice were inherent qualities—they were part of the fabric of a child's nature. They must be rooted out, controlled, punished away.

Then side by side with these were the good qualities—unselfishness, bravery, truthfulness, honesty, frankness, etc. These also were there from the beginning. We were made up of virtues and vices—good impulses and bad ones. The rank weeds and beautiful flowers grew side by side in our natures; the flowers we nourished and the weeds we tried to kill.

Now we know this is no longer so. Putting aside the human being who is born abnormal, we know this is not so.

We know that babies are born with certain strong, natural impulses. If these impulses are allowed to have a normal outlet, the child is free, poised, happy and useful—or what used to be called "good." If, instead, his natural impulses are blocked, he finds some sort of outlet for his energy which may be destructive—he may become untruthful, jealous, selfish, given to fierce tempers,—or what we used to call "bad."

We discarded long ago the idea of original sin. We are erasing the picture of a child as made up of vice and virtue.

In its place we are building up the image of a baby who is neither good nor bad, but who possesses great life forces and who needs wise guidance to help him to learn how to use them.

A Friend in Need

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Destitute Mother and Children.

"I am the mother and sole support of two children who are badly in need of clothing. Since I cannot buy it I am coming to you for assistance. The girl is 3 years old and the boy is 11 months. I wear size 40. We owe two months' rent and several other bills. I have been out of work and can find nothing. MRS. F. W."

With no employment and the care of two babies to think of this distracted woman is having a most difficult time. Won't you lend her any assistance you can so that she may keep her little family together?

Baby Scale Wanted.

"Do you suppose one of your readers has a baby scale no longer being used? I am expecting a baby soon and would surely appreciate having a scale. As I already have a baby 10 months old, I could put it to good use. MRS. M. C."

Resinol Heals Stubborn Unsightly Rash on Baby's Body

"At the age of 3 months there appeared on the buttocks and behind the ears of my baby a very irritating and unsightly looking rash. Many remedies were prescribed and all were used faithfully without obtaining any but temporary results. Harassed by the untold discomfort caused the baby as well as the increased unsightliness I began, on the recommendation of a friend, to use Resinol Ointment. Immediately marked improvements were noted, and now, at the age of 10½ months, the child is without the slightest trace of his trouble." (Signed) Mrs. J. G. Reamer, Coshocton, O.

Chenil Buckles the Light Tailored Frock

By BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—With the decline of the chemise frock, which just slipped on over the head and was as flat and obvious as a fried sole, came the vogue for more mysterious closings—hidden hooks and eyes, buttons that really button, devious and diagonal draperies that tie tight around the figure at some point.

Cheruit launches a new type of fermeture that is decorative as well as utilitarian. She replaces buttons with buckles of highly polished nickel or silver. These buckles fasten her tunic blouses down the front; groups of them insure the proper set of her porte-feuille sports skirts, that are worn over shorts or knickers; she uses them even on more dressy coats and afternoon costumes.

Narrow oblong buckles of nickeled steel form the chief trimming of the Cheruit tailored dress in eggshell white broadcloth, sketched above. They fasten almost imperceptibly in the middle and replace the knots of the flat broadcloth bows that are appliqued on each side of the diagonal side closing. The frock follows a bloused princess line, which is becoming both to the slender and the somewhat fuller figure, and its soft, slightly rolling collar is cut in one with the bodice. Fullness is added to the skirt by three plaits front and back that are united by emplecement cuttings curving over the right hip. Stitched bands finish the long sleeves at the cuff line.

Paris often prefers separate frocks to ensembles and off-white is the most popular tint for them this summer. This one is worn with stockings, pumps and gloves to match. A touch of color may be introduced in the bow of the horsehair hat with its lacy brim.

Winifred Smith, A. McCormack Will Wed Today

BY THALIA

Miss Winifred Smith, daughter of Walter Byron Smith of 1200 Lake Shore drive, and Alfred McCormack of New York City will be married today. The wedding party is to be unusually large.

The service will be read at 4:30 o'clock at the Fourth Presbyterian church, with the Rev. James G. K. McClure, Dr. John Timothy Stone, and the Rev. Thomas Ewing of Port Arthur, Tex., a schoolmate of the bridegroom, as the officiating clergymen. The ceremony will be followed by a reception at the Casino.

The feminine group of the bridal entourage will be headed by Mrs. Walter Schrauff of New York as matron of honor and Miss Emily Otis as maid of honor. The bridesmaids will include Miss Beatrice and Miss Harriet Breland, Mrs. M. Scott Bromwell, Miss Anne Croftan, Mrs. John V. Farwell III, Mrs. Edward L. Hersey, Mrs. Albert Keep, Miss Marie Clarke Smith, Mrs. Stanley Zaring, and Miss Mary Ward of Pinehurst, N. C.

John Snyder of Long Island will act as best man for Mr. McCormack and the ushers will be Hamilton A. Long, Maj. Edwin H. Armstrong, Wilbur De Witt Bijou, Edwin L. Howard, James C. Dougherty, Milward W. Martin, William B. Schrauff, George W. Sheldon, and William S. Simpson, all of New York; Solomon B. Smith of Chicago, William C. Douglas of New Haven, Paul T. Homan of Ithaca, N. Y., John G. Madden of Kansas City, Mo., Walter L. Mitchell of Washington, D. C., David J. Randall Jr. of Westport, Conn., and Carlile Bolton-Smith of Memphis, Tenn.

Besides the ushers and their wives, the out of town guests will include the groom's aunt, Miss Mary E. Toal and his uncle Edward Reed, both of Brooklyn.

After a six weeks' motor trip through the west Mr. McCormack and his bride will reside at 65 East 95th street, New York City.

A number of luncheon and dinner parties will be given in connection with the Kenilworth Garden club's flower show next Wednesday and Thursday. Mrs. Bentley McCloud is to have as her guests during the show Mrs. R. H. Olmsted, Mrs. Frank L. McCoy, and Mrs. William Burgess of Omaha, and Mrs. Oliver Barrett is to give a luncheon for out of town visitors on the opening day.

The show is to be patterned after the garden fair of Chelsea, London. The list of judges includes Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mrs. Daniel Kissam of Glencoe, Mrs. Charles H. Hamill of Hinsdale, Mrs. Langdon Pearse of Winnetka, Mrs. Robert Work of Barrington, Mrs. Henry Faurot of Riverside, Roy O. West of Winnetka, and Ernest Von Ammon of Winnetka, and Francis Chapin of Chicago.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., May 30.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover was not able to accompany the President to Gettysburg today when he went for the Memorial day exercises. Mrs. Hoover has, however, as her guest at the White House Mrs. Stark McMullen of California, an old friend, who joined Miss Susan Dyer of New York there.

The attorney general and Mrs. Mitchell and Mr. Justice and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone were among the dinner guests last night of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tuckerman at the Woman's National Country club, of which Mrs. Tuckerman has recently been elected president.

Vice President Curtis and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gann, are closing their apartment at the Mayflower tomorrow and going to the Gann home in Chevy Chase for most of the summer.

The Episcopal bishop of Washington and Mrs. James E. Freeman left tonight for New York, and will sail tomorrow for England, where the bishop will attend the Lambeth conference, for which Anglican bishops from all over the world will meet.

Plans are being completed for the annual Hinsdale horse show to be held on Sunday, June 15, at the Oak Brook Polo club. The committee in charge will meet tomorrow afternoon at the club to discuss the entries, all of which must be in by June 3.

Paul Butler is general chairman of arrangements, and the assisting members include Mrs. Victor Buchanan, who is in charge of the box sale, W. Robert Johnston, Walter Saunders, Julian Tilton, Robert W. Hamill, Mrs. Richard Bell, Mrs. Horace Hench, Mrs. Philip Clarke, Mrs. J. F. Govan, H. F. McLaury, Edward P. McKenna, Mrs. James F. Knowlson, and Mrs. R. L. Hurst. Proceeds of the affair will benefit the Hinsdale Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, and the American Legion.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Shaw of 49 East Division street and their two sons are to sail next Friday for a four months' European trip, and have rented a villa in France for the summer.

The latest commercial departure in the ranks of society women is "The Stork, Inc.," a shop to be opened on Monday by Mrs. Warren Crawford and Mrs. James N. Rawleigh in Winnetka. It's to be a cute little shop, so cute that its proprietresses don't mind giving up summer vacation plans in order to preside at its counters. The Stork is to specialize in everything for the baby under a year old.

Cunning pink cards with lace paper frills have been dispatched to the prospective patrons. Both matrons are popular and active socially on the north shore, and, of course, their enterprise needn't interfere with weekends. The Rawleighs' two lads are to be dispatched to camp in the east when their school is out. Mrs. Crawford also qualifies as an authority on babywear, as she has three young ones.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Otis Brown (Dorothy Murison) have taken a cottage at 590 Crabtree lane, Lake Forest for the summer and are moving out the first of June.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. West of the Ambassador have opened their Court Hill villa in Pittsfield, Mass., for the summer, having arrived there on Wednesday last.

Today is the first of the "open garden" days sponsored by the Lake Forest Garden club. The estates of Mrs. Clyde M. Carr, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mrs. George A. Seaverns, and Mrs. Albert B. Dick Jr. may be viewed from 11 o'clock this morning to 7 in the evening, for a small admission charge.

This plan of opening the beautiful gardens of the Lake Forest estates to the public was begun several years ago by the Garden club, and has been a most successful feature of the summer program. The proceeds are used for various objects of civic beautification. There will be other gardens opened on every second Saturday from now until Saturday, July 19.

Ida M. Tarbell Is First Woman to Attend Authors' Club

New York, May 30.—(AP)—The Authors' club, founded by Mark Twain as a retreat for male members of the profession, has fallen upon what he probably would have viewed as evil days. The first woman ever to attend a meeting of the club as an elected member invaded the clubhouse in West 76th street last night. She was Ida M. Tarbell and was the only one of eight women recently elected to membership who appeared.

John Erskine, the president, explained. "I voted to elect the ladies because I have learned from a study of history that the culture of a conquered nation always dominates the culture of the conquerer.

"I thought that if we men were completely stepped on we might get the attention we deserve."

Chicago Woman One of Overseas League Officials

PARIS, May 30.—(AP)—Four new vice presidents were elected at the closing session of the convention of the Women's Overseas Service league last night. Mrs. G. H. Taubles, national president, will continue in office for another two year term. The new officers are: Mrs. Forest Newsome, Denver, Colo.; Miss Aileen Haggerty, Havana, Cuba; Miss Mary Martin, New York City, and Mrs. S. G. Lessor, Chicago.

American Ambassador Edge and Gen. Pershing were speakers at the banquet. Gen. Pershing recalled his request to the war department "to keep as many women out of France as possible," "because they were all so eager to go to the front and were causing him much anxiety."

BILLY ARNOLD WINS 500 MILE AUTO RACE

CUBS WIN TWO GAMES; HORNSBY'S ANKLE BROKEN

RAJAH INJURED IN SLIDE; ROOT AND BLAIR STAR

Bruins Beat Cards, 2-0 and 9-8.

Gets Reward Today

ROGERS HORNSBY, despite his broken left ankle, will be able to receive a $1,000 present before today's game between the Cubs and Cardinals. It will be his reward for being named last fall as the National league player most valuable to his team in 1929. Hornsby will advance to the plate with the assistance of crutches and receive the money in gold from John Heydler, league president. Hornsby also received the award in 1925 when he was with the Cardinals. The competition now has been abandoned.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Misfortune, which has been hammering relentlessly at the champions' hopes of a second pennant, reached into the ranks again yesterday morning and swept the great hitter into the discard, probably for the season, because he started and didn't complete a slide into third base.

But as an old hero faded out, a new hero charged into the vacancy with a sensational display of hitting which led the titleholders to a double triumph over the pacemaking Cardinals. Clarence Blair was the new hero. His bat brought a ten inning 9 to 8 matinee victory before 30,000 after Charley Root's sterling pitching had bagged the morning struggle by 2 to 0 as 12,000 looked on.

Injury Comes in Third Inning.

Hornsby's finish as a man of action for an indefinite period came in the third inning of the morning contest, just after his double had driven home one of the two runs on which Root registered his second shutout of the year. The Rajah endeavored to race to third on a fly to right. Going into the bag, he started to slide. Then he remembered his weak right foot and changed his mind. It was the same mistake that for years has been putting athletes on crutches.

As Hornsby tried to straighten and go into the sack standing up his legs twisted under him. He went down in a heap, there was a snap in the left foot, and he didn't get up. There was no doubt as to what had happened. His mates hurriedly carried him to the clubhouse, an ambulance was summoned, and he was taken to the Illinois Masonic hospital, where an X-ray revealed a fracture of the external malleolus bone, which, in plain language, is the ankle. He was back in afternoon to fill the rôle of a spectator, and that is probably all he will until the present campaign is about ready to fade out.

Five Hits Off Root.

Root was such a polished worker in the morning that the Cards, who have been banging their way ruthlessly through the opposition, protested only to the extent of five hits. There was only one inning in which they paired their blows, and something might have happened then if poor base running hadn't opened the way for a double play. The Cub attack also was light against Johnson and H. Bell, but one of the few hits was Cuyler's triple, good for a run, and Hornsby provided the other with his double in the wake of a single.

Here is what Blair did in the afternoon to prevent defeat from being hung on Pat Malone or one of the several pitchers who succeeded him. Blair doubled in the second inning to drive two home and round out a rally of four runs, which equaled what had been done to Malone in round one. In the fourth Hornsby's understudy cracked a homer inside the park for three more runs, thereby knocking Bill Hallahan, the Card starter, off the mound. Then in the seventh he doubled again to send in the run that caused an 8 to 8 tie and an extra inning.

Cards Crack in Tenth.

Blair also came close to having the pleasure of scoring the winning tally in the tenth when the Cards' defense crumpled behind Johnson, who in the previous inning had been summoned as a last pitching hope. Blair led off in the tenth with a bounder at Adams, who had moved to short. Sparky fumbled and then heaved the ball into the dugout. Blair went to second on the two errors, but a moment later was erased from the line trying to reach third on English's intended sacrifice.

Cuyler offset the bad break on the hunt by doubling against the fence in right, English halting at third. Hack Wilson, who was respected because of former No. 14 with which he had started the rally in the second inning, was purposely passed. Stephenson then hit a ball that should have been a double play. Adams picked it up, tossed it to Frisch at second. Frisch relayed it to first, but his aim was bad so he lost the play and English

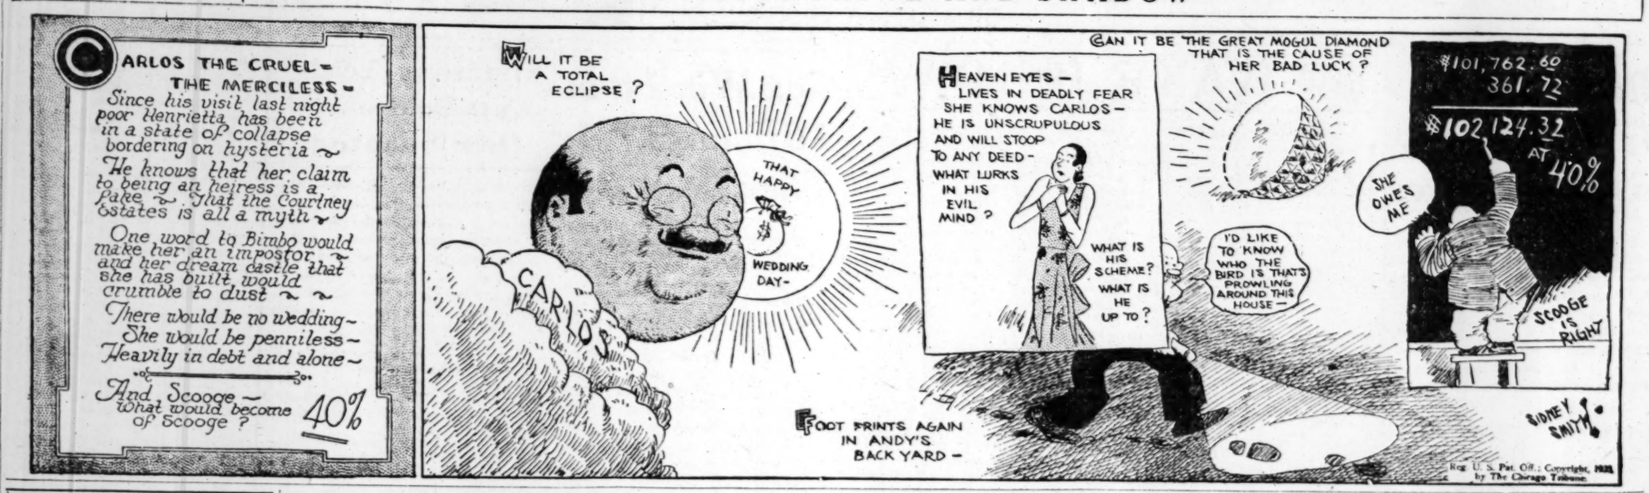
THE GUMPS—SUNSHINE AND SHADOW



Misfortune, in Guise of Injuries, Long a Foe of Cubs

1929—Gabby Hartnett, the league's outstanding catcher, injured his throwing arm while in training camp and was useless for the season, except for a start in one game and occasional appearance as a pinch hitter. Carlson suffered another attack which prevented his getting into pitching condition until the second half of the season. Charley Grimm suffered a broken wrist when he bumped against the grandstand in a game at New York in August. Was absent while the Cubs were making their pennant drive.

1930 — Rogers Hornsby was sent home from training camp because of soreness in his right heel on which an operation for removal of a growth was performed last winter. Has been in and out of the lineup since the start of the race. Guy Bush injured his right elbow when he fell fielding a ball and was out for three weeks. Riggs Stephenson was forced to the bench by a shoulder injury, caused by attempting a diving catch. Lester Bell, purchased from the Braves to fill the third base vacancy, has been unable to play regularly because of a sore arm developed in training. Hal Carlson died suddenly, presumably as the result of hemorrhages of the stomach. Hornsby Friday broke his left ankle sliding into third base.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 30.—(AP)—Bobby Jones and Roger Wethered will play 36 holes tomorrow, over the historic St. Andrews course, for the British amateur golf championship, the only major title the American has not won.

The two stars have fought their way through seven gruelling matches to meet again in match play as they did as rival Walker cup team captains at Sandwich two weeks ago, when Jones won, 8 and 7, in the 36 hole match. They had met as Walker cup privates in 1922, Jones winning, 3 and 2.

In another thrilling all-American match today, Jones defeated George Voigt, one up. He was two down at the thirteenth hole and had to stage a great rally to square the match and then go on to win at the home hole.

Grant Loses on 19th.

Young Fiddian had the opportunity to become the Diana Fishwick of men's golf in Great Britain but the big occasion was too much for him. Fiddian's style and fine swing nevertheless created a good impression on Jones.

In the lower half of the draw, Wethered eliminated Henry Howell, a Welsh merchant, and Hartley defeated Douglas Grant, American living in London, after Grant, who is nearly 50 years of age, cracked at the finish. Grant was one up at the 17th but lost the 18th and 19th holes.

St. Andrews golf fans who have watched the Jones campaign this week for the British title were all primed for the clash between Bobby and George in the afternoon, but they hardly expected a battle increasing in intensity and suspense to the very last green where 6,000 wildly excited persons saw the finish.

If Jones wins tomorrow he must recall a 15 foot putt at the 17th, where with a birdie four at this treacherous 467 yard hole he gained a half when Voigt's ball was only inches from the cup.

Voigt Misjudges Shot.

Jones won the match at the 18th, where Voigt misjudged the distance and his iron stopped in a deep dip in the putting surface with a step rise to the level of the cup. Jones had made a great iron shot to the green, on the flag all the way, and he just missed a birdie three, winning the hole with a par four to Voigt's five.

Jones and Voigt turned the outgoing nine level, each in 37 strokes.

Then Bobby played the short 11th loosely and Voigt stepped out ahead for the first time in the match. When George added the 13th and had a two point lead, Bobby was playing as Britons never thought he could play. After cutting his drive and making a poor second, he banged his club against the ground in ire, but worse was still to come.

George Takes Lead.

His ball for his third shot rested just before a gaping bunker. Jones then completely fluffed a mashie pitch. He saved himself a six by sending a 12 foot putt home for a five, but it did him no good, for Voigt holed out from six feet for a four, and was 2 up.

Bobby then began to play the game British fans recognize as "Jones golf." At the 527 yard 14th he was home with a sensational brassie and scored an easy birdie four while Voigt, with a fall out of bounds from the

White Sox Divide Double Header; Win, 7-4; Lose, 4-3

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., May 30.—The White Sox, stimulated by having won a ten inning battle in their first game against the Browns this afternoon, 7 to 4, in the second game gingerly went about the prospective business of giving Ted Lyons his ninth victory of the year. But they failed, 4 to 3.

For five innings Ted and the team breezed along in what seemed a certain shutout. The Louisiana boy was going great guns and he had a two run edge, Shires having knocked a homer in the second inning and Kamm, Riddle, and Cissell having collaborated for another run in the fifth.

Then in the last of the sixth our lads seemed suddenly to have gone crazy. There were three errors, two misplays that weren't scored as errors, and some other funny business that tied the score at 2 to 2 and had the bases full when a double play temporarily calmed the riot.

Lyons' Wild Throw Hurts.

Even so, with the sterling Ted still in there, this seemed fair enough. But in the next inning Ted halted a second rally with an ill advised bit of base running, and then in the Brownie half of the seventh committed a throwing error that led to two more runs to establish the score at 4 to 2. Jolley led off the eighth with a homer and that was the only other run of the game.

The first game was credited to Hal McKain, his first statistical reward of the season.

FIRST GAME

Two unearned runs in the first inning produced by Kerr's error and three singles got the Browns off to a flying start, which was not entirely curbed until the fifth inning, though half of the slack was taken up by the Sox in the second session. That first Chicago run was made by Harris. Shires doubled with one out, but was run down on Harris' tap to Kress. Dave reaching second during the process. Kamm then got his first productive single of the game, scoring Harris.

In the fifth the Sox grabbed three runs and a 4 to 2 edge. Berg walked, went to second on Thomas' sacrifice, to third on Kerr's single, and scored on Cissell's single to center, which also put Kerr on third. Cissell got to second when Schulte juggled the ball. Kerr scored and Cissell went to third while Melillo was throwing out Jolley. Cissell scored on Reynolds' double to left center. Shires ended the rally by grounding to Blue.

Sox Offense Halted.

From the fifth to the tenth the Sox offense didn't accomplish a thing except a single by Harris in the eighth, which didn't amount to a thing because Dave made a futile effort to stretch it to a double. The Browns got to Tommy for one run in the eighth. Melillo led off with the third of his four hits, but was forced by Gullic. Ferrell then doubled to left, Gullic stopping at third. Hale batted for Coffman and sent a sacrifice fly to Reynolds, Gullic scoring. Blue walked, but O'Rourke popped to Kerr.

Tragedy marred the race in the first 150 miles when this car skidded on a turn, struck the concrete curbing and plunged down a six foot embankment. Paul Marshall, riding in the car as a mechanic, died shortly after the crash, while his brother, Cy, the driver, was seriously injured.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 30.—William Arnold, 5710 Wentworth avenue, Chicago, won first money, and Paul Marshall, 34 years old, of Detroit, lost his life to provide the major thrills for 150,000 spectators who witnessed the annual 500 mile automobile race here today. Shorty Cantlon of Detroit was second to cross the finish line in a Miller-Schofield special.

CY MARSHALL.

Almost as spectacular as the fatal accident was a tngle of six automobiles making the north turn on the oval track at 100 miles an hour. No serious injury resulted.

Arnold, driving a Miller-Hartz front drive special, took the lead early in the race and his ultimate victory never was threatened. His time for the 500 miles was 4 hours 58 minutes 40 seconds, an average speed of 100.448 miles an hour. The track record is 101.13 miles an hour, set in 1925 by Peter de Paolo.

Marshall Riding with Brother.

Paul Marshall was riding mechanic for his brother Cy of Indianapolis. In the first 150 miles, when the 33 starters were fighting to break from the bunches, Cy swung high on the turn. The car skidded into and over a thirty inch concrete curb, plunged down a six foot embankment and tumbled to a stop.

Probably 25,000 spectators saw the accident. The others learned by radio announcement that "Car number 33 has run over the wall on north turn." This held grandstand attention for only a moment. Cars were roaring by. The radio continued with routine announcements of machines being pulled to the pits for adjustments.

The Marshall brothers were carried to the emergency hospital on the speedway. Both were unconscious. Cy, his skull and jaw fractured, opened his eyes for a moment, just long enough to ask about his brother. He was told his brother was all right. Paul was dead. Cy is in a critical condition.

Meyer Finishes Fourth.

Louis Meyer of California, winner of the 1928 race, had made a flashing start, but mechanical trouble developed. He pushed his machine to the pits and was penalized a lap. Repairs lost more time, but Meyer got back on the track and by hard driving managed to finish fourth.

De Paolo, champion of 1925 and 1927, started in the contest but was relieved shortly. A few laps later his automobile was in the tangle of a half dozen that narrowly averted a tragedy.

Arnold Wins $52,150.

Arnold, 26 years old, received $52,150 in prize money. His victory is considered as worth $48,000 more for its opportunities to capitalize on the title of champion of the Indianapolis Speedway. He has been a professional dirt track racer for several years. He drove hard, and he was lucky. Twenty-four of the thirty-eight starters were forced out by crackups, burned spark plugs, broken gas or oil lines, bent axles, stripped timing gears, slipped clutches, warped valves or faulty carburetor. Arnold's first trip to the pits was for gas, oil, and water after 278 miles.

Before factories developed their proving grounds for testing machines under normal driving conditions, this grind on the two and a half mile brick oval here was considered a laboratory for the industry. Some still consider the track as such, and some ado was made here tonight over the fact that a front wheel drive won this year for the first time in the history of the speedway.

Cantlon Three Laps Behind.

Cantlon, in coming in second, was three laps behind the winner. He drove a Miller-Schofield special. Schneider, in a Bowes Seal fast special, was five or six laps behind Cantlon. The spectators didn't give them much attention. And only a minority gave particular note to the others in the money.

The crowd had attended a race in which a rider was killed, cars had jammed on a turn, and others had caromed off the concrete guard rail, and little interest was shown in the order of the finish after the winner had been determined.

Drives Entire Route.

Arnold drove the entire route without relief, and won 198 of the 200 laps, piling up prizes toltaling $19,500 for lap victories alone. He was well in the lead when he made his one trip to the pits and being off the track but a few seconds, he returned to the race still a good two laps ahead of Cantlon.

At the 200 mile mark, he had maintained an average of 102.143 miles an hour, covering the distance in 1 hour 57 minutes and 28 seconds, with Cantlon in second place, and Schneider in third, the order in which they finished.

Six Machines Pile Up.

The second major accident occurred at the same north turn on which Marshall was killed and his brother injured.

The two injured in the six car smashup were Deacon Litz, a driver of Dubois, Pa., and Aaron T. Vance of Indianapolis, a mechanic for Chester T. Gardner of Pittsburgh. Fred Roberts, Danville, Ill., who was driving relief for De Paolo, tried to bring his car out of a skid and after losing control collided with the car of Marion Trexler of Indianapolis, four others behind them crashing into them, one after another. The drivers were Litz, Johnny Seymour of Escanaba, Mich.; Babe Stapp and Lou Moore, both of Los Angeles.

TILDEN, MOODY TAKE FRENCH TENNIS TILTS

AUTEUIL, France, May 30.—(AP)—Bill Tilden, through a comfortable victory of 6-1, 6-1, 7-5 over Lyttleton Rogers, kept the United States in the running for the French men's singles title. Tomorrow he will clash with his old rival, Jean Borotra, of France.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, defending her women's crown, found it unnecessary to remove her sweater to dispose of Helena Rost of Germany, 6-0, 6-1, while Helen Jacobs, after a rather shaky start, assumed the upper hand over Mrs. Phoebe Watson of England to win, 8-7, 6-3, 6-1.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: On the southwest corner of Michigan and Harrison, about 1879, was located a beautiful three story and basement brown sandstone dwelling, with a large stone cornice at the head of the front steps. On this portico was inscribed, "Maison du Lac."

Here Mrs. Martha J. Boardman conducted an exclusive family hotel. Among her permanent guests was J. Walter Spalding, brother of A. G. Spalding, who later became head of the sporting goods house of that name.

Mrs. Boardman had a young daughter, who became engaged to and later married Walter Spalding. Their son, Albert Spalding, named for his "Uncle Al," is the world renowned violinist. Mrs. Marie Spalding, nee Boardman, died in Florence, Italy, on May 15, and was buried there.

Herman Hefter.

Back in 1901 the Auburn Park semi-pro baseball team, then managed by James Hurley, had a pitcher called "Wild Bill" Cahill, who won 27 and lost 5 games. Hurley occasionally played at second base. For several years thereafter Cahill was the Auburn Park mainstay on the slab and the hero of the neighborhood kids. He is still living and resides at 1535 West 47th street.

Carlson War Victim?

A fact generally overlooked in ascribing reasons for the sudden death of Hal Carlson, universally respected Cub pitcher, is that he was gassed during the world war. He was one of many who returned to civilian occupations either with health shattered or more susceptible to maladies seeking a victim. That war took much out of many participants. There will be other deaths within the next decade, in part unexplainable, which no doubt could be traced to service in France.

Golf Parity.

As we expected, one reader takes exception to our estimate of golf parity between British and American golfers after the fine showing of Jones and Voigt, considering the Americans had all the disadvantage of being visitors on a strange course in a foreign country.

We thought we made it clear that we considered Jones best of all amateurs. Then if Yankees outclassed the Britons, should not more than two of our players have survived to the final eight, for ours was a representative team? We think a British team of similar strength coming to this country might do about as well, but not take back the title. Our estimate was on average strength, not the superiority of one or two men.

What impressed us about this British tourney was the number of native players who were engaged in the more humble occupations. We seldom see that in this country. American golf is more expensive to the player than that across the pond. True, few of our younger players are wealthy, but most of them, or their parents, have incomes permitting tournament play under the amateur status defined by the U. S. G. A.

GERM-PROCESSED is the First Stock Motor Oil to "place" in INDIANAPOLIS Speedway Races! .... Now PENETRATIVE LUBRICITY Proves its Worth in the Terrific Punishment of Racing Motors

Dave Evans, driving 122 cubic inch front drive Miller Special, placed sixth out of thirty-eight starters. Evans added only two and one-half gallons of Germ Processed Motor Oil in 5 hours, 24 minutes, 54 seconds of driving, at an average speed of 92.57 miles per hour.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY THOUSAND cheering excited people Friday saw CONOCO do something that no other stock Oil has ever done before!... Saw CONOCO'S claims for the sensational new Germ-Processed oil verified beyond the shadow of a doubt . . . Saw the supreme test applied to America's newest oil... Saw Germ-Processed oil "place" among the leaders of the Indianapolis Race .... Saw CONOCO victorious in the domestic oil market of the nation!

It was only good strategy for CONOCO to again bring the superiority of Germ-Processed oil to your attention in this sensational way. At a time when motorists in every section of the country have been lending willing ears to the story of the Germ-Process . . . learning that this is the first fundamental improvement in oils since 1901... reading the sensational disclosures of motor oil merit following the recent Pike's Peak Tests .... CONOCO by this masterful stroke crystallizes the already wide-spread conviction, that Germ-Processed Motor Oil is the safest oil for every-day driving in twenty-seven million cars.

For the Germ-Processed oil used in this race was the same stock oil that you can buy at any service station bearing the CONOCO Red Triangle! You never were told that about any other oil, were you? Remember, Germ-Processed is the first stock oil that ever "placed" in this race!

Picture now the scene of this oil-history-making event. A bomb bursts, and a thundering cavalcade of steel chariots rolls away from the tape in the wake of the pace-maker . . . one lap at a crawl of 85 miles per hour, and then . . . Here they come! . . . . roaring down the straightaway, the lines stretching out as the impatient ones early take the lead . . . tires screeching on the turns. In the "stands" excitement reaches a fever point. Who will lead the first lap? . . . There he comes around the north turn, the drone of his hard-put motor more and more intense, reaching a howl as he passes . . . a hunched, relentless, demoniac figure, grotesquely goggled behind a tightly clenched wheel. Others follow in that motor-punishing procession. Perhaps the leader is among them. Hearts play a fusillade in the breasts of the spectators. Voices swell above the din of the endless screech on the track. A great mass of humanity swirls about the rails, this question uppermost: "Who will win?"

Eyes follow the whizzing bullets as their masters hurtle them around the oval. "Who will win?"

Everyone knows that each contesting car has been built to exacting standards, carefully tested, painstakingly groomed for the scorching punishment of the race. Few realize that the answer awaits in the churning depths of the crankcases of these tortured motors. Few stop to think that while tires may be changed, gas-tanks refilled, even drivers replaced, there is no repairing the damage if the oil doesn't stand up.

Think how significant it is that Germ-Processed oil, alone of all the regular motor oils in America, has the rugged stamina to withstand the searing punishment of racing motors. Previously, only special castor-blends, most of them from abroad, have survived this gruelling test. And they are of such character as to be unsuited for every-day driving in an ordinary motor car.

CONTEST BOARD AAA CERTIFIED TEST

The contest board of the AAA took all the necessary steps to make sure that the oil used was the regular CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil.

So it is that Germ-Processed oil is the only oil ever to "place" in this race, that you can buy at service stations for use in your own motor!

Now, as the victor pushes back foggy goggles from his blistered face and gasps for water, the task is finished. Two hundred times around a 2½ mile track . . . 500 miles of the severest motor punishment in the world . . . speeds higher than 110 miles per hour.

Now CONOCO has proven its claims, confirmed its challenge, and justified this request of you:

"If you value the life of your motor, if you would reduce your operating costs, if you want better lubrication than any other oil can give you, go to the Sign of the Red Triangle and ask for:

30,000 See Holiday Card at Homewood.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Backed heavily by one of the largest crowds that ever has gathered at a Chicago racetrack, the daughter of Sir Gallahad 3d-Uncles Lassie, all but clinched the 2 year old filly championship of the western turf when she came galloping home a length and a half in front of Issaquena from the Paradise stock farm of Kentucky. Rare Charm, a stable mate of Issaquena, was third.

Half Sister to Van Dusen.

Betty Derr is a half sister to Clyde Van Dusen, last year's Kentucky Derby winner. Man o' War and Uncles Lassie were mated to produce Clyde Van Dusen. Betty Derr is a daughter of Sir Gallahad 3d, sire of Gallant Fox, which won this year's Kentucky Derby, the Preakness, and the Woods Memorial handicap. Uncles Lassie is the mother of Betty Derr.

So while Man o' War and Sir Gallahad 3d are in the limelight as famous sires of famous thoroughbreds it seems that the old mare, Uncles Lassie, should have been given bit of a cheer by the big holiday crowd.

Jockey McCrossen rode Betty Derr to the victory which was worth $6,370 to Owner Gardner. Issaquena got $1,000 for landing second and Rare Charm's share of the prize was $500. Over Shady won $250 for being fourth. Betty Derr broke in front. She stayed there. That was the whole story of the Debutante. Helen Virginia offered a stiff challenge. But Betty looked around at Helen and Helen quit as if she knew Betty was of slightly superior caste. Issaquena raced up into second place and Rare Charm was running third but Betty Derr was looking around and laughing through the late stages.

In Haste, on which there had been quite a play, was the only victim of bad luck in the race. She was away in a tangle and when she worked her way out of one tight pocket Jockey Pichon had her in another. She finished far back.

30,000 See Card.

The crowd was the largest ever to visit the Washington Park course. It numbered slightly over 30,000 according to figures announced from Col. Matt J. Winn's office. The paid attendance was 25,000 and the betting handle was about $50,000 greater than on last Memorial day. More than 25,000 programs were sold.

Two year olds also figured in another great contest during the afternoon when eight youngsters clashed in the five furlong second race. Dandy Dan, a son of Westy Hogan-Dress Up, turned up as the victor, beating Homer L. by two lengths.

Homer L. perhaps would have led Dandy Dan to the wire if he hadn't decided to race wide on the turn into the stretch. Before Jockey Neal could get him back into his stride Dandy Dan after hugging the rail had taken a lead which he never surrendered. Dandy Dan is owned by the Nash brothers of Chicago and his victory came as somewhat of a surprise to the players, for he paid $16.24 in the two dollar mutuels to win.

Leucite Wins by Eight Lengths.

The Rancocas stables white and green jacket was carried to its first triumph of the Chicago season in the six furlong third race, when Leucite got to the front soon after the start and made a show of his field from there until the finish. He won by eight lengths, with Replevin, a long shot, second, and Frances Milward third. Patricia Ann was heavily backed, but after Jockey Neal got her away tardily she wasn't able to get any part of the purse, although she raced up into second position rounding the turn.

My Dandy, an old time Chicago favorite, scorched the track when he rolled home in front of a brilliant field of sprinters in the $2,000 Decoration handicap. He beat Zacaweista from the Three D's stable by a neck. Old Flat Iron was third.

My Dandy was a 3 to 5 favorite and gave his backers heart trouble when he trailed into the stretch. Jockey Garrity had him out in the middle of the track coming down the stretch and he sailed on past his rivals until he was going away in the final strides. The time was 1:12 1-5 and My Dandy paid $3.30 in the betting.

PETEE WRACK WINS

New York, May 30.—[Special.]—Earl Sande added a new turf record to his long string when he rode John R. Macomber's Petee Wrack to victory in the Suburban handicap before 50,000 persons at Belmont park today. It was Sande's third victory in the old classic, which first was run at Sheepshead Bay in 1884.

He is the first jockey to score with three winners.

Petee Wrack is a half brother to Gallant Fox, with which Sande made turf history this spring when he won the Preakness and Kentucky Derby in succession, the latter event for the third time.

Detroit Pilot Wins 100 Mile Auto Race at Bridgeville

Bridgeville, Pa., May 30.—(AP)—Gene Haustein, Detroit, won the 100 mile auto race here today. F. Bianchi, Pittsburgh, was a close second, with the rest of the field far in the rear. Haustein's time was 1 hour 29 minutes, 40 seconds. Bianchi was 32 seconds behind.

Yankees Trade Hoyt, Koenig for 3 Tigers

New York, May 30.—(AP)—Pitcher Waite Hoyt and Shortstop Mark Koenig have been traded to Detroit for Pitcher Owen Carroll, Outfielder Harry Rice, and Infielder George Wuestling. This was announced today by the Yankee management.

The trade, one of the most important of the season, came suddenly today, although negotiations have been pending between the clubs since last February, when Bob Shawkey, manager of the Yanks, and Bucky Harris, pilot of the Tigers, conferred in Miami, Fla.

Although getting "three for two" with no cash involved in the deal, the Yanks parted with a pair of important factors in their pennant winning surges of 1926, 1927, 1928. Hoyt, who is 31 years old, came to the Yanks in 1921 after two years with the Boston Red Sox and a brief tour of the minors. He has been with the Yankees ever since and pitched splendid ball. His best seasons were 1927 and 1928 when he won 22 and lost 7, and 23 and lost 7, respectively. He won only ten games while losing nine last seson and has not been effective this year.

HURDLE MARK SHATTERED AT U. OF C. MEET

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Amsden Oliver, 17 year old sophomore of Roosevelt High school, Dayton, O., broke the national interscholastic record for the 220 yard low hurdles yesterday in the preliminaries of the twenty-sixth annual University of Chicago meet. The Negro star covered the distance in 23 3-5 seconds.

The former record of 24 seconds was established last year in the interscholastics at Stagg field by Keller of East High, Columbus, O.

Oliver won by five yards from the other qualifiers in the fourth heat, Abolwich of Greenville, Tex., who last week established the Texas interscholastic record of 24.1 seconds.

Froebel High of Gary, Ind., defending its national title, qualified 13 athletes in the ten events in which preliminaries were held yesterday. The preps from the south side of Gary failed to place in three field events, the javelin, discus and shot, but placed two men in the others, save the 120 yard high hurdles and the broad jump. In the latter event three men leaped better than 20 feet 4 inches to get into the finals this afternoon.

Ivan Fuqua of Brazil, Ind., defending champion in the 440 yard dash, qualified in three other events yesterday. His time of 10.1 seconds in the 100 yard dash equaled that of Russell of Hereford, Tex., and Moore of Fort Collins, Colo., who formed a select group in the 16 qualifiers in the eight heats. In addition Fuqua led the 220 yard dash men with a mark of 21.9 seconds. He also qualified in the broad jump.

Casper of Harlandale, Tex., qualified in both hurdles and the broad jump.

Ralph Metcalfe of Tilden Tech, Chicago, interscholastic sprint champion last year, did not compete. He was 20 years of age yesterday and according to the age rule of the Chicago Public High School league was ineligible. Metcalfe won both sprint events in the state meet this year.

The finals start this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. There is no admission charge.

Jones Meets Wethered for Title Today

tee, never had a chance to keep step with him on the hole.

The 15th was halved in poor fives, each missing putts, and then Jones squared matters at the 16th when he was down in par four, while Voigt, who was trapped, had to have five.

The 17th was halved in birdie fours, as Jones made his great putt when Voigt seemed certain to win the hole and become dormie.

Jones' final par of the day was good enough to take the home hole and the match when Voigt could not get his four foot putt down.

George swung his aluminum putter to perfection until he failed to hole his final putt to keep the match alive.

"You putted marvelously," an admirer exclaimed as Voigt left the green.

"I only wanted that last one to drop," was the reply.

Tomorrow's 36 hole battle not only will array the men who captained the 1930 Walker cup teams, but they are both former amateur champions of their countries, Wethered winning the British title in 1923. Wethered never has won the British open, but he tied for the title with Jock Hutchison in 1921, losing on a play-off. He would have won without the replay had he not stepped on his ball.

2 CHICAGO FIRMS NAMED IN POSTAL LEASES INQUIRY

Other Corporations Face Investigation.

Washington, D. C., May 30.—[Special.]—P. W. Chapman & Co., Chicago financiers who about a year ago acquired the United States Lines from the government, are listed, it became known today, among a number of corporations whose activities in connection with postoffice substation leases in many cities are to be scrutinized during the forthcoming special senate committee investigation.

Disclosure that the Chapman company as well as Jacob Kulp & Co., also of Chicago, will be drawn into the inquiry was made today by Senator J. J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.], chairman of the committee, who declined, however, to reveal the part played by the former firm in what, it has been asserted, may develop into a scandal exceeding that exposed in the naval oil reserve lease inquiry.

500 Leases Abstracted.

More than 500 substation leases throughout the country have already been abstracted by the committee's experts, according to Blaine, and marked down for investigation of evidence indicating losses to the government of millions of dollars in excessive rentals based, it is alleged, on grossly inflated valuations on the property.

Approximately 600 more leases remain to be studied by the experts before the committee's program can be definitely determined, and it is improbable, it was asserted today, that the investigation will reach the public hearing stage before late in August or early in September.

Tentatively the committee's plan, Blaine announced today, is to divide the country into five, six or seven zones and hold public hearings on all of the questioned leases in a particular zone in one or two of the principal cities of that zone. Chicago, the senator indicated, probably will be the first city visited by the committee.

Chicago Leases on List.

"I do not intend to discuss the evidence now before us," asserted Blaine, "but I may say that there are a number of postoffice substation leases in Chicago that will receive the committee's attention very early in the investigation. The facts there, it appears from the evidence in hand, are probably worse than in any other city."

The investigation is the result of charges aired in both the house and senate that the alleged gross fraud in the lease covering a commercial substation building in St. Paul, Minn., is typical of the graft in the nearly 1,200 similar leases negotiated by the postoffice department in recent years.

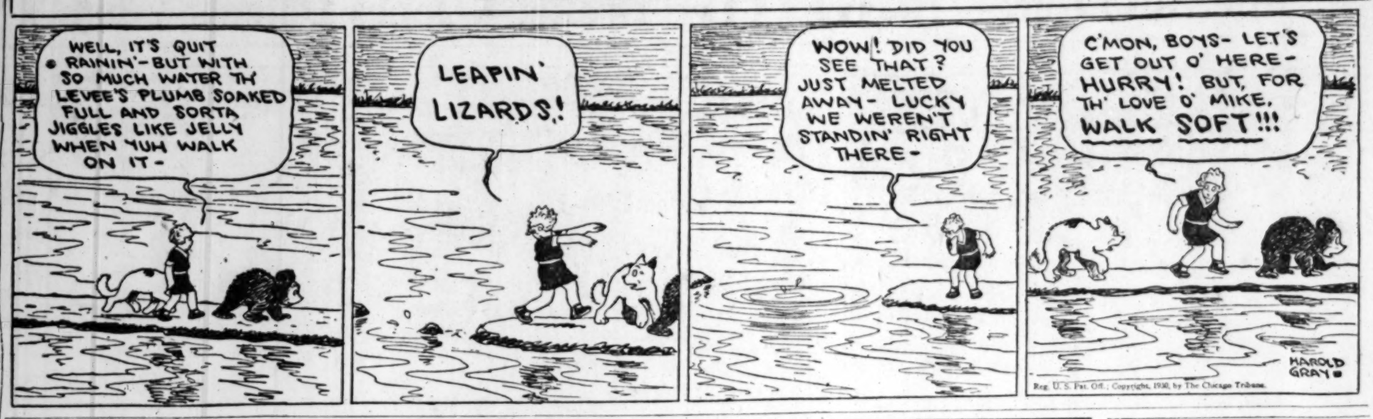
Rental $120,775 a Year.

The St. Paul building, erected by Loeb & Cowing of Chicago, was taken over by Jacob Kulp & Co. after it had been leased to the postoffice department at a rental of $120,775 a year. Kulp & Co. issued $1,150,000 bonds against the building, which it is charged, is actually valued at only $355,000 and succeeded in securing a new 20 year non-cancellable lease from the government in lieu of the original 90 day cancellable lease by reducing the rent to $120,000.

Pilot Demonstrates New 250,000 Candlepower Light

Charles F. Taylor, a pilot from the Curtis airport at Glenview, flew over the lake front last night to demonstrate two 250,000 candle power lights he carried on his plane. Murkiness over Grant park dimmed the exhibition and few persons were attracted by the lights or fireworks which he discharged.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Softly



Traveler Takes Radio Fans to China's Temples

Mario Chamlee Heard on New York Program.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

It takes a holiday like Memorial day to set off radio's manifold services to mankind. It brings unexpected news flashes and sports broadcasts to those who cannot witness the holiday events. The thought is thrust upon us: What would we do if radio were suddenly to be taken away?

Last evening Alfred Lyman Flude, speaking over W-G-N from 8 to 8:30 o'clock, took us through the temples of Peiping, the Chinese capital. Let us have more and more travel lectures; they are impressive and lastingly instructive.

For two weeks I have thought I was aware of all the announced appearances of Mario Chamlee, tenor, in the New York program through WMAQ, from 9 to 9:30 p. m. At about 9:15 he was allotted one song, which he sang with his usual charming voice and clear enunciation. However, the announcer did not make clear to me the title of the song.

The miscellaneous orchestral and vocal program from W-G-N, 9 to 10, was cheery and satisfactory.

5 YOUTHS, 2 GIRLS HELD AFTER 2 ARE SHOT BY POLICE

Police last night were investigating the activities of a gang of five youths captured early in the day following a chase through the streets, in which two of them were wounded by police bullets. One of the five and two girl companions were arrested in a flat at 3443½ Jackson boulevard after the auto chase.

Those wounded were Frank Russo, 20 years old, 2820 Adams street, shot through the back, and Leonard Tuffo, 23 years old, shot through the left side of the head. They are at Bridewell hospital. The others, held at the detective bureau, are Samuel Lubeck, 21 years old, 1959 Roosevelt road, and Walter Murphy, 707 South Cicero avenue, who were with Russo and Tuffo in the gang car, and Thomas Izzo, 2931 Lexington street, who was with Helen Lassensen and Mixie Reed when they were arrested in the Jackson boulevard flat.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., May 30.—The 16th Canadian parliament was formally dissolved by Gov. Gen. Lord Willingdon tonight and government and opposition parties prepared for a two months' election contest ending with polling day July 28.

As the last business act of the session the senate concurred in the supply bill. With tears in his eyes Speaker Rodolphe Lemieux, who for 34 years has been a commons member, acknowledged verbal tributes from the prime minister and opposition leaders.

Probably the outstanding accomplishment of the Canadian parliament this session was the passage of the liquor export act amendment which bans liquor exports from Canada to the United States. Through amendments to existing legislation parliament this year accorded more generous pension and land settlement treatment to Canadian war veterans. The tariff revision lately approved greatly increased Canadian tariffs against the United States and lowered imposts on British goods.

FRENCH DEMAND BORDER DEFENSE AGAINST AIR RAIDS

Warning Sounded as Evacuation Nears.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 30.—On the eve of the complete evacuation of the Rhineland, the nationalist newspaper La Liberté tonight sounds a warning and demands that the government organize an anti-aircraft defense along the frontiers and at all the strategic points in the country.

La Liberté insists that the $16,000,000 appropriated by parliament last December for the development of defenses against raiding airplanes and dirigibles was insufficient, and asserts that the military and political committees appointed to investigate the situation are not acting fast enough.

It demands chiefly, however, experimentation with and development of anti-aircraft artillery to enable the guns to follow the improvement of airplanes and be able to get the range of airplanes flying at the highest altitudes. Mobile anti-aircraft machine guns able to following raiding planes are also desired.

The air defense, as originally envisaged, aimed to provide reserves among the civilian populations in all large centers liable to attack. This despite the Kellogg pact and the league of nations protocol barring hostilities against civilians, women and children.

CHARGED WITH SLAYING MATE BY WEDGE IN THROAT

Cincinnati, O., May 30.—[Special.]—Charged with having murdered her husband by forcing a sharpened wooden wedge down his throat, Mrs. Lena Pruett, aged 19 years, of Wallaston, Ky., was arrested here today and confined in the woman's detention ward of the city hall to await the Kentucky sheriff.

Mrs. Pruett, it is alleged, fled to this city when her crime came to the notice of her husband's relatives.

Pruett had been found dead in a wood shed in the rear of the home with the wedge driven down his throat, and his eyes and ears filled with mud.

Mrs. Pruett waived extradition and asserts she will be able to prove her innocence with the assistance of her parents, who reside near Wallaston.

NATIVE OF ILLINOIS, TRAPPED IN SNOW AS GIRL, IS DEAD AT 95

Modesto, Cal., May 30.—(AP)—Death has taken the last of fifteen survivors of a party of eighty persons who were trapped by deep snows in the high Sierra mountains during the winter of 1846-47.

Mrs. Leana Charity Donner App, 95, last member of the famous Donner group, died late yesterday at Jamestown, west of here. She had been active until recently, and last week received Gov. C. C. Young.

Mrs. App saw her father die of starvation and her mother go insane in the emergency encampment in the deep snows on the edge of what now is Donner Lake, Cal.

She was born in Illinois. Her father, Capt. George Donner, was leader of the ill fated expedition.

MILLION LOST IN SAFETY BOX BANK ROBBERY

St. Louis, Mo., May 30.—(AP)—Looting of the safety deposit vault of the Grand National bank last Sunday was revealed today as a million dolar burglary, virtually equivalent to the $1,050,000 combined capital and surplus of the institution.

President Ed Mays announced the bank's loss as $43,000 in cash and about $350,000 in securities deposited by customers as collateral for loans. Customers' losses have been tabulated as approximately $640,000.

Insisting the bank is solvent and abel to handle its own affairs, the board of directors today rejected an offer by the Vandeventer National bank to purchase its business and take over its new quarters in the new Continental Life Insurance building, one of the city's most imposing skyscrapers. The building was erected by the insurance company, of which Mays also is president, and which reported losses of $232,000 in negotiable bonds in the burglary. An investigation of affairs of the insurance company was begun today.

SANTA FE CUTS PAY ROLL; DUE TO BUSINESS DROP

Topeka, Kas., May 30.—(AP)—P. H. Lehman, general manager of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé railroad, said today a retrenchment program would be put into effect "in view of continued decreasing business."

"It is expected that reductions will be made in shop and maintenance of way forces and in such other forces as the circumstances may justify," he said.

It was said the curtailment program would be effective June 1. Unofficial reports were that nearly 100 shop employés here would be dropped.

Youth Drowned in Fall from Jackson Park Yacht

Henry Ristow, 19 years old, 2244 Keystone avenue, a telephone company employé, was drowned last night when he fell from the deck of a sailing boat in the Jackson Park yacht harbor after returning from a cruise on the lake. Ristow and two companions, Louis LaBelle, 23, of 1735 Catalpa avenue, and Richard Stevens, 23, of 7446 Kingston avenue, were preparing to moor the craft to its buoy when Ristow slipped on the west deck and plunged into the water. LaBelle dived after him in a rescue effort but Ristow did not reappear. Jackson Park coast guardsmen recovered the body fifteen minutes later.

FRENCH PROHIBIT BULL FIGHTS TO STOP DISORDERS

MELUN, France, May 30.—(AP)—The farce comedy of bull fighting in France apparently has come to an end. Following an attempt of several hundred persons yesterday to break up a bull fight here the prefect of Seine-et-Marne, acting under government orders, today prohibited fights scheduled in the temporary arena here for tomorrow and Sunday.

The organizers said they would exclude any bloodletting from the spectacle, but the authorities decided that, since disorders are likely to end such performances, they should not be permitted to begin.

Bull fighting is illegal in France, but because the penalty is light promoters frequently attempt to popularize the sport.

ROSENBERG—

In Memoriam.

MICHAEL ROSENBERG.

Passed away two years ago today.

FATHER.
Rest in peace.
Your work is carried on.

Your noble thoughts are given life
Among men;
And now and then,
When lovingly your name is thought,
A sigh is heard, a tear is dropt,
And we know even as you do
That your loss
Is endless grief
To all your friends.

But above the tears and sighs
Of all the friends you ever knew
There are many stifled cries
Much more poignant, no less true.

Cries subdued, unknown, unheard,
In aching hearts forever yours,
Forming sacred shrines to you
So long as life endures.
FROM WIFE, CHILDREN, BROTHERS AND SISTERS.

ROSENBERG—Michael Rosenberg. Sad and suddenly was the call;
So dearly loved by one and all.
His memory is as sweet today
As in the hour he passed away.

TRADE REVIEWS FIND BUSINESS IS ABOUT SAME

Changes Indicate Slower Pace.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 30.—"Cold or wet weather or both have been a drawback to trade and some crops, retarding sales and progress of final seeding of corn and other later planted crops in more northern areas," says Bradstreet's Review. "On the other hand, complaints of dry weather having injured the southwestern wheat crop, with some consequent hesitation in trade are noted. Taken as a whole the response to early holiday offerings at retail is not quite up to expectations. What is said to have been ideal planting and later weather conditions have attended the seeding of spring wheat in the old northwestern area.

"What changes are visible from the preceding week seem to indicate something like a slowing down in the south and at north Pacific coast points, where a further easing off in production of lumber has followed less than expected demand. In the grain markets there have been recorded new high prices for May and, in fact, since mid-April in wheat, but all of this advance has not been held.

Two Features.

"In the industries the two most notable features are a further slight slowing down in steel output, with some additional declines of prices, whereas in the cotton manufacturing industry a report by cotton mill authorities is that 73 per cent of the country's mill capacity has agreed to the curtailment plans formulated some weeks ago. In the steel trade the buying of pipe for gas lines is going forward in immense volume, one contract calling for the greatest length of pipe ever recorded. In the automobile trade May output in units promises to equal April, due to activity in the small car division.

"On balance the general situation of trade, industry and commodity prices shows little change, with an increasing disposition to wait and see what the late spring and early summer growing season has to develop in the country's general crop situation. This seems to point at the moment to the correctness of the view that, while trade is scraping the bottom, as it were, definite changes upward are not yet in sight.

Trade Ship Becalmed.

"In other words, the trade ship is becalmed, awaiting a favoring breeze, with retail lines awaiting the approach of settled warm weather for an impulse toward expanding sales and crops in the main, reporting good soil conditions, prepared to take advantage of seasonal growing weather."

"With the added restraints of holiday interruption and of unseasonable weather over a considerable area, repression of business activities has continued the rule," says Dun's. "Another month is ending much as it had begun, with few changes of special significance, and more than the usual repetition is necessary in reviewing the general situation. The state of inertia and of indecision, although less pronounced in some instances, extends to many branches of enterprise, while financial movements reflect similar characteristics."

Strawn Will Speak at Board of Trade Banquet

Silas H. Strawn will be the principal speaker at the banquet celebrating the opening of the new Board of Trade building on June 9, it was announced yesterday. Speeches also will be made by President John A. Bunnell and others. More than 2,200 persons, including leaders in commerce, finance, industry, and agriculture from all parts of the country, will attend the affair at the Stevens hotel. Present plans call for a parade of members and employés from temporary quarters to the new 44 story home at the head of La Salle street on the morning of June 9, trading to begin there on the stroke of 10 that morning.

Pathe Preferred Holders Prepare Proxies Appeal

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 30.—A second letter to holders of 8 per cent preferred stock of Pathé Exchange, Inc., has been prepared by the committee asking for proxies to elect a majority of the board, in reply to the company's letter opposing the committee's plans. Since the company has failed to pay at least eight successive quarterly dividends on the preferred, the owners of that stock have the right to elect a majority of the board. The committee seeking proxies for a majority of the 8,000 shares outstanding proposes to exercise this right and change the management.

Opines Gov't Relief May Go Too Far

BY SCRUTATOR.

Direct efforts of governments to equalize conditions for one class of workers with another or to favor especially those who are currently believed to be less prosperous than others may easily go too far.

The dangers are in two directions. First, the nonfavored classes may pay more than they should, which constitutes an injustice; and second, the supposedly favored class may not obtain the anticipated benefits.

We have lineups now on how the actions of the federal farm board may affect the whole mass of people. One side holds that it is paying too much for what the farmer is getting in the way of help. That side is composed in large part of business men, many of whom are the maligned middlemen dealing in farm products. Its plea is that it is un-American, and unwise, and unjust for the government to finance and advise a system of marketing that is designed to drive them out of business.

Farm Board Reply.

The courteous retort of the farm board members is that no intention exists to drive out any one who is doing good service, but that it is impossible to carry out the primary purpose of the agricultural act without disturbing some commercial operators. This argument might be taken to indicate that commercial organizations using credit and unable to pay commercial rates for it, while standing off cooperative competitors who can borrow from government at 2 per cent less, are inefficient.

Whatever the rights of the middleman or wholesale distributor, his cry for rights probably is unwise. He might do better if he concentrated on an effort to show that artificial help is not to benefit the supposedly favored agriculturist. His proposition might better be "The farmer is being hurt by this" than "Don't do me a personal wrong."

Ample Ammunition.

There is ample ammunition along that line. The earlier farm relief idea of giving cheaper money to the land owner might be used. Some time back the joint stock land banks, whose securities were sold technically as "instrumentalities of the government," had outstanding bonds for a face value of 650 millions. The market price was off more than 100 million of this, and several of the banks, which had lent on appraisals made by government agents, were in difficulty.

On the face of it, the bond buyers had lost 100 millions in furnishing cheap credit to farmers. But it is doubtful if any real benefit accrued to the borrowers. There are reports that many of the farms whose owners had defaulted in their payments on loans have been thrust on a depressed land market in scattered sections and may have caused a further fall in acreage prices more than sufficient to wipe out the virtual gift of the 100 millions by bondholders. The net result to agriculture is that efficient farmers have had kept for them, temporarily, 100 million dollars' worth of competition that in free economics would have been wiped out long ago.

May Stock Exchange Trading Shows Contrasts

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 30.—Statistics of stock exchange trading during May showed that the period was full of contrasts. The total trading for the month, 78,040,030 shares, was the smallest for May in two years. During the latter part of the month the volume of trading was stabilized at slightly more than 2,000,000 shares. During the slump at the beginning of the month trading ran as high as 8,279,000 shares in a single day. The smallest volume for any day was on May 22, when trading totaled 1,860,000 shares. A new high record for Saturday trading was established on May 3 when the turnover was 4,867,000 shares. On Saturday, May 17, trading fell to 790,000 shares, the smallest total for any Saturday since August, 1928.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 30.—The industries of the world are now in the hands of huge monopolies, and the era of new industrial undertakings is past, Ivar Kreuger, president of the Swedish firm of Kreuger & Toll Co. and the International Match corporation, declared in a speech before the Bond Club of New York.

"Does any one today seriously believe," he asked, "that there could be started, with a chance of success, an entirely new manufacturing company for electrical machinery or for telephones, or for cash registers, or for typewriting machines?"

In the case of industries depending upon natural resources, Mr. Kreuger said, such as the steel or the oil industry is, it is still more evident that a new enterprise would be seriously handicapped in the competition with older ones.

This fact is an important consideration which should not be forgotten in judging the value of shares in old established enterprises, Mr. Kreuger declared.

The tendency toward stabilization of industry is general for the whole world, he said, but it is particularly marked in Sweden. The list of securities of the Stockholm stock exchange does not contain a single company the business of which is less than twenty years old.

"I may also mention that during the last forty years no industrial Swedish bonds issued to the public have ever been in default."

Pointing out that industry is constantly becoming more stabilized despite the disturbances in economic life due to changes in the value of gold and tariff conditions, Mr. Kreuger said:

"If you consider how drastic have been the political and economic changes which have taken place since the beginning of the war you will find that very few of the large industrial companies of the world have disappeared, except through amalgamation, and that comparatively few new ones have been established in recent years. Today an industrial organization of any kind is so complicated and so difficult to create that, in many lines of business, it is practically impossible to start an entirely new enterprise."

Standard Brands.

Do you think the present financial condition of Standard Brands justifies an investment for a long pull with fair certainty of continuation of dividends?—L. F. W.

Standard Brands, Inc., was incorporated in June, 1929, as a consolidation of Fleischmann company, Royal Baking Powder company, and E. W. Gillett company, Ltd. Subsequently it acquired Chase & Sanborn, distributor of coffee and tea, and Widlar Food Products company. Fleischmann company, world's largest manufacturer of yeast and also a producer of vinegar and malt, is the largest factor in the new company and its extensive delivery system is being utilized in the distribution of other products.

The earnings report for the four months ended Dec. 31, 1929, the initial period of operation of the consolidated companies, showed net income of $5,258,252, which was equal to $37.09 per share earned on 141,755 preferred shares and 39 cents per share on 12,630,107 common shares.

Net income for the quarter ended March 31, 1930, was $3,496,226, or 26 cents per share on the common.

These figures, however, do not represent the true earning power of the company, because sufficient time has not elapsed to show the full result of economies resulting from the consolidation.

Much money is being spent to develop new products and new distribution methods and a heavy advertising campaign has been carried on. This campaign has resulted in an upward trend in sales. These initial extraordinary expenditures are being charged off currently and not amortized over a period of time. This conservative method of accounting is probably responsible for the low earnings figures reported by the company.

The consolidated balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1929, indicated current assets of $51,497,728 and current liabilities of $5,038,903, leaving a net working capital of $46,459,725. Surplus was $28,083,325.

Dividends on the common are $1.50 per year. The preferred is regarded as high grade. The common deserves a fairly good rating.

Foltis-Fischer.

Would you kindly give me your opinion on Foltis-Fischer chain restaurant stock quoted on New York curb?—Mrs. H. H. J.

Foltis-Fischer, Inc., operates a chain of 30 cafeterias in New York City and vicinity. Net income for 1929 was $23,721, equal to less than one-third the dividend requirement on 13,890 shares of $6 dividend cumulative preferred stock. There were also outstanding 125,000 no par common shares.

Preferred dividends were discontinued after the quarterly payment on Oct. 1, 1929.

The preferred is speculative and the common is more so.

NAME RECEIVERS FOR CORNSTALKS PRODUCTS CO., INC.

Danville, Ill., May 30.—(AP)—Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley of the Eastern Illinois district has appointed F. E. Butcher and Clint C. Tilton of Danville as receivers for the Cornstalks Products company, Inc., a Delaware corporation with headquarters in New York City and a plant at Tilton, Ill.

The appointments were made with the consent of the company and the action is described as a friendly receivership in equity designed to conserve the assets for a short period pending a reorganization.

Debts aggregating $250,000 for material and labor, $200,000 owed to stockholders in New York, cancelation of insurance, licenses and patents on which payments are in default are said to be the principal factors underlying the action taken to place the company in the hands of receivers. The bill for appointment of receivers was filed by attorneys for Elton Darling, a stockholder, with the consent of other stockholders.

The company established its plant at Tilton soon after its organization in 1927. The plant represents an investment of about $4,500,000. A few weeks ago a fire that burned for days in the cornstalk ricks outside the plant caused a loss estimated at nearly $70,000.

LIBBY-M'NEILL VOTE DIVIDEND ON PFD. STOCK

Directors of Libby, McNeill & Libby have authorized the payment of three years' accumulated dividends on the preferred stock of the company amounting to 21 per cent.

The payment will be made in shares of second preferred stock and the distribution will be made July 1 to holders of record June 13.

Revision of the company's capital structure which made the dividend payment possible was recently authorized by stockholders of the company.

North Western Westbound Trains Cut Running Time

The trains affected are the Overland Limited to San Francisco and the Los Angeles Limited. The time of another San Francisco train will be reduced one hour and 56 minutes, while the Portland train will cut its time an hour. Under the new schedules, the road's fastest train to San Francisco will make the run in 56 hours and to Los Angeles in 61 hours.

Surety Company Reports Indicate Business Pickup

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 30.—Reports from the surety companies indicate that their business is beginning to pick up generally. This is taken as an indication that building and construction programs are being expanded. It has been pointed out that, while this expansion may not have been felt to any great extent in New York and vicinity, the fact that surety companies operating here issue bonds for contractors all over the country offers a more general barometer of this phase of industry.

WOOL.

BOSTON, Mass., May 30.—(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin of Boston will say tomorrow:

"There is a broader demand for wool in the eastern seaboard markets and prices are firmer, though not quotably dearer this week. "The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from Jan. 1, 1930 to May 28, 1930, inclusive, were 55,712,000 pounds, against 76,378,000 pounds for the same period last year. New Offerings of Bonds for Week Are Low

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 30.—New offerings of bonds this week were the smallest for any week of the year to date, with a single exception. The total aggregated only $49,428,000, compared with the previous low of $46,882,000 for the week ended Jan. 10. One reason for the lightness of the new financing during the week was the approach of the holiday, so that virtually all of the new offerings were placed on the market early in the week.

The further postponement of the new German annuities loan had much to do with the cessation of new financing. It is understood that several pieces of new financing have been tacitly held up pending the floating of the American portion of the German issue. At present it is not expected that the German loan will reach the market before the end of next week, and probably not until the following week.

Utility Issues.

New public utility issues, three in number, constituted the bulk of this week's bond financing. The largest of these was an issue of $18,000,000 Brooklyn Union Gas company 5 per cent debentures which was brought out on a 4.80 per cent basis. The second largest was an issue of $16,000,000 Kansas Gas and Electric company 4½s priced to yield 4.85 per cent. The third loan was an issue of $3,000,000 Intercontinents Power company 6s, which were offered on a 6.25 per cent basis.

Due to the paucity of new municipal bond awards this week, only three new municipal issues were offered to investors, the largest of which was that of $2,110,000 East Orange [N. J.] 4½s, which were marketed at prices to net 3.50 to 4.20 per cent. The only other municipal issue larger than $1,000,000 was that of $1,450,000 City of Fort Worth [Texas] 4½s, priced to yield 4.40 per cent.

Foreign Loans.

The foreign loans offered this week comprised an issue of $2,200,000 City of Santiago [Chile] 7s on a 7.30 per cent basis, and a Canadian utility issue, that of $2,000,000 National Power and Light company, Ltd., 6s on a 6.05 per cent basis.

	This week.	Last week.
Public utility	$37,000,000	$ 35,852,000
State and municipal	4,718,000	8,181,000
Foreign	4,200,000	34,000,000
Railroad	3,510,000
U. S. government		60,000,000
Industrial		43,050,000
Totals	$49,428,000	$181,083,000

During the corresponding week a year ago new bond financing amounted to $56,831,000, with state and municipal financing accounting for $23,982,000. Next week new municipal financing will run comparatively light in view of the fact that fewer awards of large issues will be made than was the case this week.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST.

Wisconsin—Fair, slightly warmer Saturday; Sunday probably unsettled, showers by or before night, slightly warmer in extreme east portion.

Lower Michigan—Fair, slightly warmer Saturday; Sunday increasing cloudiness and warmer.

LIVERPOOL AND WINNIPEG HOLD WHEAT PRICES

Trading Is Largely Professional.

The New York and Chicago Stock exchanges and other leading security markets throughout the country will remain closed today. Commodity markets, including the Chicago Board of Trade, will be open. Banks will also be open.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liverpool and Winnipeg grain markets held the attention yesterday of traders anxious to speculate on the Memorial day holiday, all others being closed. News was in the main favorable to holders, and there is a growing sentiment in favor of higher prices for wheat. Trading, however, was largely professional, with many bears fighting advances in prices, only to run in on their short sales almost every day.

Weather conditions in western Canada are attracting attention, as it is dry in many sectons of Saskatchewan and Manitoba, with high winds blows the soil and damaging crops. Alberta had good rains on Thursday and favorable temperatures.

Liverpool Wheat.

Liverpool wheat started ¼c lower to ⅛c higher and closed unchanged for December to ¼c and ½c higher on other months. Limited pressure in Winnipeg other than by the pool which sold in that market and in Liverpool. There were also resellers there to take profits which made a mixed situation in the English market at the last. Chicago traders were also reported as buying in Liverpool.

Winnipeg wheat started at the lowest and advanced 2c, making a strong close at net gains of 1⅜c to 1⅞c. May was $1.13¾, July $1.14½, and October $1.16¾. May in Liverpool closed at $1.16¾, July $1.17, and December at $1.20½. Export business in wheat was light.

Wheat Abroad.

Liverpool cables to Logan & Bryan said that wheat abroad was offered cheaper than replacement, and their Winnipeg wheat advices indicated a gradually creeping market for wheat. Buenos Aires cables said that wheat opened unchanged and at 11 o'clock prices were unchanged; corn, ½ to 1c higher, June leading the upturn, being 59c, with July 58¼c. Oats, unchanged, and flax, ½ to 1½c higher than the previous day.

Their crop report from Winnipeg said damage from high winds and soil blowing ranged as high as 40 per cent in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Deliveries on May contracts in Winnipeg for the day were 348,000 bu; oats, 22,000 bu; rye, 12,000 bu; barley, 142,000 bu, and flax, 15,000 bu.

Arrivals at Winnipeg for the day were: Wheat, 781 cars; oats, 27 cars; rye, 17 cars; barley, 24 cars, and flax, 3 cars. This compares with last year arrivals of: Wheat, 242; oats, 67; rye, 8; barley, 27, and flax, 2 cars.

BRITISH PLANNING TO INVADE AUTO MARKETS OF CANADA, AUSTRALIA

Detroit, Mich., May 30.—(AP)—Announcement that British motor manufacturers are planning to invade the Canadian market was seen in some automotive circles here today as aimed not only at the Canadian home market, but possibly the Australian motor business as well.

Canada has provided the leading export market for the United States motor industry. At the same time its present automotive production is largely accounted for by subsidiaries or affiliates of United States automobile companies. Australia recently increased the import duty on automobile bodies, parts and assembled chasses, and this action is expected to curtail the volume of exports from the United States to that commonwealth.

British manufacturers established in Canada, as members of the empire would be granted preferential rates, and it is not impossible that the Australian market could be taken away from the United States.

Inasmuch as approximately one-third of all the automotive exports from the United States are taken by the British empire, the Canadian and Australian markets are important to the American automobile industry. Of the 66 foreign assembly plants operated by the American industry, ten are in Canada, ten in Australia and six in England. Many, if not all of these assembly plants, were established to escape high duty on completed cars. European producers, however, now are understood to be demanding and receiving higher rates on automotive parts, thus discounting much of the advantage formerly gained through foreign assembly.

Canadian production in 1929, according to the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, totalled 207,498 passenger cars and 55,797 trucks with an estimated value of $156,861,212. A little more than half of this production was exported from Canada.

SAYS BUSINESS SLUMP HARDER ON CITY WORKERS

The city worker has been hit harder than the farmer by the business depression, according to a review of the agricultural situation issued by the Corn Belt Dailies. The publication reports indications of a bonteous harvest this year, which, it predicts, would mean new wealth, ample food for all and activity in transportation, manufacture, and distribution.

"The farmer is never out of a job," the journal says. "The worst that can happen to him, outside of actual brankruptcy, is reduced income through lower prices. He always has a home for his family, and in case of necessity, can draw on the resources of his own farm for food.

"While the level of farm prices is much below a year ago," the paper declares, "the decline has not been as great as in the case of commodity prices in general. Thus, the farmer's relative position is actually improved. The farmer's chief complaint is lack of credit, a situation aggregated in some communities by banking weakness," the article asserts.

BANK CLEARINGS SHOW DROP FOR WEEK OF 5 DAYS

Bank clearings this week at leading cities in the United States, as reported to Dun's Review, amount to $7,599,961,000, a decrease of 22.5 per cent from those of a year ago. At New York City clearings of $5,027,000,000 are 27.4 per cent lower, while the aggregate for the principal centers outside of New York, $2,572,961,000, is 10.8 per cent below last year's.

The week, both this year and last, included only five business days, owing to the holiday. The reduction in bank clearings continues quite large, the report for the current week being slightly more unsatisfactory than those for the three preceding weeks in May. The losses are especially heavy at New York City and at most of the larger western and southern centers and at some cities on the Pacific coast.

BELIEVE UNITED CORP. AIMS TO GIGANTIC SIZE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 30.—A gigantic super-power system rivaling in size the $4,000,000,000 nationwide Bell Telephone linkup of the American Telephone and Telegraph company and stretching over the entire eastern half of the United States is the ultimate aim of powerful banking interests sponsoring the United Corporation, according to reports in Wall street.

Seventeen months ago this unique child of this dizzy age of billions was born, representing in its structure, methods and purpose the very latest word in twentieth century financial and engineering science formed under the aegis of the powerful banking houses of J. P. Morgan & Co., Drexel & Co., of Philadelphia and Bonbright & Co., Inc.

Young Man at Head.

Bonbright & Co. has been prominent in public utility banking for many years, and headed by George H. Howard, youthful corporation lawyer. The United corporation announced from the beginning that it would accomplish its purposes not by controlling utility systems but through acquisition of minority interests in them, thus giving United an important voice in the management of companies in which it became interested.

Utility Interests.

To date United corporation has acquired substantial interests in public utility corporations with total assets of $3,985,000,000, operating in 15 states. Actual control, of course, is not obtained or yet contemplated, but the weight of the authority exercised by the new organization is admitted to be worthy of much consideration.

The purpose behind these maneuvers, while not officially disclosed, is obviously to effect a linkup between the companies involved. Interconnection of the natural gas lines of Columbia with the consumer distribution systems of Consolidated Gas, Public Service and United Gas Improvement would serve the greatest industrial centers of the nation on the Atlantic seaboard with the cheapest form of fuel now known.

Detroit Bank Finds Mich. Business Slightly Better

New York, May 30.—(AP)—Slightly improved business conditions in Michigan during May over previous months are noted by the First National Bank of Detroit in its monthly review. The review states, however, that a marked decrease is still shown from the same period last year. Production of electric energy, industrial consumption of electrical power and number of automobiles manufactured still are considerably below 1929.

Canada Foreign-Domestic Capital Ratio Holds Same

New York, May 30.—(AP)—Outside capital is being invested in Canada at a good rate, but the Royal Bank of Canada reports that the ratio of foreign capital to domestic capital shows no increase. The bank estimates outside capital at $6,150,000,000, which includes $3,650,000,000 from the United States.

Packard 129 Eight.

It has never been our good fortune to have a car as new as this in our used car stock. It's a 1929 six 8, 7 pass. sedan on the long wheelbase; has unusually low mileage and is like new in every respect. This Packard represents an expenditure of almost $5,000 but we were fortunate in obtaining it at a very favorable figure, so we marked it at $2,350 for quick sale. It is very fully equipped; liberal terms. PIERCE-ARROW, 2345 S. Michigan-av.
